Calvin "Bear Ribs."
The Diamond Trust.
Wall Street Doesn't Know.
Ford's Flax Mill.

ARTHUR BRISBANE.

The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The Indian[illegible] announced in a cable[illegible]ake President Coolidge a member of their tribe and confer upon him the name of "Bear Ribs." Jovith Badger and Pius Shoots first wrote the president a nice letter, telling him that his name "Bear Ribs" was that of a very wise Indian, killed by his tribe because he advised them to make peace with the Americans long ago. If old "Bear Ribs" had kept out of peace conferences, and advisings, he'd have died a natural death, Mr. President.

One of the tightest trusts in the world is the big diamond trust, managed by owners of South African diamond mines. Just now that trust is bothered by over-production of diamonds. Last year the African trust sold about $37,000,000 worth of diamonds, against $27,000,000 in 1923. The market fears disorganization.

A few years ago Thomas F. Ryan, of New York, who isn't the easiest man to deal with in a financial fight, bought African diamond mines. He sends his diamonds out by flying machine. It may be that he is worrying the diamond trust, as he once bothered the tobacco trust here in the United States until it took him to its bosom.

Herbert Hoover tells his fellow citizens not to pay attention to the Wall street slump, and not to believe that it means anything serious as regards business prosperity generally.

It only means, says Mr. Hoover, that Wall Street is a poor barometer. That may comfort you, although it won't comfort some of the geese that gambled in the highly speculative stocks and have now gone back to work to earn some more money.

Cotton states will be interested in the news that Russia is increasing cotton acreage this year by 300,000 acres.

More interesting to cotton growers are experiments that Henry Ford is making with flax. He believes that flax can be produced at a price lower than the price of cotton. He's planted more than 1,000 acres, and he showed this writer in his flax factory the other day samples of carded flax with a wonderfully long staple.

Mr. Ford plans to use flax instead of cotton in the material used for covering seats of Ford cars. He believes that machinery, working at low cost, will replace nearly all hand labor that has made linen so expensive. Any good soil will grow flax, he says, and the boll weevil doesn't attack it.

However, cotton growers will wait a while before abandoning their favorite crop.

Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, urges President Coolidge to raise the American flag over more territory near the North Pole. We ought to get all the land we can up there, if only for landing airplanes, says he.

There is wealth up there under the ground, if it ever seems worth while to go after it. The Rockefeller family, patiently plodding toward financial prosperity, has sent oil prospectors up there, struck oil, and plenty of it, inside the Arctic circle. But they don't mean to get it out yet. It would cost fifty millions to run in a pipe line.

In a few thousand years, as the pole swings slowly around, pointing to the different stars, which in turn become our "North Star," the climate up there will change and the land might be very valuable.

Before then, however, nations may cease to quarrel about land, and what we call the United States may be called by a different name.

A young Swedish lady with a fine figure, who has come here to dance for a living, says she drinks only champagne. Champagne and nothing else "preserves a beautiful slender figure," so that young woman says.

It may do that, but plenty of men and women with figures far from slender may be seen drinking plenty of champagne.

Whatever champagne may do for the figure, it is death on the kidneys and other parts of the man's internal machinery.

Any wine that bubbles is a wine that hasn't finished fermenting; and any person that allows the process of fermentation to be carried on inside himself is a foolish person.

Champagne is not a true wine at all. The French, that make it, sell it to English, Russians and Americans. They drink their own national, sound still wines.

The postmaster general punished six employes, reducing them to a lower rank, because of their activity in getting more money for postoffice workers.

What about members of congress that actually voted for their own increase. The public doesn't object to their having it, any more than it objects to the pay of the postoffice employes being raised. But you can't help noticing a certain difference.

Three Seamstresses, Rescued, Say They Heard Explosion.

STEUBENVILLE, April 2.—Marking the third time in his busin[illegible] xperience in which he has suff[illegible] a total loss, fire last night des[illegible]d the Market street department st[illegible], owned by Samuel Reiner, one of the city's largest business establishments, causing a loss estimated at $175,000.

The blaze, the origin of which is unknown, broke out at 6:30 o'clock, and for a time threatened to sweep adjoining business houses, but it was controlled after a stubborn fight by 22 firemen, aided by scores of volunteers. Every available foot of hose was laid in fighting the blaze.

Aside from the Reiner store, only the E. A. Klein establishment, a men's store, was damaged. This firm's stock was slightly damaged by smoke.

Fire Chief Investigates.

Reiner, who lost $10,000 last week, when the Stanton hotel was damaged by fire, today estimated the loss of his stock in the store at $150,000, while the damage to the building, also his property, was placed at $25,000. Although the entire stock of dry goods, etc., in the establishment was destroyed, only the first floor of the two-story building was badly damaged.

Three seamstresses, who were working in the building, were rescued by Patrolman Howard Underwood. They said they heard an explosion a few minutes before the smoke drove them to the door.

Fire Chief Edward Green today was investigating the blaze. Firemen believe the firse originated in the basement near a furnace.

One Man Taken to Hospital.

Six firemen were overcome by smoke. Captain Kessell and Noselmen Dean Aldridge and Matt Fiest, were dragged out of the cellar by citizens. After having facial burns treated they returned to their work.

Three other firemen, including Chief Edward Green, were later overcome and carried from the burning building. Physicians were kept busy reviving the men. Thomas Trainer, a volunteer, was placed in an ambulance and rushed to the Ohio Valley hospital. Firemen John Dawson and the chief later went back into the danger zone.

CITY MAY GET AIR LINE PLACE

Capt. Eugene Reinartz Speaker at Kiwanis Luncheon.

By providing a landing field and marking the name of the city upon the roof of one of the city's highest buildings, East Liverpool may be placed upon the air route from Washington to the Pacific coast, Captain Eugene Reinartz, U. S. Army, told members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon in the Larkins annex, Market street, at noon today.

Captain Reinartz, who recently returned from the Philippine Islands, and who is now visiting at the home of his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Reinartz, Jackson street, was a guest at the meeting. He declared that if a landing field could be arranged, at least a part of the planes operating from coast to coast would stop here on emergency occasions. He also lauded Governor General Leonard Wood for his work in the Philippines.

Attorney W. B. Hill, chairman of the state efficiency contest committee, discussed the proposed contest, and asserted that East Liverpool was in

Siren Horns Warn To Clear Streets For Fire Trucks

The fire department has installed a siren horn at the corner of St. Clair avenue and Sixth street, in front of the Little building.

The horn, which may be heard for several blocks, will be used when the department answers calls west of St. Clair avenue. Often the fire trucks, it is claimed, have been held up because of traffic congestion in the Diamond. The siren which is operated from the Central fire station, will start blowing when the call is received as a warning clear the streets.

75,000 FRENCH STUDENTS JOIN IN BIG STRIKE

Protest is Made Against Suspension of Dean Berthelemy.

Spain Also Catches Fever as Medical Classmen Quit.

PARIS, April 2.—University students in all parts of France went on strike today against the suspension of Dean Berthelemy of the law school, an incident which already has provoked a demonstration requiring the police repression in the Latin quarter and a tumultous session of the chamber of deputies.

"Seventy-five thousand university students in all parts of France started on strike today, Jean Gattiano, president of the students' association, said.

"There are 25,000 in Paris alone, including 400 Americans, who absented themselves from lectures at the university this morning. Protesting against politicians' interference with administration of the law faculty," he continued.

"We have received assurances of similar sympathy strikes at the universities at Caen, Clermont-Ferrand, Bordeaux, Dijon and Strassburg.

Monster Mass Meeting.

"This afternoon we are holding a monster mass meeting in the Place du Pantheon to pay homage to Dean Berthelemy. We will honor him in front of his home in the Rue Jean Bart."

Dean Berthelemy opposed the nomination of Georges Scelle to a lectureship on international law and the minister of education suspended the dean and all the law school faculty.

PARIS, April 2.—Spain has caught the student demonstration fever, according to dispatches today from Barcelona. Medical students there, the dispatches said, demonstrated against the appointment of Martinez Vargas

Film Producer Held For Perjury; Gish Case is Dismissed

NEW YORK, April 2.—Questioning the sanity of Charles H. Duell, film producer, and holding him in $10,000 bail for perjury in testimony and affidavits, Federal Judge Mack today dismissed Duell's action against Lillian Gish, film star, to restrain her from acting under any management but his own.

In addition Judge Mack said he would institute proceedings to have Duell disbarred from all state and federal courts.

JAMES GAGLIARDI, HELD FOR MURDER, MAY KNOW FATE BEFORE NIGHTFALL

Prosecutor Brookes and Attorney George T. Farrell Make Closing Arguments in Wellsville Shooting Case.

PRISONER TAKES WITNESS STAND

Judge Wood's Charge to Jury is Expected to be Delivered at 3 p. m., Following Which Jury Will Retire.

James Gagliardi, 45, of Wellsville, charged with first degree murder as a result of the death of Rocco Benvento, in Wellsville last Feb. 22, may know his fate before nightfall.

Indications at 1 p. m., when court reconvened following the noon recess, were that the case would go to the jury shortly after 3 o'clock, following the closing argument by Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes and the charge by Judge Calvin H. Wood, of Mt. Gilead.

Self-defense, Says Hanley.

Attorney Jesse C. Hanley, for the defense, resuming his argument to the jury, explained a plat of the territory in the Third-Commerce street district of Wellsville, when court opened this morning. Hanley opened the argument during the afternoon session yesterday.

"There is no evidence in this case that Jim Gagliardi made any threats toward Rocco Benvanto," Hanley said. "There is evidence, however, that Benvento was the aggressor. I think the evidence shows clearly self-defense.

Attorney George T. Farrell followed Hanley with the closing argument for the defendant. He reviewed the testimony of practically every witness on the stand. Farrall, at first addressed his remarks to the court and cited the cases of Jordan against Harris, of Jefferson county, an opinion being rendered by Judge Laubie of the circuit court, wherein self-defense was denied by the court.

Farrell then began his statement to the jury by reviewing the character of the prisoner.

Prosecutor's Argument.

"Jim was never arrested for fighting," Farrell said. "That's important. Jim was the peacemaker when Rocco began to fight in the home of Mike Desmonia. A matter of self-defense has been proven in this case by the preponderance of evidence."

When Farrell finished, the court ordered a brief recess and then Prosecuting Attorney R. M. Brookes began the closing arguments for the state.

REV. J. F. SANT IS ORDAINED

Services are Held in Episcopal Church at Delaware.

Richard Sant, of this city, today returned from Delaware, where he witnessed the ordination of his brother, Rev. John Frances Sant, which took place in St. Peter's Episcopal church Tuesday morning.

The service was in charge of the Right Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, D. D., Springfield, bishop coadjutor of southern Ohio. About 20 members of the clergy from other parts of the diocese and other Delaware pastors attended the service.

Rev. Mr. Sant, who graduated from college last spring, has been pastor of the Delaware church since June. He is a son of the late Thomas C. Sant of this city. In addition to his brother Richard, he also has a step brother, Thomas H. Sant, of Thompson avenue.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES ARE ARRANGED FOR CHURCHES HERE

Holy Week Programs are Announced by Pastors.

NO UNION MEET

Meditation on Death of Christ During Afternoon.

Good Friday services will be held in most churches here, it was announced today.

Holy Week programs have been arranged in some churches, while in others only afternoon or evening services will be held on Good Friday.

The Good Friday service in the First Methodist Episcopal church will begin at 3 o'clock, with the Woman's Home Missionary society in charge. Dr. F. G. Fowler, pastor of the church, will speak. Beginning at 4 o'clock, there will be a communion service, which will continue until 7:30 o'clock, after which a cantata, "From Calvary To Olivet," will be sung by the choir, under the direction of Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

A service for meditation and prayer will be held in the First Church of Christ between 3 and 4 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Bert R. Johnson, pastor.

Holy Week services, in preparation for communion, will be conducted in the First United Presbyterian church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock and on Friday and Saturday afternoons at 2 o'clock.

Evangelistic Services.

Services will be held every evening next week except Saturday, in the First Methodist Protestant church. The services will be evangelistic in nature and will be in charge of Rev. John F. Dimit, pastor.

Preparatory services to communion, which will be distributed Easter Sunday, will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 7:45 o'clock Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

In the St. John's Lutheran church, services will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:45 o'clock and also Friday afternoon from 12:30 to 3 o'clock.

Services will be conducted on Good Friday in the St. Stephen's Episcopal church in charge of Rev. J. D. Whitacomb, of Cleveland.

A good Friday service will be conducted in the St. Aloysius Catholic church, begining at 2 p. m.

But one East End church has arranged a Good Friday service, that being the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, where services will be held beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Stokes, pastor, will be in charge.

Jack Harris, Burned At Ambridge, Able To Leave Hospital

Jack Harris, an employe of the Ambridge Bridge company, who was burned several months ago when he was partially buried in an ash pit at the plant, has been discharged from the Sewickley hospital and returned to his home on Seventh street, this city.

Three Asphyxiated In Home for Aged; Score are Unharmed

NEW YORK, April 2.—Three inmates of the German Evangelical Home for the Aged, in Brooklyn, were killed by illuminating gas today because the windows of their rooms were closed.

The dead:

ADAM MEUSER, 75 years old.

MICHAEL HEMRICH, 74 years old.

JULIUS HENGSTLER, 77.

All were widowers.

A score of other old men were not affected either because the transoms over their doors leading into a hallway were shut or because the windows of their rooms were open.

Braving the fires of temptation is Samuel Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, who bet $10,000 in May, 1924, that he wouldn't take a drink for a year. With two months to go, he is vacationing in Bermuda, where it would only cost him $10,000.25 to "have one."

GAS TAX BILL AUTHOR TURNS GUNS ON FOES

Vigorous Barrage is Laid Down by Representative Brown.

HITS OIL MEN

Charges Motorists Will Pay Despite Action on Measure.

COLUMBUS, April 2. — Opponents of the proposed gasoline tax were made the target today for a vigorous barrage laid down by Representative John T. Brown, Champaign county, sponsor of the gas tax bill.

Brown charged that oil companies, which are among the most bitter opponents of the proposed tax, will continue to collect several million dollars per year as a result of similar taxes in neighboring states and "keep this sum in their treasuries," instead of the state using the money for road repairs, if the gas tax bill is lost.

"The motorists of Ohio will continue to pay the gas tax as we are doing today, whether we pass this law or not, since every state on our border has such a law," Brown charged. "It is easy to see why the oil companies are opposing the gasoline tax bill."

Charges that the gas tax bill, as passed, is riddled with errors were declared false, and Brown asserted he was confident the courts would find the bill constitutional, "even though the bitter opposition insists on putting it to the public in a false light to create prejudice."

"Every motorist in Ohio should welcome the passage of this law which spells better roads and saving in tires, gasoline and repairs. Far in ex-

SMITH FUNERAL HERE SATURDAY

Funeral services for Harry Smith, 19 years old, who was suffocated to death by gasoline fumes, while pinned beneath a farm tractor on his father's farm, near Cannons Mill, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street, with Rev. P. W. Macauley, pastor of the Lisbon Presbyterian church in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body tomorrow afternoon from 3 until 5 and in the evening from 7:30 until 9 o'clock.

MASTER BANDIT DENIES HE WAS EVER AT SCENE OF MAN-KILLING

Gerald Chapman, Notorious Desperado, Testifies at Trial.

CROWD PRESENT

Prisoner, Fully at Ease, Seems Willing to Explain.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 2.—A pin could be heard drop in the courtroom here today when Gerald Chapman, notorious desperado, walked calmly to the witness stand to defend himself against the charge of shooting to death Policeman James Skelly in a department store hold-up in New Britain, Conn., last Oct. 12.

It was exactly 10:50 o'clock when Attorney Frederick J. Groehl of the defense counsel, turned to the bandit and said:

"Gerald Chapman."

Prisoner Appeared at Ease.

The words had an electrical effect upon the crowd in the court room. There was a creaking of seats, then an ominous silence and a craning of necks.

Chapman rose quickly and walked quietly to the witness stand, accompanied by a guard.

The bandit wore a dark blue suit without a vest, a white shirt and knitted blue tie. His hair was parted immaculately in the middle.

The star witness for the defense appeared fully at ease, sitting with one leg crossing the other. He listened intently to the questions submitted by his counsel, answering in a firm, even tone.

Never in New Britain.

"Can you tell us how you met Walter S[illegible]an?" Groehl asked.

"It was suggested by Dr. Johnson," Chapman answered, brushing his hair with his hand.

"Dr. Johnson is George Anderson?"

"Yes."

"Where you ever in New Britain?"

TORTURE TRIAL FOR JAZZ BABY

Youthful Matricide Faces Ordeal in Fight Over Sanity.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Another chapter of the tragedy of a 17-year-old girl being driven to madness, if she has not already passed the border line of insanity, was to be enacted here today when Dorothy Ellingson, youthful matricide, faced for the eighth day the ordeal of "trial by torture."

Admission came today from state alienists that the court proceedings which have been halted time after time by the girl's collapse, would drive her insane. Defense alienists claim the girl is already insane and her counsel contend she was insane Jan. 13 when she killed her mother.

Court was to open today with Earl Ellingson, 24-year-old brother of the broken "jazz baby," on the stand. Twice during his testimony late yesterday in which he charged his sister with theft and told of having whipped her for this cause, Dorothy fainted.

Following him on the stand, Joseph Ellingson, father of the girl, was to tell of an occasion three months before she was born when he awoke in his home in Minneapolis to find the hands of his wife, mother of Dorothy, gripped about his throat in an effort to choke him to death. Mrs. Ellingson fell into a swoon, he was to testify, when he forced her to release her hold on his throat and for some time thereafter was nervously and mentally ill.

NO MERGERS OR CONSOLIDATIONS CONTEMPLATED IN SALE OF DODGE BROTHERS' AUTOMOBILE PLANT

DETROIT, April 2.—Purchase contracts under which full control of Dodge Brothers, second largest automobile plant in the world, passes to the Wall Street banking house of Dillon, Read and Company for a cash price estimated at between $110,000,000 and $125,000,000, are being drawn in Detroit today.

This announcement, made early today by A. C. Schwartz, representing Dillon, Read and Company, was confirmed by John Ballantyne, treasurer of Dodge Brothers. The statement declares that no mergers or consolidations are contemplated and that Dodge Brothers will operate as in the past—an independent concern.

This disavowal of intention to consolidate was designed to set at rest rumors that the purchase of Dodge Brothers was the first step in a gigantic move to form a combination including Packard Motor company, Hudson Motor Car company and the Briggs Body Corporation, a consolidation that would rival the General Motors Corporation.

Not Rival of Morgan.

In financial circles in Detroit doubt was also expressed regarding the reports that J. P. Morgan & Co. were rivaling Dillon, Read & Co. in bidding for the property. There were intimations here that the two financial groups should be classed as anything but rivals.

The statement of Mr. Schwartz, representing Dillon, Read & Co., follows:

"An agreement has been reached for the sale of Dodge Brothers, Inc., to Dillon, Read & Co. of New York and contracts of purchase are now being drawn. The price to be paid can not be made known at this time.

"Consolidation of the Dodge company with any other company or companies is not in contemplation by the purchasers and any and all rumors of consolidations and mergers resulting from this move are entirely without foundation.

"It is the intention that Dodge Brothers shall continue to be operated as an independent concern without any change from its present policies or in the present personnel of its management."

Mr. Schwartz and his two associates from New York, E. G. Wilmer, who is chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, which is now under the financial direction of Dillon, Read and company, and S. W. Howland, gave out their statement in the presence of Wesson Seyburn, a son-in-law of Mrs. John F. Dodge and other representatives of the John F and Horace E. Dodge estates.

None of the party would add to the statement the least comment, and all refused to make any statement on the amount that changed hands in what ranks as one of the biggest automobile company sales in the country's financial history.

The negotiations were handled for the two Mrs. Dodges and their children by John F. Ballantyne and Charles P. Spicer. The former is treasurer of Dodge Brothers and trustee of Horace Dodge's estate. Beside the widow there are Horace E. Dodge, a shipbuilder, and Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell, wife of James H. R. Cromwell of Philadelphia, affiliated with the noted eastern banking house of E. T. Stotesbury and Company.

Ford Not Interested.

Mr. Spicer is vice-president of the

HEAVY DEMAND FOR AUTO TAGS

Demands for automobile license plates were heavy at the distributing agency of the George H. Owen and company on yesterday and today, due to the 25 per cent reduction in fees, which became effective on April 1.

About 240 sets of plates for pleasure cars and trucks were issued Wednesday and up to the noon hour today. The present rates will be effective until July 1, when another 25 per cent cut will be made for the balance of the year.

Rates on pleasure cars are reduced from $8, $12 and $20 to $6, $9 and $15, respectively. A similar reduction is made on the fees for trucks, trailers, motorcycles, side cars and pleasure-commercial machines.

Captain Reinartz, who recently returned from the Philippine Islands, and who is now visiting at the home of his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Reinartz, Jackson street, was a guest at the meeting. He declared that if a landing field could be arranged, at least a part of the planes operating from coast to coast would stop here on emergency occasions. He also lauded Governor General Leonard Wood for his work in the Philippines.

Attorney W. B. Hill, chairman of the state efficiency contest committee, discussed the proposed contest, and asserted that East Liverpool was in

PRISONER TAKES WITNESS STAND

Judge Wood's Charge to Jury is Expected to be Delivered at 3 p. m., Following Which Jury Will Retire.

James Gagliardi, 45, of Wellsville, charged with first degree murder as a result of the death of Rocco Benvento, in Wellsville last Feb. 22, may know his fate before nightfall.

Indications at 1 p. m., when court reconvened following the noon recess, were that the case would go to the jury shortly after 3 o'clock, following the closing argument by Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes and the charge by Judge Calvin H. Wood, of Mt. Gilead.

Self-defense, Says Hanley.

Attorney Jesse C. Hanley, for the defense, resuming his argument to the jury, explained a plat of the territory in the Third-Commerce street district of Wellsville, when court opened this morning. Hanley opened the argument during the afternoon session yesterday.

"There is no evidence in this case that Jim Gagliardi made any threats toward Rocco Benvanto," Hanley said. "There is evidence, however, that Benvento was the aggressor. I think the evidence shows clearly self-defense.

Attorney George T. Farrell followed Hanley with the closing argument for the defendant. He reviewed the testimony of practically every witness on the stand. Farrall, at first addressed his remarks to the court and cited the cases of Jordan against Harris, of Jefferson county, an opinion being rendered by Judge Laubie of the circuit court, wherein self-defense was denied by the court.

Farrell then began his statement to the jury by reviewing the character of the prisoner.

Prosecutor's Argument.

"Jim was never arrested for fighting," Farrell said. "That's important. Jim was the peacemaker when Rocco began to fight in the home of Mike Desmonia. A matter of self-defense has been proven in this case by the preponderance of evidence."

When Farrell finished, the court ordered a brief recess and then Prosecuting Attorney R. M. Brookes began the closing arguments for the state.

Siren Horns Warn To Clear Streets For Fire Trucks

The fire department has installed a siren horn at the corner of St. Clair avenue and Sixth street, in front of the Little building.

The horn, which may be heard for several blocks, will be used when the department answers calls west of St. Clair avenue. Often the fire trucks, it is claimed, have been held up because of traffic congestion in the Diamond. The siren which is operated from the Central fire station, will start blowing when the call is received as a warning clear the streets.

75,000 FRENCH STUDENTS JOIN IN BIG STRIKE

OTHERS TO ACT

Spain Also Catches Fever as Medical Classmen Quit.

PARIS, April 2.—University students in all parts of France went on strike today against the suspension of Dean Berthelemy of the law school, an incident which already has provoked a demonstration requiring the police repression in the Latin quarter and a tumultous session of the chamber of deputies.

"Seventy-five thousand university students in all parts of France started on strike today, Jean Gattiano, president of the students' association, said.

"There are 25,000 in Paris alone, including 400 Americans, who absented themselves from lectures at the university this morning. Protesting against politicians' interference with administration of the law faculty," he continued.

"We have received assurances of similar sympathy strikes at the universities at Caen, Clermont-Ferrand, Bordeaux, Dijon and Strassburg.

Monster Mass Meeting.

"This afternoon we are holding a monster mass meeting in the Place du Pantheon to pay homage to Dean Berthelemy. We will honor him in front of his home in the Rue Jean Bart."

Dean Berthelemy opposed the nomination of Georges Scelle to a lectureship on international law and the minister of education suspended the dean and all the law school faculty.

PARIS, April 2.—Spain has caught the student demonstration fever, according to dispatches today from Barcelona. Medical students there, the dispatches said, demonstrated against the appointment of Martinez Vargas

Film Producer Held For Perjury; Gish Case is Dismissed

NEW YORK, April 2.—Questioning the sanity of Charles H. Duell, film producer, and holding him in $10,000 bail for perjury in testimony and affidavits, Federal Judge Mack today dismissed Duell's action against Lillian Gish, film star, to restrain her from acting under any management but his own.

In addition Judge Mack said he would institute proceedings to have Duell disbarred from all state and federal courts.

REV. J. F. SANT IS ORDAINED

Services are Held in Episcopal Church at Delaware.

Richard Sant, of this city, today returned from Delaware, where he witnessed the ordination of his brother, Rev. John Frances Sant, which took place in St. Peter's Episcopal church Tuesday morning.

The service was in charge of the Right Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, D. D., Springfield, bishop coadjutor of southern Ohio. About 20 members of the clergy from other parts of the diocese and other Delaware pastors attended the service.

Rev. Mr. Sant, who graduated from college last spring, has been pastor of the Delaware church since June. He is a son of the late Thomas C. Sant of this city. In addition to his brother Richard, he also has a step-brother, Thomas H. Sant, of Thompson avenue.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES ARE ARRANGED FOR CHURCHES HERE

Holy Week Programs are Announced by Pastors.

NO UNION MEET

Meditation on Death of Christ During Afternoon.

Good Friday services will be held in most churches here, it was announced today.

Holy Week programs have been arranged in some churches, while in others only afternoon or evening services will be held on Good Friday.

The Good Friday service in the First Methodist Episcopal church will begin at 3 o'clock, with the Woman's Home Missionary society in charge. Dr. F. G. Fowler, pastor of the church, will speak. Beginning at 4 o'clock, there will be a communion service, which will continue until 7:30 o'clock, after which a cantata, "From Calvary To Olivet," will be sung by the choir, under the direction of Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

A service for meditation and prayer will be held in the First Church of Christ between 3 and 4 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Bert R. Johnson, pastor.

Holy Week services, in preparation for communion, will be conducted in the First United Presbyterian church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock and on Friday and Saturday afternoons at 2 o'clock.

Evangelistic Services.

Services will be held every evening next week except Saturday, in the First Methodist Protestant church. The services will be evangelistic in nature and will be in charge of Rev. John F. Dimit, pastor.

Preparatory services to communion, which will be distributed Easter Sunday, will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 7:45 o'clock Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

In the St. John's Lutheran church, services will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:45 o'clock and also Friday afternoon from 12:30 to 3 o'clock.

Services will be conducted on Good Friday in the St. Stephen's Episcopal church in charge of Rev. J. D. Whitacomb, of Cleveland.

A good Friday service will be conducted in the St. Aloysius Catholic church, begining at 2 p. m.

But one East End church has arranged a Good Friday service, that being the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, where services will be held beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Stokes, pastor, will be in charge.

Three Asphyxiated In Home for Aged; Score are Unharmed

NEW YORK, April 2.—Three inmates of the German Evangelical Home for the Aged, in Brooklyn, were killed by illuminating gas today because the windows of their rooms were closed.

The dead:

ADAM MEUSER, 75 years old.

MICHAEL HEMRICH, 74 years old.

JULIUS HENGSTLER, 77.

All were widowers.

A score of other old men were not affected either because the transoms over their doors leading into a hallway were shut or because the windows of their rooms were open.

Braving the fires of temptation is Samuel Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, who bet $10,000 in May, 1924, that he wouldn't take a drink for a year. With two months to go, he is vacationing in Bermuda, where it would only cost him $10,000.25 to "have one."

GAS TAX BILL AUTHOR TURNS GUNS ON FOES

Charges Motorists Will Pay Despite Action on Measure.

COLUMBUS, April 2. — Opponents of the proposed gasoline tax were made the target today for a vigorous barrage laid down by Representative John T. Brown, Champaign county, sponsor of the gas tax bill.

Brown charged that oil companies, which are among the most bitter opponents of the proposed tax, will continue to collect several million dollars per year as a result of similar taxes in neighboring states and "keep this sum in their treasuries," instead of the state using the money for road repairs, if the gas tax bill is lost.

"The motorists of Ohio will continue to pay the gas tax as we are doing today, whether we pass this law or not, since every state on our border has such a law," Brown charged. "It is easy to see why the oil companies are opposing the gasoline tax bill."

Charges that the gas tax bill, as passed, is riddled with errors were declared false, and Brown asserted he was confident the courts would find the bill constitutional, "even though the bitter opposition insists on putting it to the public in a false light to create prejudice."

"Every motorist in Ohio should welcome the passage of this law which spells better roads and saving in tires, gasoline and repairs. Far in ex-

SMITH FUNERAL HERE SATURDAY

Funeral services for Harry Smith, 19 years old, who was suffocated to death by gasoline fumes, while pinned beneath a farm tractor on his father's farm, near Cannons Mill, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street, with Rev. P. W. Macauley, pastor of the Lisbon Presbyterian church in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body tomorrow afternoon from 3 until 5 and in the evening from 7:30 until 9 o'clock.

MASTER BANDIT DENIES HE WAS EVER AT SCENE OF MAN-KILLING

Gerald Chapman, Notorious Desperado, Testifies at Trial.

Prisoner, Fully at Ease, Seems Willing to Explain.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 2. —A pin could be heard drop in the courtroom here today when Gerald Chapman, notorious desperado, walked calmly to the witness stand to defend himself against the charge of shooting to death Policeman James Skelly in a department store hold-up in New Britain, Conn., last Oct. 12.

It was exactly 10:50 o'clock when Attorney Frederick J. Groehl of the defense counsel, turned to the bandit and said:

"Gerald Chapman."

Prisoner Appeared at Ease.

The words had an electrical effect upon the crowd in the court room. There was a creaking of seats, then an ominous silence and a craning of necks.

Chapman rose quickly and walked quietly to the witness stand, accompanied by a guard.

The bandit wore a dark blue suit without a vest, a white shirt and knitted blue tie. His hair was parted immaculately in the middle.

The star witness for the defense appeared fully at ease, sitting with one leg crossing the other. He listened intently to the questions submitted by his counsel, answering in a firm, even tone.

Never in New Britain.

"Can you tell us how you met Walter S[illegible]pan?" Groehl asked.

"It was suggested by Dr. Johnson," Chapman answered, brushing his hair with his hand.

"Dr. Johnson is George Anderson?"

"Yes."

"Where you ever in New Britain?"

Youthful Matricide Faces Ordeal in Fight Over Sanity.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Another chapter of the tragedy of a 17-year-old girl being driven to madness, if she has not already passed the border line of insanity, was to be enacted here today when Dorothy Ellingson, youthful matricide, faced for the eighth day the ordeal of "trial by torture."

Admission came today from state alienists that the court proceedings which have been halted time after time by the girl's collapse, would drive her insane. Defense alienists claim the girl is already insane and her counsel contend she was insane Jan. 13 when she killed her mother.

Court was to open today with Earl Ellingson, 24-year-old brother of the broken "jazz baby," on the stand. Twice during his testimony late yesterday in which he charged his sister with theft and told of having whipped her for this cause, Dorothy fainted.

Following him on the stand, Joseph Ellingson, father of the girl, was to tell of an occasion three months before she was born when he awoke in his home in Minneapolis to find the hands of his wife, mother of Dorothy, gripped about his throat in an effort to choke him to death. Mrs. Ellingson fell into a swoon, he was to testify, when he forced her to release her hold on his throat and for some time thereafter was nervously and mentally ill.

NO MERGERS OR CONSOLIDATIONS CONTEMPLATED IN SALE OF DODGE BROTHERS' AUTOMOBILE PLANT

DETROIT, April 2.—Purchase contracts under which full control of Dodge Brothers, second largest automobile plant in the world, passes to the Wall Street banking house of Dillon, Read and Company for a cash price estimated at between $110,000,000 and $125,000,000, are being drawn in Detroit today.

This announcement, made early today by A. C. Schwartz, representing Dillon, Read and Company, was confirmed by John Ballantyne, treasurer of Dodge Brothers. The statement declares that no mergers or consolidations are contemplated and that Dodge Brothers will operate as in the past—an independent concern.

This disavowal of intention to consolidate was designed to set at rest rumors that the purchase of Dodge Brothers was the first step in a gigantic move to form a combination including Packard Motor company, Hudson Motor Car company and the Briggs Body Corporation, a consolidation that would rival the General Motors Corporation.

Not Rival of Morgan.

In financial circles in Detroit doubt was also expressed regarding the reports that J. P. Morgan & Co. were rivaling Dillon, Read & Co. in bidding for the property. There were intimations here that the two financial groups should be classed as anything but rivals.

The statement of Mr. Schwartz, representing Dillon, Read & Co., follows:

"An agreement has been reached for the sale of Dodge Brothers, Inc., to Dillon, Read & Co. of New York and contracts of purchase are now being drawn. The price to be paid can not be made known at this time.

"Consolidation of the Dodge company with any other company or companies is not in contemplation by the purchasers and any and all rumors of consolidations and mergers resulting from this move are entirely without foundation.

"It is the intention that Dodge Brothers shall continue to be operated as an independent concern without any change from its present policies or in the present personnel of its management."

Mr. Schwartz and his two associates from New York, E. G. Wilmer, who is chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, which is now under the financial direction of Dillon, Read and company, and S. W. Howland, gave out their statement in the presence of Wesson Seyburn, a son-in-law of Mrs. John F. Dodge and other representatives of the John F and Horace E. Dodge estates.

None of the party would add to the statement the least comment, and all refused to make any statement on the amount that changed hands in what ranks as one of the biggest automobile company sales in the country's financial history.

The negotiations were handled for the two Mrs. Dodges and their children by John F. Ballantyne and Charles P. Spicer. The former is treasurer of Dodge Brothers and trustee of Horace Dodge's estate. Beside the widow there are Horace E. Dodge, a shipbuilder, and Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell, wife of James H. R. Cromwell of Philadelphia, affiliated with the noted eastern banking house of E. T. Stotesbury and Company.

Mr. Spicer is vice-president of the

HEAVY DEMAND FOR AUTO TAGS

Demands for automobile license plates were heavy at the distributing agency of the George H. Owen and company on yesterday and today, due to the 25 per cent reduction in fees, which became effective on April 1.

About 240 sets of plates for pleasure cars and trucks were issued Wednesday and up to the noon hour today. The present rates will be effective until July 1, when another 25 per cent cut will be made for the balance of the year.

Rates on pleasure cars are reduced from $8, $12 and $20 to $6, $9 and $15, respectively. A similar reduction is made on the fees for trucks, trailers, motorcycles, side cars and pleasure-commercial machines.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 2. — Industrial stocks which led the sharp rally at the close of yesterday's market retreated under heavy profit taking in the early trading today. Traders who had purchased stocks Monday and Tuesday crowded into the market to sell at the comparatively higher prices prevailing at today's opening, and prices sagged from two to six points in the high priced stocks before the end of the first hour.

Neither the passing of control of the Pan-American Petroleum company nor the publication of the official plan for the reorganization of Wilson & Co. were of any stimulus to the stocks of these companies. Pan-American oils were offered at concessions of about four points from yesterday's high prices. Another cut of 15 cents a barrel in Corning crude oil hastened the liquidation of the other oil stocks, and losses of a point or more were sustained by Independent Oil and Gas, Marland and other of the active stocks in this group.

Wilson & Co. preferred stock dropped seven points to 24½, a loss of ten points from yesterday's high, while the common stock was down nearly two points; selling of the stock was due to dissatisfaction with the reorganization plan, which leaves the first mortgage bonds undisturbed. The Wilson company bonds were strong, the convertible sixes advancing about two points in the listed bond market.

Liberal offerings of Baldwin, United States Steel, General Electric and Cast Iron Pipe resulted in declines of two and three points. Mack Trucks reached 113¾, down about six points from yesterday's high; Cast Iron Pipe was down 4. American Woolen displayed conspicuous weakness and dropped two points to 35c, the lowest price since 1916.

Lighter demand for call money from the brokerage houses resulted in a further decline in call money rates to 4½ per cent, for renewals. The grain markets were again reactionary, wheat declining two to three and a half cents a bushel in Chicago and six cents in Winnipeg. Cotton market were steady. Foreign exchange firm.

Henry Ford today denied that he had any interest in the sale, although, he said, as early as two years ago the chance to buy the Dodge plant was offered him. Officials of several other motor plants, including the Packard Motor company, were busy today denying rumors that the Dodge sale was to be the signal for a merger in which they were all involved.

Master Bandit

Britain. I was never there."

"Were you ever convicted of a crime?"

"Four times. The last time in Atlanta."

"Did you ever meet any of Shean's friends?"

"Many of them."

Groehl held up the alleged murder revolver.

"Did you own this revolver?"

"No."

"How long did you know Anderson?"

"Three or four years," Chapman answered.

Chapman kept dropping his voice and the court admonished him to raise his voice. The bandit talked in a refined manner.

"Your witness," Groehl said.

Prosecutor Cross-Examines.

Prosecutor Alcorn began to cross-examine Chapman.

Alcorn asked the accused as to his past record.

Chapman referred to his mail truck robbery, in New York, January 15, 1921.

"I don't care to get into a controversy as to that incident," Chapman said. "I infer you know all about that affair."

"Did you pull a gun and fire a shot in Muncie, Ind., when you were arrested?"

"A man stuck a revolver against my heart without warning. He didn't tell me he was an officer."

"Did you pull the gun on the officer and afterwards say he was a damn fool?"

"I wouldn't be so foolish," Chapman replied.

"Did you ship any goods from the west to Shean?"

"A few bags."

Alcorn asked Chapman if one of exhibited weapons was "his."

"No. A great many guns look alike."

"Is it yours? It was found in your property," Alcorn said.

"You must remember there were others with me in Springfield," Chapman answered.

Asks Prosecuter Question.

"What states were you in during the months of August and September?" Alcorn asked.

"In August I was in Muncie, Ind.; West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts," Chapman related softly.

Alcorn suddenly produced two bags and pulled forth two expensive fur coats.

Groehl, Chapman counsel, objected to an attempt to prove another crime."

Chapman seemed eager to explain saying:

"If you don't mind I'd like to explain the situation."

During a legal exchange between state and defense counsel, Chapman leaned forward quietly from the witness box and said to Groehl:

"Let me ask him a question?"

The spectators tittered.

Denies He Stole Auto.

During the cross-examination Chapman said:

"Do you want the truth? If you're looking for the justice of it and the real truth, I'll explain that ear to you, if you're really interested in justice."

He drove home his words by running his fingers along the witness railing.

"Waldo W. Miller was in possession of the Lincoln car," Chapman said. "If Anderson had the car he'd be Miller. If Shean had it, he'd be Miller."

Chapman denied he had stolen the Lincoln car.

"You heard yourself identified as having stolen the car?"

"Of course. And I really think the girl was mistaken. Really, I did."

Anderson bought the car which was stolen by some one else.

But you registered as the owner of the car, Alcorn protested.

"Oh," said Chapman, waving his hand deprecatingly. "You don't think I'd be any more honest about little things like that than in other things for my own protection?"

A recess was then taken.

The court room was surprised and disappointed when Prosecutor Alcorn failed to continue cross-examination of Chapman after court had reconvened. Chapman, himself, appeared disconsolate.

Groehl took over his witness again.

"Were many of your associates friends of Walter Shean?"

Chapman recited a number of picturesque names.

"Have you been charge with crimes that were never proved against you?" Groehl asked.

Chapman tolled off the fingers of one hand.

"Five," he said, "aside from this crime."

"Who shipped this property to Shean?"

Chapman named some men, including a "Big Ben."

"Is there anything else you care to say?"

"I think for the benefit of the jury, I should explain my connection with this property," Chapman suggested casually.

"You are on trial for your life. Tell them," Groehl commanded.

"I will," said Chapman, leaning forward and pointing two fingers at the jury box.

Never Charged With Murder

Chapman told of men bringing stuff to Shean's store house where Shean was in the custom of receiving it."

"Big Bennie" and the others wanted to know of a "fence" out West, Chapman related. Anderson wanted to ship the stuff out to "The Hub," Muncie, Ind., Chapman said.

Anderson told these men that the "stuff" was too high grade to handle, and the stuff was shipped back to Shean, he said.

"You've never been charged with murder?" Groehl asked.

"I've been credited with it. I think its the pastime of the newspapers to have me shoot men every so often.'

Chapman said Shean had driven the Lincoln car.

Chapman got off the stand and returned a minute later he turned confidently to the jury and said:

"I asked my counsel if I had better not explain some other things, for your enlightenment, gentlemen."

"Particularly concerning the game," Chapman added.

Uses Exquisite English.

Chapman said it was customary for bootleggers to protect themselves from "Hijackers."

Like a professor lecturing, Chapman, in exquisite English revealed the protective habits of rum runners.

"In Florida and all the way up the coast, these protective measures are in order," Chapman said, "to prevent attacks by outlaws.

"You see there is no protection against this from the law," Chapman smiled.

Prosecutor Alcorn did not cross-examine and the defense rested its case.

The state produced Samuel Miesel, hotel owner of Troy, N. Y., as the first rebuttal witness for the state.

Meisel testified George Stuyvesant was working for him from October 4 to October 24 at the Crooked Lake Hotel, Troy. The witness identified a picture of Stuyvesant. A defense witness had identified Stuyvesant as one of the New Britain store robbers.

"Under cross-examination Miesel admitted he had been convicted for violating the Volstead Act.

Captain Fred W. Puckett, of Muncie, Ind., took the stand. Questions asked him concerning the arrest of Chapman in Indiana were excluded on motion of counsel.

Gas Tax Bill

cess of the slight cost," Brown declared.

Means Better Roads.

Brown insisted that "comment and criticism by the opponents" of the bill, "presents to the public a gross misrepresentation of fact which should not go unchallenged." He disposed of charges that the bill was loosely thrown together.

"The fact is," said Brown, "this bill was introduced Jan. 13, and after four weeks of the most critical scrutiny by bitter opponents during the several public committee meetings, it was passed by the house with slight amendment. The bill then withstood four more weeks of the burning fire of criticism in the senate before it was passed by that body. On March 19, after running the gauntlet for nine weeks, the bill, as finally agreed, passed both houses.

"To fortify against possible error, the author was favored with the best counsel from the time the bill was begun until it was finally passed and, in addition, it was carefully considered and approved by the reference committee, consisting of the most able and critical attorneys in the assembly. The fact is that no bill before the Ohio legislature in recent years has received more careful consideration.

Predict Donahey Veto.

"All motor vehicle fuel imported into the state is specifically subject to tax, even though the public has been told it is not. Ohio refiners are not, therefore, discriminated against, as they would have you believe.

"All petroleum products, except kerosene, are subject to tax, including gasoline and other volatile fuel derived from petroleum.

"The statement that cars purchased since the first of the year are not compelled to pay license fees is utterly false, the language of the bill will show to anyone who has opportunity to read it.

"I have no fear that the courts will disapprove any feature of this bill, even though the bitter opposition insists on presenting it to the public in a false light intended to create prejudice. The language of the bill is clear and easily understood."

Governor Donahey is expected to veto the tax, according to information available at the executive offices.

Sir Michael Seymour, Second Sea Lord Of Britain, Dies

LONDON, April 2. — Vice Admiral Sir Michael Culme Seymour died here today. He had been second sea lord and chief of naval personnel since last year.

He was promoted from captain to rear admiral in 1916 and to vice admiral in 1920. He served in the battle of Jutland in 1916, and one big sea engagement of the war, and was mentioned in dispatches.

James Gagliardi

"This is one of the clearest cases of first degree murder I have ever known," Brookes said. "We have proven this to be a murder premeditated and with malice. What did Jim mean when on the witness stand he said: 'You kick a dog, he bite you.' Malice and hatred has been shown. Jim wouldn't answer my question time and time again. There is no evidence of Rocco making a movement toward pulling a revolver from his pocket. The defendant sitting there, now facing the electric chair, was the aggressor."

Discharge Thirteenth Juror.

At 11:37 Judge Wood ordered a recess until 1 o'clock.

Prosecutor Brookes will complete his argument probably before 2 o'clock and the charge of the court is not expected to last more than an hour. Should this follow the jury will get the case about 3 o'clock.

Under section 11431-1 of the general code of Ohio, which provides 13 jurors, the thirteenth juror, who is L. H. Copeland, of Millport, will be discharged when the case goes to the jury. Copeland will not enter the jury room.

Gagliardi on Witness Stand.

Gagliardi, taking the stand in his own behalf yesterday afternoon, testified that he is married and that his wife, now living in southern Italy, is aware that he is on trial for his life. The prisoner, who has been a resident of the United States for 18 years, told his story of the shooting of Benvento through an interpreter, Thomas Campsey, of Lisbon

Mrs. Benvento, widow of the slain man, with her baby in her arms, walked to and fro in the aisle of the court room while Gagliardi told the jury that he shot her husband in self defense.

At one point in Gagliardi's testimony, Mrs. Benvento cried out that the witness was not telling the facts. Prosecutor Brookes walked to her side and cautioned her against interrupting Gagliardi.

Gagliardi's Testimony.

Without the slightest trace of nervousness, Gagliardi testified before a crowded court room.

He said he had taken out first citizenship papers, but did not apply for his second papers because he did not understand the questions he was to be asked. He also said he was sending money at regular intervals to his wife, and that she was buying property in Italy.

Gagliardi declared that Desmonia had wine at his house and that on Sunday, February 22, they had a "couple of quarts" and he with others drank the wine.

"After I drank some of that stuff I went like a crazy man," the witness testified. "I told Rocco not to start any trouble, and he cursed my mother and said he was going to split my head. He also said to me 'before dark you'll be killed.'

Claims Women Feared Rocco.

"Then Mike Desmonia took Rocco outside to cool off. Rocco had a gun in his pool room the night before the shooting. The women were afraid they would have trouble when Rocco came back. Mrs. Desmonia feared shooting in her home."

"Who was with you when Rocco was shot?" asked Hanley.

"Mike Desmonia and several others."

"Why did you go toward Rocco on Third street?"

"He called me to come over, and I went over to see what he wanted."

"What did Rocco do before you got over to him?"

"He was six or seven feet from me and he put his hand on his hip pocket to pull a gun."

"What did you do?"

"I pulled my gun and shot him."

The witness was then standing in the witness box, and he dramatically made a motion as if he was pulling a revolver from the waist of his trousers.

Warned He Would Be Shot.

"You believed you were going to be shot?"

"They told me I'd be killed before dark."

"How many times did you shoot Rocco?"

"Three or four times—I don't know."

"Where did you go then?"

"I went up on the 'mountain' by the spring."

Under cross-examination by Brookes, Gagliardi repeated that "he told me he was going to kill me before the day was over."

"You shot him because you hated him?" Brookes queried.

"He shoot me and I shot him. I hold Rocco after he slapped Louie, and he told me he'd break my head, too," said Gagliardi.

Clashes Between Counsel.

Several tilts between the state and defense counsel resulted while the defendant was on the stand.

Gagliardi admitted that he shot Benvento, but he testified he did so in self-defense. He said that when he was walking along Third street, Wellsville, that fatal Sunday afternoon in February, Benvento put his right hand on his hip and he (Gagliardi) then pulled his own gun and shot Benvento. The shooting, he testified, occurred about two hours after Benvento and a boarder in the Desmonia home had quarreled.

Attorney Hanley announced at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon that the defense rested, and the court declared a recess. At 3:10 o'clock, the opening arguments to the jury was made by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John E. Baukhecht.

Baukhecht's Argument.

"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, you have been called upon to perform a grave and serious duty," said Mr. Baukhecht. "I, with you, appreciate the gravity of the situation. You have sworn to be fair and truly weigh the evidence. When you swore to be fair, you swore to be fair to the state of Ohio as well as fair to the defendant James Gagliardi. In this, I know that you will do your full duty as you see it."

Mr. Baukhecht then reviewed the testimony of every witness. He stressed the evidence that the defendant had been arrested for the possession of concealed weapons, and that he had been arrested for intoxication. He reviewed the trouble in the home of Michael Desmonia, and the defendant leaving there, walking north on Third street toward the hill and of whipping a revolver from his clothing and shooting Benvento.

Before he began his opening argument to the jury, Attorney Hanley, for the defense, requested the court to charge the following propositions of law, separately and not as a series:

"The defendant can justify the taking of the life of Rocco Benvento in self-defense if it is established by the preponderance of the evidence that the defendant, in the proper exercise of his faculties, believed in good faith that he was in imminent danger of death or grievous bodily harm."

"It is not the imminence of the danger that is the test, but the appearance of it. Rocco Benvento may not have, in fact, endeavored or intended to kill the defendant—he may not have had a weapon on him that would kill if used; yet if he made a movement that would indicate such intent to a reasonable man, in such careful use of his faculties as the situation would permit, and the defendant honestly believed that Benvento intended to kill or grievously wound him he would be justified in slaying Benvento.

Question of Self-Defense.

"In all cases where the defendant relies upon the right of self-defense the question before the jury is one of apparent and not real facts."

"How did it appear to the defendant."

"Looked at from this standpoint how would it appear to a reasonable man."

"In this case was the conduct of Benvento under all the circumstances sufficient to induce a reasonable man to honestly believe that such assailant intended to draw a weapon and kill or grievously injure him?"

"If you, and the defendant did honestly so believe, he would be justified in acting on that belief and in shooting to kill. He would not be bound to run the risk of waiting to see if Benvento in fact would draw a weapon—that might be too late for safety."

Hanley's Argument.

"If under the law and the evidence the defendant had the right of self-defense, he would not be bound to retreat, although in his power to do so without increasing the danger; but he would have the right to kill Benvento if he honestly believed, and had reasonable cause to believe, that it was necessary so to do in order to save his own life or prevent grievous bodily harm."

Hanley, in his 45-minute argument, stressed the point that Gagliardi shot Benvento in self-defense. He repeated the testimony of the defendant who declared that Benvento put the Italian curse unon him by saying he would be dead before sundown."

"The only reason Jim wasn't killed is because Jim was quicker on the draw than Rocco," Hanley declared.

"Where is Patsy Frontone? Why didn't the state call him?" Hanley queried.

"Why didn't you?" came sharply from Brookes.

"This is your case," replied Hanley.

"Why didn't the state call the mother-in-law of Rocco Benvento?" Hanley asked. "She is the one who tried to get Rocco to go home, and he shoved her from the sidewalk to the street.

With this statement, Hanley closed his argument.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 2. — Industrial stocks which led the sharp rally at the close of yesterday's market retreated under heavy profit taking in the early trading today. Traders who had purchased stocks Monday and Tuesday crowded into the market to sell at the comparatively higher prices prevailing at today's opening, and prices sagged from two to six points in the high priced stocks before the end of the first hour.

Neither the passing of control of the Pan-American Petroleum company nor the publication of the official plan for the reorganization of Wilson & Co. were of any stimulus to the stocks of these companies. Pan-American oils were offered at concessions of about four points from yesterday's high prices. Another cut of 15 cents a barrel in Corning crude oil hastened the liquidation of the other oil stocks, and losses of a point or more were sustained by Independent Oil and Gas, Marland and other of the active stocks in this group.

Wilson & Co. preferred stock dropped seven points to 24½, a loss of ten points from yesterday's high, while the common stock was down nearly two points; selling of the stock was due to dissatisfaction with the reorganization plan, which leaves the first mortgage bonds undisturbed. The Wilson company bonds were strong, the convertible sixes advancing about two points in the listed bond market.

Liberal offerings of Baldwin, United States Steel, General Electric and Cast Iron Pipe resulted in declines of two and three points. Mack Trucks reached 113¾, down about six points from yesterday's high; Cast Iron Pipe was down 4. American Woolen displayed conspicuous weakness and dropped two points to 35c, the lowest price since 1916.

Lighter demand for call money from the brokerage houses resulted in a further decline in call money rates to 4½ per cent, for renewals. The grain markets were again reactionary, wheat declining two to three and a half cents a bushel in Chicago and six cents in Winnipeg. Cotton market were steady. Foreign exchange firm.

Officials of several other motor plants, including the Packard Motor company, were busy today denying rumors that the Dodge sale was to be the signal for a merger in which they were all involved.

Master Bandit

Britain. I was never there."

"Were you ever convicted of a crime?"

"Four times. The last time in Atlanta."

"Did you ever meet any of Shean's friends?"

"Many of them."

Groehl held up the alleged murder revolver.

"Did you own this revolver?"

"No."

"How long did you know Anderson?"

"Three or four years," Chapman answered.

Chapman kept dropping his voice and the court admonished him to raise his voice. The bandit talked in a refined manner.

"Your witness," Groehl said.

Prosecutor Cross-Examines.

Prosecutor Alcorn began to cross-examine Chapman.

Alcorn asked the accused as to his past record.

Chapman referred to his mail truck robbery, in New York, January 15, 1921.

"I don't care to get into a controversy as to that incident," Chapman said. "I infer you know all about that affair."

"Did you pull a gun and fire a shot in Muncie, Ind., when you were arrested?"

"A man stuck a revolver against my heart without warning. He didn't tell me he was an officer."

"Did you pull the gun on the officer and afterwards say he was a damn fool?"

"I wouldn't be so foolish," Chapman replied.

"Did you ship any goods from the west to Shean?"

"A few bags."

Alcorn asked Chapman if one of exhibited weapons was "his."

"No. A great many guns look alike."

"Is it yours? It was found in your property," Alcorn said.

"You must remember there were others with me in Springfield," Chapman answered.

Asks Prosecutor Question.

"What states were you in during the months of August and September?" Alcorn asked.

"In August I was in Muncie, Ind.; West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts," Chapman related softly.

Alcorn suddenly produced two bags and pulled forth two expensive fur coats.

Groehl, Chapman counsel, objected to an attempt to prove another crime."

Chapman seemed eager to explain saying:

"If you don't mind I'd like to explain the situation."

During a legal exchange between state and defense counsel, Chapman leaned forward quietly from the witness box and said to Groehl:

"Let me ask him a question?"

The spectators tittered.

Denies He Stole Auto.

During the cross-examination Chapman said:

"Do you want the truth? If you're looking for the justice of it and the real truth, I'll explain that ear to you, if you're really interested in justice."

He drove home his words by running his fingers along the witness railing.

"Waldo W. Miller was in possession of the Lincoln car,' Chapman said. "If Anderson had the car he'd be Miller. If Shean had it, he'd be Miller."

Chapman denied he had stolen the Lincoln car.

"You heard yourself identified as having stolen the car?"

"Of course. And I really think the girl was mistaken. Really, I did."

Anderson bought the car which was stolen by some one else.

But you registered as the owner of the car, Alcorn protested.

"Oh," said Chapman, waving his hand deprecatingly. "You don't think I'd be any more honest about little things like that than in other things for my own protection?"

A recess was then taken.

The court room was surprised and disappointed when Prosecutor Alcorn failed to continue cross-examination of Chapman after court had reconvened. Chapman, himself, appeared disconsolate.

Groehl took over his witness again.

"Were many of your associates friends of Walter Shean?"

Chapman recited a number of picturesque names.

"Have you been charge with crimes that were never proved against you?" Groehl asked.

Chapman tolled off the fingers of one hand.

"Five," he said, "aside from this crime."

"Who shipped this property to Shean?"

Chapman named some men, including a "Big Ben."

"Is there anything else you care to say?"

"I think for the benefit of the jury, I should explain my connection with this property," Chapman suggested casually.

"You are on trial for your life. Tell them," Groehl commanded.

"I will," said Chapman, leaning forward and pointing two fingers at the jury box.

Never Charged With Murder

Chapman told of men bringing stuff to Shean's store house where Shean was in the custom of receiving it.

"Big Bennie" and the others wanted to know of a "fence" out West, Chapman related. Anderson wanted to ship the stuff out to "The Hub," Muncie, Ind., Chapman said.

Anderson told these men that the "stuff" was too high grade to handle, and the stuff was shipped back to Shean, he said.

"You've never been charged with murder?" Groehl asked.

"I've been credited with it. I think its the pastime of the newspapers to have me shoot men every so often.'

Chapman said Shean had driven the Lincoln car.

Chapman got off the stand and returned a minute later he turned confidently to the jury and said:

"I asked my counsel if I had better not explain some other things, for your enlightenment, gentlemen."

"Particularly concerning the game," Chapman added.

Uses Exquisite English.

Chapman said it was customary for bootleggers to protect themselves from "Hijackers."

Like a professor lecturing, Chapman, in exquisite English revealed the protective habits of rum runners.

"In Florida and all the way up the coast, these protective measures are in order," Chapman said, "to prevent attacks by outlaws.

"You see there is no protection against this from the law," Chapman smiled.

Prosecutor Alcorn did not cross-examine and the defense rested its case.

The state produced Samuel Miesel, hotel owner of Troy, N. Y., as the first rebuttal witness for the state.

Meisel testified George Stuyvesant was working for him from October 4 to October 24 at the Crooked Lake Hotel, Troy. The witness identified a picture of Stuyvesant. A defense witness had identified Stuyvesant as one of the New Britain store robbers.

"Under cross-examination Miesel admitted he had been convicted for violating the Volstead Act.

Captain Fred W. Puckett, of Muncie, Ind., took the stand. Questions asked him concerning the arrest of Chapman in Indiana were excluded on motion of counsel.

cess of the slight cost," Brown declared.

Means Better Roads.

Brown insisted that "comment and criticism by the opponents" of the bill, "presents to the public a gross misrepresentation of fact which should not go unchallenged." He disposed of charges that the bill was loosely thrown together.

"The fact is," said Brown, "this bill was introduced Jan. 13, and after four weeks of the most critical scrutiny by bitter opponents during the several public committee meetings, it was passed by the house with slight amendment. The bill then withstood four more weeks of the burning fire of criticism in the senate before it was passed by that body. On March 18, after running the gauntlet for nine weeks, the bill, as finally agreed, passed both houses.

"To fortify against possible error, the author was favored with the best counsel from the time the bill was begun until it was finally passed and, in addition, it was carefully considered and approved by the reference committee, consisting of the most able and critical attorneys in the assembly. The fact is that no bill before the Ohio legislature in recent years has received more careful consideration.

Predict Donahey Veto.

"All motor vehicle fuel imported into the state is specifically subject to tax, even though the public has been told it is not. Ohio refiners are not, therefore, discriminated against, as they would have you believe.

"All petroleum products, except kerosene, are subject to tax, including gasoline and other volatile fuel derived from petroleum.

"The statement that cars purchased since the first of the year are not compelled to pay license fees is utterly false, the language of the bill will show to anyone who has opportunity to read it.

"I have no fear that the courts will disapprove any feature of this bill, even though the bitter oppostion insists on presenting it to the public in a false light intended to create prejudice. The language of the bill is clear and easily understood."

Governor Donahey is expected to veto the tax, according to information available at the executive offices.

Sir Michael Seymour, Second Sea Lord Of Britain, Dies

LONDON, April 2. — Vice Admiral Sir Michael Culme Seymour died here today. He had been second sea lord and chief of naval personnel since last year.

He was promoted from captain to rear admiral in 1916 and to vice admiral in 1920. He served in the battle of Jutland in 1916, and one big sea engagement of the war, and was mentioned in dispatches.

James Gagliardi

"This is one of the clearest cases of first degree murder I have ever known," Brookes said. "We have proven this to be a murder premeditated and with malice. What did Jim mean when on the witness stand he said: 'You kick a dog, he bite you.' Malice and hatred has been shown. Jim wouldn't answer my question time and time again. There is no evidence of Rocco making a movement toward pulling a revolver from his pocket. The defendant sitting there, now facing the electric chair, was the aggressor."

Discharge Thirteenth Juror.

At 11:37 Judge Wood ordered a recess until 1 o'clock.

Prosecutor Brookes will complete his argument probably before 2 o'clock and the charge of the court is not expected to last more than an hour. Should this follow the jury will get the case about 3 o'clock.

Under section 11431-1 of the general code of Ohio, which provides 13 jurors, the thirteenth juror, who is L. H. Copeland, of Millport, will be discharged when the case goes to the jury. Copeland will not enter the jury room.

Gagliardi on Witness Stand.

Gagliardi, taking the stand in his own behalf yesterday afternoon, testified that he is married and that his wife, now living in southern Italy, is aware that he is on trial for his life. The prisoner, who has been a resident of the United States for 18 years, told his story of the shooting of Benvento through an interpreter, Thomas Campsey, of Lisbon

Mrs. Benvento, widow of the slain man, with her baby in her arms, walked to and fro in the aisle of the court room while Gagliardi told the jury that he shot her husband in self defense.

At one point in Gagliardi's testimony, Mrs. Benvento cried out that the witness was not telling the facts. Prosecutor Brookes walked to her side and cautioned her against interrupting Gagliardi.

Gagliardi's Testimony.

Without the slightest trace of nervousness, Gagliardi testified before a crowded court room.

He said he had taken out first citizenship papers, but did not apply for his second papers because he did not understand the questions he was to be asked. He also said he was sending money at regular intervals to his wife, and that she was buying property in Italy.

Gagliardi declared that Desmonia had wine at his house and that on Sunday, February 22, they had a "couple of quarts" and he with others drank the wine.

"After I drank some of that stuff I went like a crazy man," the witness testified. "I told Rocco not to start any trouble, and he cursed my mother and said he was going to split my head. He also said to me 'before dark you'll be killed.'

Claims Women Feared Rocco.

"Then Mike Desmonia took Rocco outside to cool off. Rocco had a gun in his pool room the night before the shooting. The women were afraid they would have trouble when Rocco came back. Mrs. Desmonia feared shooting in her home."

"Who was with you when Rocco was shot?" asked Hanley.

"Mike Desmonia and several others."

"Why did you go toward Rocco on Third street?"

"He called me to come over, and I went over to see what he wanted."

"What did Rocco do before you got over to him?"

"He was six or seven feet from me and he put his hand on his hip pocket to pull a gun."

"What did you do?"

"I pulled my gun and shot him."

The witness was then standing in the witness box, and he dramatically made a motion as if he was pulling a revolver from the waist of his trousers.

Warned He Would Be Shot.

"You believed you were going to be shot?"

"They told me I'd be killed before dark."

"How many times did you shoot Rocco?"

"Three or four times—I don't know."

"Where did you go then?"

"I went up on the 'mountain' by the spring."

Under cross-examination by Brookes, Gagliardi repeated that "he told me he was going to kill me before the day was over."

"You shot him because you hated him?" Brookes queried.

"He shoot me and I shot him. I hold Rocco after he slapped Louie, and he told me he'd break my head, too," said Gagliardi.

Clashes Between Counsel.

Several tiffs between the state and defense counsel resulted while the defendant was on the stand.

Gagliardi admitted that he shot Benvento, but he testified he did so in self defense. He said that when he was walking along Third street, Wellsville, that fatal Sunday afternoon in February, Benvento put his right hand on his hip and he (Gagliardi) then pulled his own gun and shot Benvento. The shooting, he testified, occurred about two hours after Benvento and a boarder in the Desmonia home had quarreled.

Attorney Hanley announced at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon that the defense rested, and the court declared a recess. At 3:10 o'clock, the opening arguments to the jury was made by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John E. Baukhecht.

Baukhecht's Argument.

"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, you have been called upon to perform a grave and serious duty," said Mr. Baukhecht. "I, with you, appreciate the gravity of the situation. You have sworn to be fair and truly weigh the evidence. When you swore to be fair, you swore to be fair to the state of Ohio as well as fair to the defendant James Gagliardi. In this, I know that you will do your full duty as you see it."

Mr. Baukhecht then reviewed the testimony of every witness. He stressed the evidence that the defendant had been arrested for the possession of concealed weapons, and that he had been arrested for intoxication. He reviewed the trouble in the home of Michael Desmonia, and the defendant leaving there, walking north on Third street toward the hill and of whipping a revolver from his clothing and shooting Benvento.

Before he began his opening argument to the jury, Attorney Hanley, for the defense, requested the court to charge the following propositions of law, separately and not as a series:

"The defendant can justify the taking of the life of Rocco Benvento in self-defense if it is established by the preponderance of the evidence that the defendant, in the proper exercise of his faculties, believed in good faith that he was in imminent danger of death or grievous bodily harm."

"It is not the imminence of the danger that is the test, but the appearance of it. Rocco Benvento may not have, in fact, endeavored or intended to kill the defendant—he may not have had a weapon on him that would kill if used; yet if he made a movement that would indicate such intent to a reasonable man, in such careful use of his faculties as the situation would permit, and the defendant honestly believed that Benvento intended to kill or grievously wound him he would be justified in slaying Benvento.

Question of Self-Defense.

"In all cases where the defendant relies upon the right of self-defense the question before the jury is one of apparent and not real facts."

"How did it appear to the defendant."

"Looked at from this standpoint how would it appear to a reasonable man."

"In this case was the conduct of Benvento under all the circumstances sufficient to induce a reasonable man to honestly believe that such assailant intended to draw a weapon and kill or grievously injure him?"

"If you, and the defendant did honestly so believe, he would be justified in acting on that belief and in shooting to kill. He would not be bound to run the risk of waiting to see if Benvento in fact would draw a weapon—that might be too late for safety."

Hanley's Argument.

"If under the law and the evidence the defendant had the right of self-defense, he would not be bound to retreat, although in his power to do so without increasing the danger; but he would have the right to kill Benvento if he honestly believed, and had reasonable cause to believe, that it was necessary so to do in order to save his own life or prevent grievous bodily harm."

Hanley, in his 45-minute argument, stressed the point that Gagliardi shot Benvento in self-defense. He repeated the testimony of the defendant who declared that Benvento put the Italian curse unon him by saying he would be dead before sundown."

"The only reason Jim wasn't killed is because Jim was quicker on the draw than Rocco," Hanley declared.

"Where is Patsy Frontone? Why didn't the state call him?" Hanley queried.

"Why didn't you?" came sharply from Brookes.

"This is your case," replied Hanley.

"Why didn't the state call the mother-in-law of Rocco Benvento?" Hanley asked. "She is the one who tried to get Rocco to go home, and he shoved her from the sidewalk to the street.

With this statement, Hanley closed his argument.

ROMANCE ENDS IN LUXEMBOURG

Miss Sarah Ross Becomes Bride of Mining Engineer.

The marriage of Miss Sarah Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Ross of this city, to Harry Lincoln Porter, mining engineer, which was solemnized Wednesday in Luxembourg, Belgium, was announced in a cablegram received today by Mr. Ross, manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant here.

The cablegram was brief. It said: "Married here April 1. Address Porter, care Forminere, Brussels."

Mrs. B. J. Ross, the bride's mother, although expecting news of the wedding, will not learn of the event until some time tonight probably, when she arrives in St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Ross, who has been visiting with her husband here, left for the Florida city Tuesday.

Miss Ross and Mr. Porter became engaged while they were students at Ohio State University, Columbus. Miss Ross subsequently graduated from the school of journalism and Mr. Porter as a mining engineer.

After working in various sections of the United States for some time he went into northern Canada, where he was in charge of a gold mine crew. After that he went to Belgium Congo, in central Africa, where he took charge of a diamond mine. Here he was occupied for two and one-half years. The territory in which the mine was located was under Belgium rule and both Belgium and American capitalists were interested. In addition, the king of Belgium owned extensive financial interests in the mine.

Miss Ross sailed for Europe on March 21 on the steamer France, landing in Havre, France. From there she went to Antwerp and later, after joining Mr. Porter, proceeded to Luxembourg, where they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter expect to make a tour of the continent before returning to the United States.

PARK REPORTS TO BE MADE TONIGHT

Final and definite reports on the results of the Hammond park tag day sale are expected to be submitted to the park commission at the organization's meeting tonight.

Although a total of well over $570 had been reported last Monday following Saturday's drive, members of the commission were confident that this sum will be boosted, inasmuch as several teams had not reported.

The commission tonight will also discuss the expenditure of the funds received in beautifying the park site. Benches, a shelter house, fire places and other picnic conveniences have been suggested.

PLAN BANQUET FOR PLAY CAST

Invitations have been issued for the banquet and entertainment which will be given on Tuesday evening, April 7, by Corporal Dan D. Duty post, No. 180, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

INNOCENT MAN HELD PRISONER IN EDINBURGH

Cleared by Court on Charges, But Cannot be Freed.

PARDON SOUGHT

Convicted of Forgeries Which Were Never Committed.

EDINBURGH—A young man is serving seven years imprisonment for forgeries which the court of session—the supreme court of Scotland—has declared are not forgeries.

David Chalmers Anderson is the victim of this miscarriage of justice. From 1920 to 1922 he was private secretary to the late John Wilson, a wealthy Edinburgh merchant, who died leaving a fortune of more than two million dollars.

Six months after Wilson's death Anderson was arrested and charged with fraud and with uttering forged stocks and bonds, the property of his late employer.

Anderson pleaded not guilty and said that all he had done had been with the approval of his employer. But this plea did not avail him, and he would have had to serve the remaining five years of his sentence had not further litigation with regard to Wilson's estate ensued.

Lived Expensively.

It was a bank case. The executors of Wilson sought to recover from the Bank of England bonds and stocks to the amount of $250,000, which, they said, had been sold by Anderson with the aid of a forged authority in Wilson's name.

At Anderson's trial it had been urged that his conduct was such as to show he was misappropriating money. He had been living at a very expensive rate. He had lost large sums in betting on horses; he owned three expensive cars and was buying another for $7,000. He had also entered into a contract to buy a dancing hall at Edinburgh for $165,000 and had paid $110,000 of the price. It was these facts that led the court to disbelieve his story at the trial.

But now Lord Ashmore, highest judicial authority in Scotland, in giving judgment for the bank, held that there was no forgery by Anderson, and that the secretary signed the transfer documents of the stocks on the authority of Wilson and in his behalf. This judgment meant that Anderson was innocent.

Stranger Sequel.

Then followed an even stranger sequel. It seemed that Wilson, the most respected man in Edinburgh, who died, honored by all, at the age of 93, had for years been carrying out a series of extensive frauds.

For many years he had been defrauding the inland revenue department in regard to his income tax and super-tax. Lord Ashmore said that before Wilson employed Anderson he had been very much upset by the determined inquiries of the officials of the inland revenue department. For this reason he seems to have employed an innocent young man to cloak his actions.

But although Anderson has been pronounced innocent, there is no legal machinery in Scotland for his release. There is no court of criminal appeal in the matter; and the secretary for Scotland has stated that he has no power to deal with the case.

Accordingly, a petition has been drawn up, and is being extensively signed throughout Scotland, appealing to King George to exercise his power and grant Anderson what is known as a "free pardon." This will authorize the authorities to release the prisoner, but it will not legally establish his innocense.

Priest Famous as Soldier.

The Right Reverend Monsignor Richard Barry-Doyle is famous not only as a priest but as a soldier also. He served as a soldier on every battle field during the world war and was decorated by all the allied nations. He is a half brother of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the novelist and creator of Sherlock Holmes, and is a descendant of Commodore John Barry, of Revolutionary fame.

Attend Rigby Funeral Services.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCarty and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeBee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver and son, all of Buckeye avenue, have returned from Minerva, where they attended funeral services for the late Lawrence Rigby.

Visit Friends Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aiken, of Alliance, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McKenzie, of Buckeye avenue.

Fireman Hays Resigns.

C. E. Rally Here Tonight.

Delegations from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Yellow Creek, Chester and Newell will attend the Christian Endeavor rally which will be held this evening in the First Evangelical church here under the auspices of the Columbiana County union. Readings, music and special selections will make up the program for the meeting.

Sunday Mornin'

There is scrubbin' necks t' do
An' a nose t' wipe er two
In th' house where we are livin'
When the early church bell rings
Sunday mornin'; there's a rare
Note of bustle in the air
As we scramble fer our collars
An' our socks an' other things.

Home ain't no place much fer rest
Sunday morn; th' place is jest
Like a battleground with warriors
Racin' here an' chasin' there
Huntin' pennies fer th' plate;
Mother yellin', "Don't be late,"
Sister Emmy combinin' mice nests
From her tangled braid o' hair.

Mother's face is flushed an' drawn
When th' kids an' Dad are gone;
An' a sort o' lull comes settlin'
Over things an' life is meek
Once again; th' hum an' din
Sort o' quiet down again
An', of all folks, Mother's gladdest
Sunday comes but once a week.

Rub Away Baby's Colds

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

Convicted of Forgeries Which Were Never Committed.

EDINBURGH—A young man is serving seven years imprisonment for forgeries which the court of session—the supreme court of Scotland—has declared are not forgeries.

David Chalmers Anderson is the victim of this miscarriage of justice. From 1920 to 1922 he was private secretary to the late John Wilson, a wealthy Edinburgh merchant, who died leaving a fortune of more than two million dollars.

Six months after Wilson's death Anderson was arrested and charged with fraud and with uttering forged stocks and bonds, the property of his late employer.

Anderson pleaded not guilty and said that all he had done had been with the approval of his employer. But this plea did not avail him, and he would have had to serve the remaining five years of his sentence had not further litigation with regard to Wilson's estate ensued.

Lived Expensively.

It was a bank case. The executors of Wilson sought to recover from the Bank of England bonds and stocks to the amount of $250,000, which, they said, had been sold by Anderson with the aid of a forged authority in Wilson's name.

At Anderson's trial it had been urged that his conduct was such as to show he was misappropriating money. He had been living at a very expensive rate. He had lost large sums in betting on horses; he owned three expensive cars and was buying another for $7,000. He had also entered into a contract to buy a dancing hall at Edinburgh for $165,000 and had paid $110,000 of the price. It was these facts that led the court to disbelieve his story at the trial.

But now Lord Ashmore, highest judicial authority in Scotland, in giving judgment for the bank, held that there was no forgery by Anderson, and that the secretary signed the transfer documents of the stocks on the authority of Wilson and in his behalf. This judgment meant that Anderson was innocent.

Stranger Sequel.

Then followed an even stranger sequel. It seemed that Wilson, the most respected man in Edinburgh, who died, honored by all, at the age of 93, had for years been carrying out a series of extensive frauds.

For many years he had been defrauding the inland revenue department in regard to his income tax and super-tax. Lord Ashmore said that before Wilson employed Anderson he had been very much upset by the determined inquiries of the officials of the inland revenue department. For this reason he seems to have employed an innocent young man to cloak his actions.

But although Anderson has been pronounced innocent, there is no legal machinery in Scotland for his release. There is no court of criminal appeal in the matter; and the secretary for Scotland has stated that he has no power to deal with the case.

Accordingly, a petition has been drawn up, and is being extensively signed throughout Scotland, appealing to King George to exercise his power and grant Anderson what is known as a "free pardon." This will authorize the authorities to release the prisoner, but it will not legally establish his innocense.

Priest Famous as Soldier.

The Right Reverend Monsignor Richard Barry-Doyle is famous not only as a priest but as a soldier also. He served as a soldier on every battle field during the world war and was decorated by all the allied nations. He is a half brother of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the novelist and creator of Sherlock Holmes, and is a descendant of Commodore John Barry, of Revolutionary fame.

Attend Rigby Funeral Services.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCarty and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeBee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver and son, all of Buckeye avenue, have returned from Minerva, where they attended funeral services for the late Lawrence Rigby.

Visit Friends Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aiken, of Alliance, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McKenzie, of Buckeye avenue.

Fireman Hays Resigns.

C. E. Rally Here Tonight.

Delegations from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Yellow Creek, Chester and Newell will attend the Christian Endeavor rally which will be held this evening in the First Evangelical church here under the auspices of the Columbiana County union. Readings, music and special selections will make up the program for the meeting.

TWELVE ALLEGED UNSOUND FIRMS LISTED BY VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

Twelve concerns conducting stock selling, work-at-home and similar schemes, which, it is declared, are unsound, are listed in recent bulletins issued by the National Vigilance committee and received by the Chamber of Commerce.

These concerns include:

The Concrete Products Inc., of Hadden, Connecticut, conducting a stock promotion campaign.

United Sales Service, Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., selling of a metal cleaning device known as "E-Z Way Magic Silver Cleaner."

Sunday Mornin'

There is scrubbin' necks t' do
An' a nose t' wipe er two
In th' house where we are livin'
When the early church bell rings
Sunday mornin'; there's a rare
Note of bustle in the air
As we scramble fer our collars
An' our socks an' other things.

Home ain't no place much fer rest
Sunday morn; th' place is jest
Like a battleground with warriors
Racin' here an' chasin' there
Huntin' pennies fer th' plate;
Mother yellin', "Don't be late,"
Sister Emmy combinin' mice nests
From her tangled braid o' hair.

Mother's face is flushed an' drawn
When th' kids an' Dad are gone;
An' a sort o' lull comes settlin'
Over things an' life is meek
Once again; th' hum an' din
Sort o' quiet down again
An', of all folks, Mother's gladdest
Sunday comes but once a week.

Old Volcano Rumbling.

Popocatepetl, the famous volcano in Mexico, is rumbling again and geologists working under government instruction are investigating to learn whether there is any real danger. The old volcano is smoking heavily and there is consternation in the nearby village of Ixtlahuati.

There are many foolish people
But the boob that takes the prize
Is the boob that drinks the moonshine
And loses both eyes.

Rub Away Baby's Colds

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Governor's Veto No Surprise

Gov. Donahey's veto of Representative R. W. Emmons' bill providing for a municipal court at East Liverpool was no surprise for supporters of the measure. His action was expected in view of his rejection of a similar proposal for Ashtabula. The executive's disapproval of the plan was made on the ground that the legislature should enact a uniform municipal court act with a view of preventing cluttering up the state's general code with local municipal court measures.

However, East Liverpool is not downhearted. Reports from Columbus inlicate that the Emmons measure will be included among the bills to be passed over the governor's head when the assembly reconvenes on April 16.

The municipal court bill has been generally approved. The proposal, twice rejected by Mr. Donahey, has been endorsed by Trades and Labor Council, Chamber of Commerce, the Southern Columbiana County Bar association and civic organiaztions. And it was prompted by the belief that it not only would prove a revenue producer, but would be an advantage over the system now prevailing in minor courts. And, too, it would mean curtailment of much expense now necessitated by trips to Lisbon for the trial of civil claims under $1,000.

The municipal court is a success. East Liverpool should be given the privilege of creating the tribunal.

Jefferson's Decalogue

The anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birth, today, recalls a work of that statesman and philosopher which is too little known. It is what he called "A Decalogue of Canons for Observation in Practical Life," some of which have been attributed to Franklin, anl all of which are worth remembering. They are as follows:

1. Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today.
2. Never trouble another for what you can do yourself.
3. Never spend your money before you have it.
4. Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you.
5. Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold.
6. We never repent of having eaten too little.
7. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.
8. How much pain have cost us the evils which have never happened.
9. Take things always by their smooth handle.
10. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, a hundred.

Facts On the Shoals

Fortunately, as many think, the last congress adjourned without doing anything about Muscle Shoals. The country is anxious to dispose of the shoals problem, but it became evident toward the close of the session that both public and congress were far from having all the essential facts.

There was no agreement among engineers as to how much power could be produced there, how much of it would be available for nitrates, how well the plants already finished were adapted to nitrate manufacture, whether enough fertilizer could be made there to play a really important part in agriculture, and whether fertilizer or power was the more essential to southern prosperity. These questions should be settled before any final disposition is made of that valuable and unique property.

The president has appointed a commission, as requested in a congressional resolution, to inquire and report on the matter at the opening of the next session. It it does its work competently, it will be time to go ahead with that big power plant, under public or private control, as may seem best. But whatever disposition may be made of the property, there will be strong objection to the government surrendering title to the shoals, or leasing them to private interests for as long as was contemplated in the Ford lease—a full century.

Another "Perfect Crime"

It will be remembered that Messrs. Loeb and Leopold originated the "perfect crime," when they killed a young acquaintance for the thrill of it. Also that their crime proved, in the end, to have fallen short of the perfection intended.

Now they have had imitators in a different sphere of crime. Two men the other night planned a "perfect robbery" on the New York Central railroad. They expected to get $100,000 in bank shipments of currency and newly minted coins. Their information was straight and their plans were correct. But all they got was $700 cash. They merely made the technical mistake of robbing the wrong train.

So it is usually with criminals. When they commit an apparently clever crime and make a successful "getaway," it is usually due to unforeseeable luck or to the stupidity of others. The "perfect crime" nearly always reveals imperfection. This is natural, because crime itself is essentially stupid, in a world based on moral law.

It may be, as a critic remarks, that "the prestige of a congressman was never so low as it is now." But the congressmen themselves are remedying that. Knowing that money gives prestige, they have raised their own salaries.

Having made the world more or less safe for democracy, it remains, as the Vancouver Sun observes, to "make it unsafe for hypocrisy."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

SOMEWHERE IN HOLLAND, April 2.—Holland has always appealed to my imagination. The Dutch are a sturdy race. From the train window I see a tiny herd of the small black and white cows grazing tended by two blue smocked peasants. It is a scene that might have been painted by Anton Mauve.

The little villages look so peaceful. The exterior of the cottages are in bright colors, red, yellow, blue and green and the small windows are discreetly veiled in snowy curtains quaintly pleated. Outside many doors are wooden shoes arrayed in line, from father's huge ones to the tiny pair for baby.

Housewives of Holland are thrifty. They do not permit dust or dirt to be brought in from the street. Some of the homes have only two rooms, the bedroom and combination kitchen parlor. Everything is polished and shiny. The kitchen range glitters with copper and brass utensils.

In the little cobble-stone streets are women with their tightly laced bodices and starched lace caps. The men in their baggy trousers laced up the back and high caps. The blonde children in their suits of blue—shy and smiling. They wave at you, then run to hide.

In one home, they were having breakfast. Dry bread and cheese. The floor, a dado of old blue and white tiles, fairly shone. The dresser nearby was laden with crockery and glass. The windmills lazily turning are comforting and restful. There is a monotony of flat land.

Everyone in Holland seems happy and well contented. Everywhere are flocks of geese waddling along with their eternal quack-quack. The old men sit squatting in groups, puffing at their long cigars. The youths here are big and strapping and exude health.

Just as I am in the midst of a Holland rhapsody, a man came through the train calling "Telegram! Telegram for Mr. Issac Cohen!" I had to shake myself. Surely I must be dreaming. For this sounded for all the world like a lobby of a New York hotel.

Mr. Cohen, by the way, happened to be in my compartment. He is on his way to Amsterdam after being in America for 21 years. His brother is there. He has prospered in the mercantile business in a middle-sized city in Nebraska. I spoke to him of the indifference to human fretting in Holland. At the moment I rather thought I would like to spend my approaching old age there. Mr. Cohen had a bland, generous smile and shrugged. "The most monotonous country in the world," he said. "They become as clabby as their cheese."

I suppose Mr. Cohen is right. People who remain in America very long are not easily transplanted to other soil. It is my belief that most of the Americans living over here who try to give you the impression of contentment are merely "kidding" themselves.

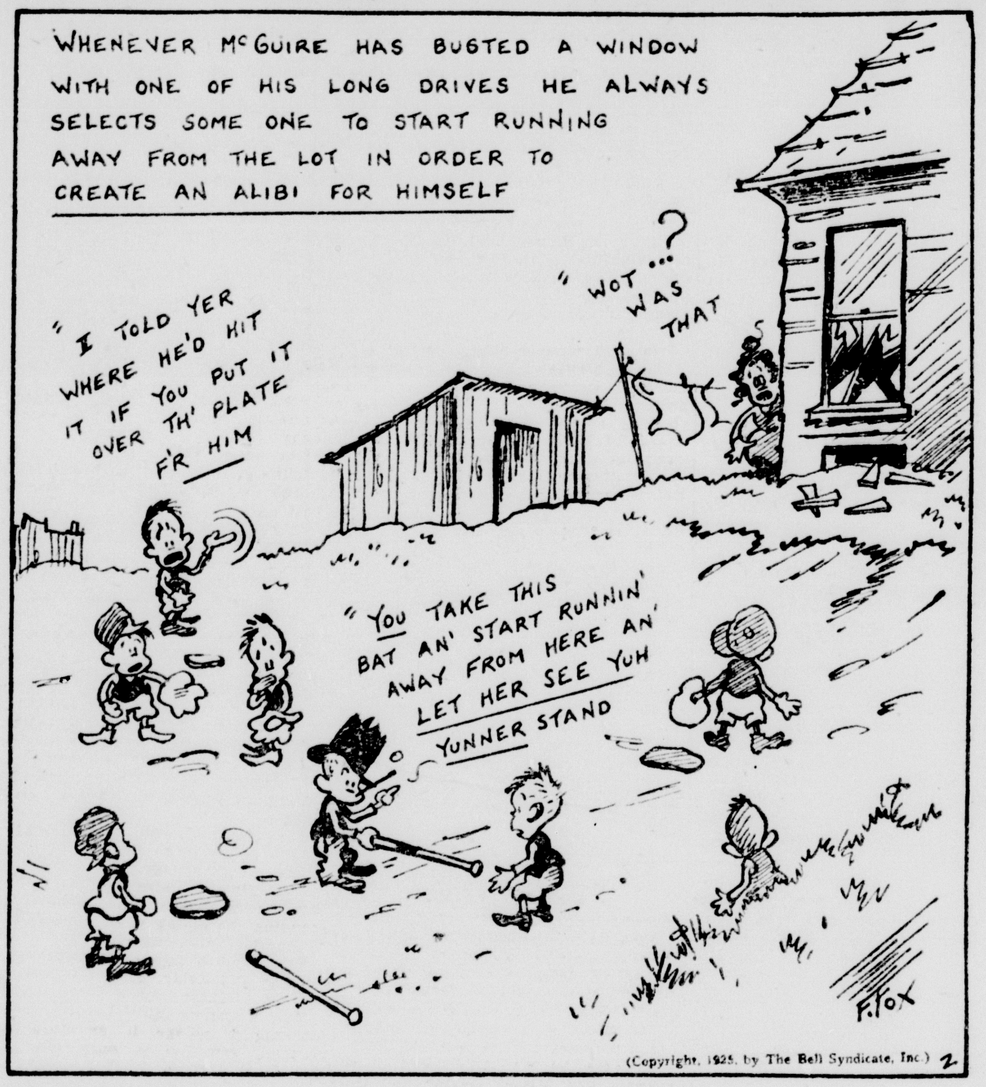

We in America are often accused of confounding bustle with creation and noise with achievement. What I have seen of Holland is beautiful. There is no bustle nor noise. Yet you have the feeling of a lack of creation and a lack of achievement. So perhaps there is more to our rush and roar than Europeans think.

My impressions of Amestrdam is just a blurr. Upon my arrival was a cable from Paris which made it imperative to leave by first train. I had only three hours and a little over and the most important piece of baggage I carry was lost. I felt much like one of those dumb-looking immigrants at Battery Park trying to find his way uptown. I went from one place to another, trying to make myself understood and was always met by a shake of the head, indicating they didn't know what I was talking about. I remembered Mr. Cohen's hotel and sent for him. He gave generously of his time and I was able to find my baggage, catch the train, utterly exhausted.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Trade Commission Procedure.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The federal trade commission has recently announced a change in its rules of procedure. This change is in accordance with the expressed views of Chairman Van Fleet, and, although no official announcement has been made to this effect, it is believed by many to be in compliance with the request of President Coolidge included in his first report to congress.

The prime object of this change is to remove the cause of the many complaints that the method of procedure of the commission is too harsh, but still accomplish the purposes of the law which created the commission. It is also hoped that by this change the commission will be able to catch up on its work and reduce the large docket of pending cases and handle more expeditiously current cases—in a word, get more work done for less money.

The first part of this announcement is not new, but is a reiteration of the policy of the commission in agreeing to handle cases of alleged unfair practices. In part, it says, "In all such cases there must be three parties involved, the respondent, the competitor injured and the public." In cases where the matter is merely a private controversy between competitors, and the interest of the public does not enter into it, the commission will not entertain proceedings. Such matters are redressable in the courts, and it is not felt that it is within the province of the commission to undertake such cases.

The new departure in method of procedure is that the respondent is now to be given an opportunity to show reason why a complaint should not be issued. Under the old order notice and hearing were not given until after complaint had been issued. Many business houses complained bitterly that the issuance of these complaints with the attendant publicity often damaged their business. And they claimed this was particularly unfair in cases where the hearings developed that the respondent was not guilty of the practices charged. A majority of the commission conceded that their arguments were reasonable, and, hence, the change of procedure.

Question of Unfair Practice.

In order better to facilitate a prompt and effective remedy against unfair practices, the following was adopted: "The rule shall be that all cases shall be settled by stipulation except when the public interest demands otherwise . . . and that the chief examiner in accordance therewith, or the board of review, shall bring forward to the commission for such settlement all cases which in their opinion shall fall within this rule with their written recommendation."

Under this rule the commission may say to a respondent, "Look here, we find that you have been doing certain things which in our belief come under the head of 'unfair practices.' Now if you will agree to discontinue these, the case will be dropped with no publicity. However, if it is found later that you are again doing these things the evidence which we hold in this case will be used in a complaint which we will bring."

It is believed that this method not ony protects the public interest but also the respondent an opportunity to mend his ways without his business being damaged in any way.

Complaints are generally filed with the commission by competitors charging some unfair practice. The commission goes over these complaints carefully and those that are found to contain no element of public interest are dismissed. Sometimes it is found that they come under the jurisdiction of another department, such as the interstate commerce commission or the federal reserve board.

If it is found that the complaint is one for the commission it is given to the chief examiner who delegates an investigator to go to the respondent. He tells him that a complaint has been filed with the commission, but in no instance is the name of the person complaining made known. The investigator asks the respondent for his side of the story and testimony is taken. He may then go to the complainant for further information.

After all the evidence has been collected in the case it is turned over to the board of review. This board is composed of three lawyers who are supposed to be impartial in their viewpoint, and to judge each case in an unbiased manner. If it finds that the evidence is insufficient to prove the respondent guilty as charged, it recommends to the commissioners that the case be dismissed. If, however, it feels that a complaint should be filed against the respondent, it immediately notifies him to this effect and sets a date for an informal hearing.

Complaint May Be Filed.

If, as stated before, the respondent proves his point that he is not guilty with which he is charged, the case is dismissed. If he does not accept the offer of this informal hearing, or if he admits that he is doing the things of which his competitor has complained, but for one reason or another will not agree to stipulate, the board goes ahead with its report to the commissioners recommending that a complaint be filed against him.

After the board has recommended a complaint the case is submitted to an individual commissioner. If the commission finds that the evidence leads it to believe that there has been a violation of the law, a formal complaint is issued against the respondent. The respondent is notified and given a specified length of time in which to reply.

The case then goes to the chief counsel, who in turn gives it to a trial attorney, who presents the commission's case at the hearings. These hearings are held at a point which is most convenient to the respondent. Since it would be a physical impossibility for the commissioners to hear personally every case which comes before the commission, a trial examiner is appointed to represent them. He, as in the case of the attorneys constituting the board of review, is supposed to view each case impartially.

After the trial examiner has heard all the testimony on both sides, he submits his report together with the written testimony to the commissioners. If the commissioners find that the complaint is confirmed by the evidence, an order to cease and desist is issued to the respondent.

The federal trade commission, however, has no authority to enforce any order it may issue. Therefore, if the respondent does not see fit to comply with such an order, he may take it into court and ask that it be set aside. If, however, the court sustains the order of the commission, the respondent must obey it. Otherwise he may be charged with contempt of court.

While under the new order of procedure respondents are protected from publicity up to the time a complaint is filed, in the events they do not agree to stipulate and the commission files a formal complaint charging them with certain unfair practices, a public statement of these charges is given to the press. This has been the cause of considerable dissatisfaction among manufacturers who have been so charged. They claim that no publicity should be given the charges until they have been proved, because such publicity injures their standing. It is understood that the commission at the present time is trying to develop some plan which will overcome this difficulty.

Possibly it was the weight of the arguments which caused a West Virginia school-house floor to collapse when the relative values of old bachelors and old maids were being debated.—Defiance Crescent-News.

Governor's Veto No Surprise

Gov. Donahey's veto of Representative R. W. Emmons' bill providing for a municipal court at East Liverpool was no surprise for supporters of the measure. His action was expected in view of his rejection of a similar proposal for Ashtabula. The executive's disapproval of the plan was made on the ground that the legislature should enact a uniform municipal court act with a view of preventing cluttering up the state's general code with local municipal court measures.

However, East Liverpool is not downhearted. Reports from Columbus inlicate that the Emmons measure will be included among the bills to be passed over the governor's head when the assembly reconvenes on April 16.

The municipal court bill has been generally approved. The proposal, twice rejected by Mr. Donahey, has been endorsed by Trades and Labor Council, Chamber of Commerce, the Southern Columbiana County Bar association and civic organiaztions. And it was prompted by the belief that it not only would prove a revenue producer, but would be an advantage over the system now prevailing in minor courts. And, too, it would mean curtailment of much expense now necessitated by trips to Lisbon for the trial of civil claims under $1,000.

The municipal court is a success. East Liverpool should be given the privilege of creating the tribunal.

Jefferson's Decalogue

The anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birth, today, recalls a work of that statesman and philosopher which is too little known. It is what he called "A Decalogue of Canons for Observation in Practical Life," some of which have been attributed to Franklin, anl all of which are worth remembering. They are as follows:

1. Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today.
2. Never trouble another for what you can do yourself.
3. Never spend your money before you have it.
4. Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you.
5. Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold.
6. We never repent of having eaten too little.
7. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.
8. How much pain have cost us the evils which have never happened.
9. Take things always by their smooth handle.
10. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, a hundred.

Facts On the Shoals

Fortunately, as many think, the last congress adjourned without doing anything about Muscle Shoals. The country is anxious to dispose of the shoals problem, but it became evident toward the close of the session that both public and congress were far from having all the essential facts.

There was no agreement among engineers as to how much power could be produced there, how much of it would be available for nitrates, how well the plants already finished were adapted to nitrate manufacture, whether enough fertilizer could be made there to play a really important part in agriculture, and whether fertilizer or power was the more essential to southern prosperity. These questions should be settled before any final disposition is made of that valuable and unique property.

The president has appointed a commission, as requested in a congressional resolution, to inquire and report on the matter at the opening of the next session. It it does its work competently, it will be time to go ahead with that big power plant, under public or private control, as may seem best. But whatever disposition may be made of the property, there will be strong objection to the government surrendering title to the shoals, or leasing them to private interests for as long as was contemplated in the Ford lease—a full century.

Another "Perfect Crime"

It will be remembered that Messrs. Loeb and Leopold originated the "perfect crime," when they killed a young acquaintance for the thrill of it. Also that their crime proved, in the end, to have fallen short of the perfection intended.

Now they have had imitators in a different sphere of crime. Two men the other night planned a "perfect robbery" on the New York Central railroad. They expected to get $100,000 in bank shipments of currency and newly minted coins. Their information was straight and their plans were correct. But all they got was $700 cash. They merely made the technical mistake of robbing the wrong train.

So it is usually with criminals. When they commit an apparently clever crime and make a successful "getaway," it is usually due to unforeseeable luck or to the stupidity of others. The "perfect crime" nearly always reveals imperfection. This is natural, because crime itself is essentially stupid, in a world based on moral law.

It may be, as a critic remarks, that "the prestige of a congressman was never so low as it is now." But the congressmen themselves are remedying that. Knowing that money gives prestige, they have raised their own salaries.

Having made the world more or less safe for democracy, it remains, as the Vancouver Sun observes, to "make it unsafe for hypocrisy."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

SOMEWHERE IN HOLLAND, April 2.—Holland has always appealed to my imagination. The Dutch are a sturdy race. From the train window I see a tiny herd of the small black and white cows grazing tended by two blue smocked peasants. It is a scene that might have been painted by Anton Mauve.

The little villages look so peaceful. The exterior of the cottages are in bright colors, red, yellow, blue and green and the small windows are discreetly veiled in snowy curtains quaintly pleated. Outside many doors are wooden shoes arrayed in line, from father's huge ones to the tiny pair for baby.

Housewives of Holland are thrifty. They do not permit dust or dirt to be brought in from the street. Some of the homes have only two rooms, the bedroom and combination kitchen parlor. Everything is polished and shiny. The kitchen range glitters with copper and brass utensils.

In the little cobble-stone streets are women with their tightly laced bodices and starched lace caps. The men in their baggy trousers laced up the back and high caps. The blonde children in their suits of blue—shy and smiling. They wave at you, then run to hide.

In one home, they were having breakfast. Dry bread and cheese. The floor, a dado of old blue and white tiles, fairly shone. The dresser nearby was laden with crockery and glass. The windmills lazily turning are comforting and restful. There is a monotony of flat land.

Everyone in Holland seems happy and well contented. Everywhere are flocks of geese waddling along with their eternal quack-quack. The old men sit squatting in groups, puffing at their long cigars. The youths here are big and strapping and exude health.

Just as I am in the midst of a Holland rhapsody, a man came through the train calling "Telegram! Telegram for Mr. Issac Cohen!" I had to shake myself. Surely I must be dreaming. For this sounded for all the world like a lobby of a New York hotel.

Mr. Cohen, by the way, happened to be in my compartment. He is on his way to Amsterdam after being in America for 21 years. His brother is there. He has prospered in the mercantile business in a middle-sized city in Nebraska. I spoke to him of the indifference to human fretting in Holland. At the moment I rather thought I would like to spend my approaching old age there. Mr. Cohen had a bland, generous smile and shrugged. "The most monotonous country in the world," he said. "They become as clabby as their cheese."

I suppose Mr. Cohen is right. People who remain in America very long are not easily transplanted to other soil. It is my belief that most of the Americans living over here who try to give you the impression of contentment are merely "kidding" themselves.

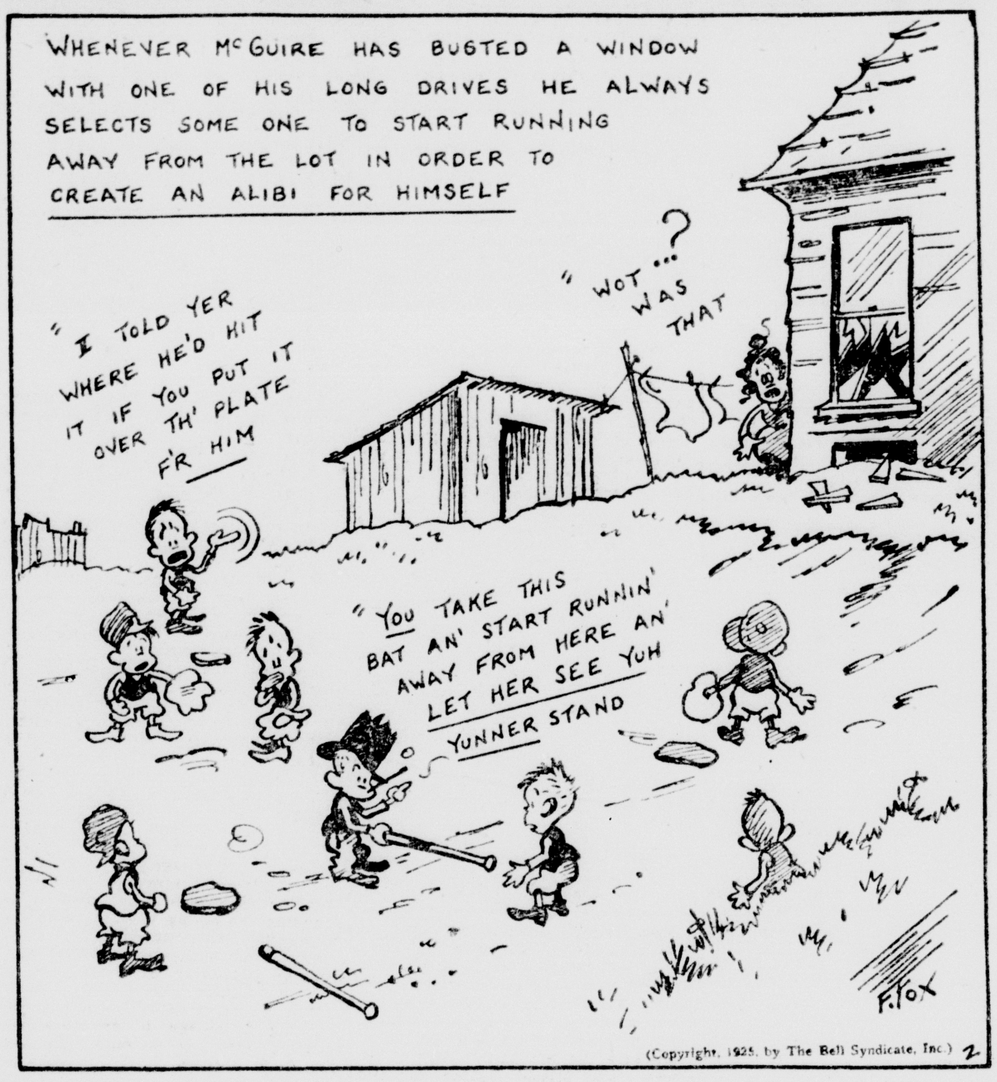

We in America are often accused of confounding bustle with creation and noise with achievement. What I have seen of Holland is beautiful. There is no bustle nor noise. Yet you have the feeling of a lack of creation and a lack of achievement. So perhaps there is more to our rush and roar than Europeans think.

My impressions of Amestrdam is just a blurr. Upon my arrival was a cable from Paris which made it imperative to leave by first train. I had only three hours and a little over and the most important piece of baggage I carry was lost. I felt much like one of those dumb-looking immigrants at Battery Park trying to find his way uptown. I went from one place to another, trying to make myself understood and was always met by a shake of the head, indicating they didn't know what I was talking about. I remembered Mr. Cohen's hotel and sent for him. He gave generously of his time and I was able to find my baggage, catch the train, utterly exhausted.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Trade Commission Procedure.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The federal trade commission has recently announced a change in its rules of procedure. This change is in accordance with the expressed views of Chairman Van Fleet, and, although no official announcement has been made to this effect, it is believed by many to be in compliance with the request of President Coolidge included in his first report to congress.

The prime object of this change is to remove the cause of the many complaints that the method of procedure of the commission is too harsh, but still accomplish the purposes of the law which created the commission. It is also hoped that by this change the commission will be able to catch up on its work and reduce the large docket of pending cases and handle more expeditiously current cases—in a word, get more work done for less money.

The first part of this announcement is not new, but is a reiteration of the policy of the commission in agreeing to handle cases of alleged unfair practices. In part, it says, "In all such cases there must be three parties involved, the respondent, the competitor injured and the public." In cases where the matter is merely a private controversy between competitors, and the interest of the public does not enter into it, the commission will not entertain proceedings. Such matters are redressable in the courts, and it is not felt that it is within the province of the commission to undertake such cases.

The new departure in method of procedure is that the respondent is now to be given an opportunity to show reason why a complaint should not be issued. Under the old order notice and hearing were not given until after complaint had been issued. Many business houses complained bitterly that the issuance of these complaints with the attendant publicity often damaged their business. And they claimed this was particularly unfair in cases where the hearings developed that the respondent was not guilty of the practices charged. A majority of the commission conceded that their arguments were reasonable, and, hence, the change of procedure.

Question of Unfair Practice.

In order better to facilitate a prompt and effective remedy against unfair practices, the following was adopted: "The rule shall be that all cases shall be settled by stipulation except when the public interest demands otherwise . . . and that the chief examiner in accordance therewith, or the board of review, shall bring forward to the commission for such settlement all cases which in their opinion shall fall within this rule with their written recommendation."

Under this rule the commission may say to a respondent, "Look here, we find that you have been doing certain things which in our belief come under the head of 'unfair practices.' Now if you will agree to discontinue these, the case will be dropped with no publicity. However, if it is found later that you are again doing these things the evidence which we hold in this case will be used in a complaint which we will bring."

It is believed that this method not ony protects the public interest but also the respondent an opportunity to mend his ways without his business being damaged in any way.

Complaints are generally filed with the commission by competitors charging some unfair practice. The commission goes over these complaints carefully and those that are found to contain no element of public interest are dismissed. Sometimes it is found that they come under the jurisdiction of another department, such as the interstate commerce commission or the federal reserve board.

If it is found that the complaint is one for the commission it is given to the chief examiner who delegates an investigator to go to the respondent. He tells him that a complaint has been filed with the commission, but in no instance is the name of the person complaining made known. The investigator asks the respondent for his side of the story and testimony is taken. He may then go to the complainant for further information.

After all the evidence has been collected in the case it is turned over to the board of review. This board is composed of three lawyers who are supposed to be impartial in their viewpoint, and to judge each case in an unbiased manner. If it finds that the evidence is insufficient to prove the respondent guilty as charged, it recommends to the commissioners that the case be dismissed. If, however, it feels that a complaint should be filed against the respondent, it immediately notifies him to this effect and sets a date for an informal hearing.

Complaint May Be Filed.

If, as stated before, the respondent proves his point that he is not guilty with which he is charged, the case is dismissed. If he does not accept the offer of this informal hearing, or if he admits that he is doing the things of which his competitor has complained, but for one reason or another will not agree to stipulate, the board goes ahead with its report to the commissioners recommending that a complaint be filed against him.

After the board has recommended a complaint the case is submitted to an individual commissioner. If the commission finds that the evidence leads it to believe that there has been a violation of the law, a formal complaint is issued against the respondent. The respondent is notified and given a specified length of time in which to reply.

The case then goes to the chief counsel, who in turn gives it to a trial attorney, who presents the commission's case at the hearings. These hearings are held at a point which is most convenient to the respondent. Since it would be a physical impossibility for the commissioners to hear personally every case which comes before the commission, a trial examiner is appointed to represent them. He, as in the case of the attorneys constituting the board of review, is supposed to view each case impartially.

After the trial examiner has heard all the testimony on both sides, he submits his report together with the written testimony to the commissioners. If the commissioners find that the complaint is confirmed by the evidence, an order to cease and desist is issued to the respondent.

The federal trade commission, however, has no authority to enforce any order it may issue. Therefore, if the respondent does not see fit to comply with such an order, he may take it into court and ask that it be set aside. If, however, the court sustains the order of the commission, the respondent must obey it. Otherwise he may be charged with contempt of court.

While under the new order of procedure respondents are protected from publicity up to the time a complaint is filed, in the events they do not agree to stipulate and the commission files a formal complaint charging them with certain unfair practices, a public statement of these charges is given to the press. This has been the cause of considerable dissatisfaction among manufacturers who have been so charged. They claim that no publicity should be given the charges until they have been proved, because such publicity injures their standing. It is understood that the commission at the present time is trying to develop some plan which will overcome this difficulty.

Possibly it was the weight of the arguments which caused a West Virginia school-house floor to collapse when the relative values of old bachelors and old maids were being debated.—Defiance Crescent-News.

Mrs. Adeline Martin Hostess at Pretty Birthday Party

Mrs. Adeline S. Martin was hostess Tuesday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jason H. Brookes, of Pennsylvania avenue, when she celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday anniversary.

The day was spent informally. An elaborate 6 o'clock dinner was served by Mrs. Brookes, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. G. Albert Patterson, at which covers were arranged for 17 members of the family.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Martin's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce, and daughter, Miss Sara, of Steubenville; Robert Pierce of Washington, Pa., and Howard Pierce of Pittsburgh.

April Fool Party

"All-Fools" day was observed yesterday by the ladies of the East Liverpool Country club with a 1 o'clock luncheon, at which many of the courses were surprises. Everything about the party was backwards. Following the dinner, progressive bridge was the diversion of the social hours, the foot table being where the head table usually is. The trophy was awarded to the person having the lowest score instead of the highest. It was one of the most enoyable affairs of the season.

Mrs. F. L. Heal Hostess.

Mrs. F. L. Heal delightfully entertained the members of the B. H. T. O. club last evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Wolfe, of Chester. The social hours were spent with cards and music, after which a two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wolfe. Covers were arranged for 12 guests.

The next meeting will be held April 15 in the home of Mrs. Hugo Miller, of Indiana avenue, Chester.

Marriage is Announced.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Mabel Michaels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Michaels of Harvey avenue, East End, to Oscar E. Talbot of Chester, W. Va. The ceremony took place Tuesday afternoon in Wellsburg, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot left for a honeymoon trip to Cleveland and Chicago. Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents.

Previous to her marriage the bride was employed by the American Porcelain company. The bridegroom is a miner.

Wedding Anniversary Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hunter celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary, in their homes in Moore street, Tuesday evening. Informal social hours were enjoyed following a 6 o'clock dinner, which was served by members of the family. Sweetpeas centered the table, while a color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the appointments. Covers were arranged for Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Edgell and son, Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulmer and son, Jack, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edgell, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Miller and children, Norma and Willard; Mrs. Rose Edgell and son, Francis; Mr. and Mrs. R. Boley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunter and daughter, Margaret.

Pythian Sisters' Inspection.

Beatrice temple No. 21, Pythian Sisters, held its annual inspection last evening. Mrs. Albright, of Lisbon, district deputy, and 50 members and visitors were present. Following the business session, a class of five candidates was initiated. Luncheon was served and informal social hours followed. The social committee chairman was Mrs. Blanche Barrett.

Visitors were present from Lisbon, Chester and Wellsville.

W. R. C. Session.

The Woman's Relief Corps will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the G. A. R. hall, East Fourth and Washington streets, when preparations will be made for the bean bake to be held next Thursday.

Tri-Hi Dancing Party.

A Tri-Hi and Ex-Hi dancing party will be held Friday evening, between 8:30 and 11:30 o'clock in the I. O. O. F. temple, West Sixth street. The committee in charge includes Ray McDevitt and Harold Peppin. Norman E. Stillwell and his symphony orchestra will furnish the following program:

Fox trot—Where's My Sweetie Hiding.
Fox trot—Southern Rose.
Fox trot—No Wonder.

Friendly Girls Entertained

Members of the Friendly Girls club was delightfully entertained last evening in the home of Miss Pauline Wilson of May street. A short business session was held, after which music, games and dancing were enjoyed. Miss Margaret Wilson presided at the piano. Miss Margaret Wilson received a trophy in a guessing contest. A luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Mildred Payton. A color scheme of purple and white predominated in the luncheon appointments. Places were arranged for eight guests.

Special guests of the club included Misses Louella Bevington, Margaret Wilson and Wilma Smith.

Denies Wedding Report.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Pauline Hoffman, of Washington street, Newell, to David Bean, of Wellsville, which was made yesterday, is erroneous, Miss Hoffman said today.

Church Class Session.

Class No. 13, of the Second Presbyterian church, will hold a meeting in the social rooms of the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. A coverdish party will follow the business session.

Jolly Fellows' Club Dance.

The Jolly Fellows' club will entertain with a semi-weekly dancing party tonight in the Eagles' ball room, Broadway. Norman E. Stillwell and his symphony orchestra will furnish the following program:

Fox trot—Tokio Blues.
Fox trot—Call of the South.
Fox trot — Where's My Little Old New York.
Fox trot — Shade of the Sheltering Palms.

Veteran Mail Man Dies on Eve of His Reinstatement

HORNELL, N. Y., April — Fifteen minutes after John Hunt, veteran mail carrier, died at St. James Mercy hospital, orders directing his reinstatement in the postal service were received from the white house.

Forced to retire, after 30 years of service, because of ill health, Hunt had been trying since 1920, two years after his forced retirement, to obtain reinstatement. President Coolidge finally signed the order too late.

No man ever succeeded in business by worrying about it.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Adeline Martin Hostess at Pretty Birthday Party

Mrs. Adeline S. Martin was hostess Tuesday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jason H. Brookes, of Pennsylvania avenue, when she celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday anniversary.

The day was spent informally. An elaborate 6 o'clock dinner was served by Mrs. Brookes, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. G. Albert Patterson, at which covers were arranged for 17 members of the family.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Martin's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce, and daughter, Miss Sara, of Steubenville; Robert Pierce of Washington, Pa., and Howard Pierce of Pittsburgh.

April Fool Party

"All-Fools" day was observed yesterday by the ladies of the East Liverpool Country club with a 1 o'clock luncheon, at which many of the courses were surprises. Everything about the party was backwards. Following the dinner, progressive bridge was the diversion of the social hours, the foot table being where the head table usually is. The trophy was awarded to the person having the lowest score instead of the highest. It was one of the most enoyable affairs of the season.

Mrs. F. L. Heal Hostess.

Mrs. F. L. Heal delightfully entertained the members of the B. H. T. O. club last evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Wolfe, of Chester. The social hours were spent with cards and music, after which a two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wolfe. Covers were arranged for 12 guests.

The next meeting will be held April 15 in the home of Mrs. Hugo Miller, of Indiana avenue, Chester.

Marriage is Announced.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Mabel Michaels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Michaels of Harvey avenue, East End, to Oscar E. Talbot of Chester, W. Va. The ceremony took place Tuesday afternoon in Wellsburg, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot left for a honeymoon trip to Cleveland and Chicago. Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents.

Previous to her marriage the bride was employed by the American Porcelain company. The bridegroom is a miner.

Wedding Anniversary Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hunter celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary, in their homes in Moore street, Tuesday evening. Informal social hours were enjoyed following a 6 o'clock dinner, which was served by members of the family. Sweetpeas centered the table, while a color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the appointments. Covers were arranged for Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Edgell and son, Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulmer and son, Jack, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edgell, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Miller and children, Norma and Willard; Mrs. Rose Edgell and son, Francis; Mr. and Mrs. R. Boley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunter and daughter, Margaret.

Pythian Sisters' Inspection.

Beatrice temple No. 21, Pythian Sisters, held its annual inspection last evening. Mrs. Albright, of Lisbon, district deputy, and 50 members and visitors were present. Following the business session, a class of five candidates was initiated. Luncheon was served and informal social hours followed. The social committee chairman was Mrs. Blanche Barrett.

Visitors were present from Lisbon, Chester and Wellsville.

W. R. C. Session.

The Woman's Relief Corps will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the G. A. R. hall, East Fourth and Washington streets, when preparations will be made for the bean bake to be held next Thursday.

Tri-Hi Dancing Party.

A Tri-Hi and Ex-Hi dancing party will be held Friday evening, between 8:30 and 11:30 o'clock in the I. O. O. F. temple, West Sixth street. The committee in charge includes Ray McDevitt and Harold Peppin. Norman E. Stillwell and his symphony orchestra will furnish the following program:

Fox trot—Where's My Sweetie Hiding.
Fox trot—Southern Rose.
Fox trot—No Wonder.
Fox trot—Yearning.
Two step—I'll See You in My Dreams.
Fox trot—Show Me the Way.
Waltz—When You and I Were Seventeen.
One step—Lot's O'Mamma.
Fox trot—Glad Eyes.
Fox trot—Could You Care for Me.
Fox trot—June.
Fox trot—Let Me Be the First To Kiss You Good Morning.
Fox trot—Because They All Loved You.
Two step—Hot Tamale Molly.
Waltz—All Alone.
Fox trot—Copenhagen.

Friendly Girls Entertained

Members of the Friendly Girls club was delightfully entertained last evening in the home of Miss Pauline Wilson of May street. A short business session was held, after which music, games and dancing were enjoyed. Miss Margaret Wilson presided at the piano. Miss Margaret Wilson received a trophy in a guessing contest. A luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Mildred Payton. A color scheme of purple and white predominated in the luncheon appointments. Places were arranged for eight guests.

Special guests of the club included Misses Louella Bevington, Margaret Wilson and Wilma Smith.

Denies Wedding Report.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Pauline Hoffman, of Washington street, Newell, to David Bean, of Wellsville, which was made yesterday, is erroneous, Miss Hoffman said today.

Church Class Session.

Class No. 13, of the Second Presbyterian church, will hold a meeting in the social rooms of the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. A coverdish party will follow the business session.

Jolly Fellows' Club Dance.

The Jolly Fellows' club will entertain with a semi-weekly dancing party tonight in the Eagles' ball room, Broadway. Norman E. Stillwell and his symphony orchestra will furnish the following program:

Fox trot—Tokio Blues.
Fox trot—Call of the South.
Fox trot — Where's My Little Old New York.
Fox trot — Shade of the Sheltering Palms.
Two step — Tell Her in the Spring Time.
Waltz—When You and I Were Seventeen.
Fox trot—Hot Tamale Molly.
Fox trot—All Aboard for Heaven.
Fox trot—Yearning.
Fox trot—Oh! Mabel.
Two step—Show Me the Way.
Two step—When I Was the Daddy.
Fox trot—If You Don't Tell Me.
Fox trot—Toodles.
Fox trot—All Alone.
Fox trot—Southern Rose.

Seniors Will Stage Play.

Plans are now in progress for the annual senior class play, "Charming," to be presented in the high school auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Darsler, who produced "Kathleen" and "Fi-Fi" last year, will direct the comedy. Mrs. Darsler arrived here yesterday, and a meeting of the senior class was held last evening in the high school to read the play and select roles.

Services in Leibschner Home.

Ladies of the Maccabees and ladies of the G. A. R. will hold services for the late Mrs. William Leibschner tonight at 7:15 o'clock in the home of her son, Carl Leibschner, of Montgomery avenue.

Christian Endeavor Society Meeting.

The Christian Endeavor society meeting, which will be held in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church Friday evening, will be in charge of William Scott, captain of a campaign team. A program of musical and literary numbers will be given. Refreshments will be served.

Philathea Class Food Sale.

The Philathea class of the First United Presbyterian church will hold a food sale in the D. M. Ogilvie annex, Washington street, Saturday afternoon between 1 and 5 o'clock.

Country Club Bridge Party.

The bridge party to be held by the members of the East Liverpool Country club, Friday evening, will be in charge of a committee including Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Harker. Playing will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Trophies will be given and refreshments served.

Veteran Mail Man Dies on Eve of His Reinstatement

HORNELL, N. Y., April — Fifteen minutes after John Hunt, veteran mail carrier, died at St. James Mercy hospital, orders directing his reinstatement in the postal service were received from the white house.

Forced to retire, after 30 years of service, because of ill health, Hunt had been trying since 1920, two years after his forced retirement, to obtain reinstatement. President Coolidge finally signed the order too late.

Musicians to Meet.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—With the view to helping make "America the Music Center of the World," music teachers and delegates of all federated music clubs in Ohio will come to Columbus to participate in the joint convention of the Ohio Music Teachers' and the Ohio Federation of Music clubs, to be held April 20-24. Musicians of national and international prominence will appear on the program, either as performers or as lecturers. Among these are: Mme. Marguerite Melville Liszinewska, Polish pianiste and faculty member of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music; Clarence Dickinson, New York; Herbert Witherspoon, New York; Maurice Kessler, Oberlin college, and Cecil Fanning, Columbus.

Wild Ducks Appear.

LOGAN—Wild ducks are beginning to appear in large number in the ponds and streams of the upper Hocking valley. Game protectors have issued warnings to hunters to avoid spring shooting, and they are patroling a number of places where the ducks are especially numerous.

Facts about Child-birth

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary.

An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend,'" declared another. Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you.

A Godsend to the Bilious!

At Fifteen She Saw a Life of Suffering Before Her—At Twenty-five She Has Enjoyed Ten Years of Good Health

"I take great pleasure in telling you and all others what a Godsend it was to me when I began taking Beecham's Pills. I am a woman twenty-five years of age and I had been a constant sufferer from bilious attacks followed by severe headaches. About ten years ago, I read an item in the paper concerning Beecham's Pills.

"I gave them a trial and they certainly proved to be wonderful. I have never been without them since.

"I hope all persons who suffer in this manner will not hesitate to try them. I shall continue their use always." Mrs. EDNA DEAN, Providence, R. I.

Constipation —the penalty of civilization

THE Vikings of old could indulge in huge feasts of heavy foods without dread of constipation. Strenuous physical activity was their safeguard.

Conditions are changed today. Intestines clog, and half-measures such as overnight cathartics, when they work at all, often interrupt sleep or embarrass a person in the daytime.

How different with Pluto Water! It acts in 30 minutes to two hours. It flushes away all the disease-breeding accumulations quickly, harmlessly, without griping—leaves you feeling a new person.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY MRS. MORTON

MENU HINT.

Breakfast.
Stewed Prunes or Apricots.
Gems. Bacon and Eggs.
Coffee.

Luncheon.
Fish Flakes. Baked Potatoes.
Spinach. Luncheon Cake.
Tea.

Dinner.
Roast Beef. Brown Potatoes.
Cabbage Slaw. Celery.
Bread. Butter.
Jam and Preserves.
Prune Pie and Coffee.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Fish Flakes and Baked Potatoes—Bake as many potatoes as desired. Cut the baked potatoes in half and scoop out the inside, leaving the shell intact. To the potato add two teaspoons butter, two teaspoons fish flakes, two teaspoons of milk and season to taste with salt, paprika and pepper. Mix thoroughly and return to potato shells. Sprinkle the potato with paprika and cheese. Return to hot oven long enough to melt cheese. Serve hot.

Prune Pie—Take two-thirds pound prunes, one-third cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons lemon juice. Wash prunes and soak in cold water two hours or more. Then cook slowly in same water until soft, remove pits and cut up. Mix the sugar and lemon together. Line the plate with rich pastry, dredge bottom a little with flour and pour the juice and prunes. Dot with batter. Put on upper crust, and make in moderate oven.

Caring For the Invalid.

Miss Gunn, of the home economics department of Columbia University, says that in caring for a sick person in your home you should "never ask the patient what he wants. Let it be a surprise. Then use your ingenuity to make the tray look as pretty and inviting as possible. Have the linen spotless and if you haven't a cloth to fit the tray use a large napkin folded. Choose your prettiest, gayest china and glass. Have cups and pitchers with handles that are easy to hold.

"Do not put too much food on the tray. Do not let foods stand before serving—have hot ones hot and cold ones cold. Cook all cereals long and thoroughly. Season everything very delicately. Give no condiments. Serve little and often, rather than more at longer intervals. Be regular with the meals.

"If you have no bedside table you can buy or perhaps make at home a bed tray with folding legs which fit over the patient's knees. A pillow placed across the lap is a good substitute for both."

Suggestions.

The next time you dye white silk hose, dye some mending silk at the same time and when a hole appears you will have the exact shade of thread for mending it. Wind some white mending silk around your hand to form a hank, and tie so it does not come apart. Hang up to dry, then wind on a spool.

It is most annoying to find unexpectedly that the rubber knobs on one's hose supporters have suddenly become loose, or have been pulled off. Narrow strips of adhesive tape will soon remedy the former difficulty. The later is remedied by the following: First, cut one or two round pieces of tape and place them on top of the metal protuberance; then wind enough narrow strips of tape around the pole to hold the top firmly in place.

Never serve roasts without first removing any skewers or strings that may be attached.

After freezing ice cream draw off all the salt, using four parts of ice to one part of salt. A wet, loose packing will mean soft cream.

To keep bread or cake moist, place a piece of apple in the box with it.

"DIAMOND DYES"

COLOR THINGS NEW

Beautiful home dyeing and tinting is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes. Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades or boil to dye rich permanent colors. Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings, everything new.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.

To-day's Offer to All Who Have Stomach Distress

Try One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin for Indigestion or Any Stomach Trouble and if Not Delighted With the Good Results East Liverpool Druggists Will Gladly Return the Purchase Price.

Why not get a bottle of this grand stomach medicine today with the distinct understanding, that your money will be promptly returned if it does not stop the most acute stomach distress quicker than anything you ever used.

Your stomach may be so distended with gas that you think every minute your heart will stop beating, yet with one desertspoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that dreadful feeling of suffocation will vanish in a few minutes.

With the same speed it stops gas, acidity, belching and heartburn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with Menthol and other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey last year over 6,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis or dyspepsia or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and healthy that you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin. Jesse D. Holloway sells dozens of it.

"Laddie Boy" Will Soon be Mascot Of Chicago Youths

BOSTON, March — "Laddie Boy," the famous Airedale pet of the late President Harding, is to have a new home. He is going to Chicago to give as a mascot of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic. The boys have contributed to pay the dog's fare to Chicago.

The famous Airedale has gone from high to low degree since he roamed the White House lawns as the first dog of the land. His latest humiliation came recently in West Newton when he was arrested for vagrancy.

You can't tell. The day may come when Mr. Warren will feel like thanking General Dawes for failing to reach his desk in the senate that day.—Columbus Dispatch.

INDIGESTION GASTRITIS

No matter what you call your stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, sourness or just plain misery or distress. Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy is guaranteed to cure you quickly and bring relief instantly or nothing to pay. And all good druggists can supply you. Remember the name—

Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy

Ask Frigate Preservation.

President Coolidge has been asked to aid in the preservation of the Frigate Constitution which was the heavy hitter during the war of 1912. Its threatened condemnation in 1820 inspired Oliver Wendall Holmes to pen his famous protest: "Aye, tear her tattered ensign down, long has it waved on high."

Lads Fool Motorists.

HAYDENVILLE, April — Five little boys took a new automobile tire, to which they fastened a long string, and placed the tire in the state road near here. After about 50 motorists stopped to pick up the tire—only to have it jerked back into the bushes — the youngsters were haled into court and lectured.

Correct this sentence: "I'm dicting," said the wife, "but I keep on preparing fine meals for John."—Akron Beacon-Journal.

"Relief From Goitre"

"Almost Beyond Belief," Says Mrs. Ritchie. Shortness of Breath, Choking, Nervousness, Palpitation Soon Vanished.

Mrs. Mary H. Richie, New Paris, Ohio, writes:

"My friends soon remarked how much better I look. The first few applications of Sorbol-Quadruple gave me relief, and now I am completely cured. It's so easy to use. Come and see me or write and I will tell you my whole experience."

Sold at all drug stores or write Sorbol Company, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Hodson's Drug Store. adv.

Musicians to Meet.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—With the view to helping make "America the Music Center of the World," music teachers and delegates of all federated music clubs in Ohio will come to Columbus to participate in the joint convention of the Ohio Music Teachers' and the Ohio Federation of Music clubs, to be held April 20-24. Musicians of national and international prominence will appear on the program, either as performers or as lecturers. Among these are: Mme. Marguerite Melville Liszinewska, Polish pianiste and faculty member of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music; Clarence Dickinson, New York; Herbert Witherspoon, New York; Maurice Kessler, Oberlin college, and Cecil Fanning, Columbus.

Wild Ducks Appear.

LOGAN—Wild ducks are beginning to appear in large number in the ponds and streams of the upper Hocking valley. Game protectors have issued warnings to hunters to avoid spring shooting, and they are patrolling a number of places where the ducks are especially numerous.

Facts about Child-birth

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary.

An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend,'" declared another. Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you.

FREE BOOKLET

Write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. B-A 38, Atlanta, Ga., for free booklet giving many facts every expectant mother should know. "Mother's Friend" is sold at all good drug stores—everywhere.

A Godsend to the Bilious!

At Fifteen She Saw a Life of Suffering Before Her—At Twenty-five She Has Enjoyed Ten Years of Good Health

"I take great pleasure in telling you and all others what a Godsend it was to me when I began taking Beecham's Pills. I am a woman twenty-five years of age and I had been a constant sufferer from bilious attacks followed by severe headaches. About ten years ago, I read an item in the paper concerning Beecham's Pills.

"I gave them a trial and they certainly proved to be wonderful. I have never been without them since.

"I hope all persons who suffer in this manner will not hesitate to try them. I shall continue their use always." Mrs. EDNA DEAN, Providence, R. I.

Take Beecham's Pills for biliousness, constipation, sick headaches, and other digestive ailments.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
by MRS. MORTON

MENU HINT.

Breakfast.
Stewed Prunes or Apricots.
Gems. Bacon and Eggs.
Coffee.
Luncheon.
Fish Flakes. Baked Potatoes.
Spinach. Luncheon Cake.
Tea.
Dinner.
Roast Beef. Brown Potatoes.
Cabbage Slaw. Celery.
Bread. Butter.
Jam and Preserves.
Prune Pie and Coffee.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Fish Flakes and Baked Potatoes—Bake as many potatoes as desired. Cut the baked potatoes in half and scoop out the inside, leaving the shell intact. To the potato add two teaspoons butter, two teaspoons fish flakes, two teaspoons of milk and season to taste with salt, paprika and pepper. Mix thoroughly and return to potato shells. Sprinkle the potato with paprika and cheese. Return to hot oven long enough to melt cheese. Serve hot.

Prune Pie—Take two-thirds pound prunes, one-third cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons lemon juice. Wash prunes and soak in cold water two hours or more. Then cook slowly in same water until soft, remove pits and cut up. Mix the sugar and lemon together. Line the plate with rich pastry, dredge bottom a little with flour and pour the juice and prunes. Dot with batter. Put on upper crust, and make in moderate oven.

Caring For the Invalid.

Miss Gunn, of the home economics department of Columbia University, says that in caring for a sick person in your home you should "never ask the patient what he wants. Let it be a surprise. Then use your ingenuity to make the tray look as pretty and inviting as possible. Have the linen spotless and if you haven't a cloth to fit the tray use a large napkin folded. Choose your prettiest, gayest china and glass. Have cups and pitchers with handles that are easy to hold.

"Do not put too much food on the tray. Do not let foods stand before serving—have hot ones hot and cold ones cold. Cook all cereals long and thoroughly. Season everything very delicately. Give no condiments. Serve little and often, rather than more at longer intervals. Be regular with the meals.

"If you have no bedside table you can buy or perhaps make at home a bed tray with folding legs which fit over the patient's knees. A pillow placed across the lap is a good substitute for both."

Suggestions.

The next time you dye white silk hose, dye some mending silk at the same time and when a hole appears you will have the exact shade of thread for mending it. Wind some white mending silk around your hand to form a hank, and tie so it does not come apart. Hang up to dry, then wind on a spool.

It is most annoying to find unexpectedly that the rubber knobs on one's hose supporters have suddenly become loose, or have been pulled off. Narrow strips of adhesive tape will soon remedy the former difficulty. The later is remedied by the following: First, cut one or two round pieces of tape and place them on top of the metal protuberance; then wind enough narrow strips of tape around the pole to hold the top firmly in place.

Never serve roasts without first removing any skewers or strings that may be attached.

After freezing ice cream draw off all the salt, using four parts of ice to one part of salt. A wet, loose packing will mean soft cream.

To keep bread or cake moist, place a piece of apple in the box with it.

"DIAMOND DYES"

COLOR THINGS NEW

Beautiful home dyeing and tinting is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes. Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades or boil to dye rich, permanent colors. Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings, everything new.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.

To-day's Offer to All Who Have Stomach Distress

Try One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin for Indigestion or Any Stomach Trouble and if Not Delighted With the Good Results East Liverpool Druggists Will Gladly Return the Purchase Price.

Why not get a bottle of this grand stomach medicine today with the distinct understanding, that your money will be promptly returned if it does not stop the most acute stomach distress quicker than anything you ever used.

Your stomach may be so distended with gas that you think every minute your heart will stop beating, yet with one desertspoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that dreadful feeling of suffocation will vanish in a few minutes.

With the same speed it stops gas, acidity, belching and heartburn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with Menthol and other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey last year over 6,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis or dyspepsia or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and healthy that you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin, Jesse D. Holloway sells dozens of it.

Constipation —the penalty of civilization

THE Vikings of old could indulge in huge feasts of heavy foods without dread of constipation. Strenuous physical activity was their safeguard.

Conditions are changed today. Intestines clog, and half-measures such as overnight cathartics, when they work at all, often interrupt sleep or embarrass a person in the daytime.

How different with Pluto Water! It acts in 30 minutes to two hours. It flushes away all the disease-breeding accumulations quickly, harmlessly, without griping—leaves you feeling a new person.

Remember, time counts when you need a physic—appendicitis or pneumonia may develop from delay. Put your trust in quick-acting Pluto. Prescribed by physicians, sold by druggists and bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana.

"Laddie Boy" Will Soon be Mascot Of Chicago Youths

BOSTON, March — "Laddie Boy," the famous Airedale pet of the late President Harding, is to have a new home. He is going to Chicago to give as a mascot of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic. The boys have contributed to pay the dog's fare to Chicago.

The famous Airedale has gone from high to low degree since he roamed the White House lawns as the first dog of the land. His latest humiliation came recently in West Newton when he was arrested for vagrancy.

You can't tell. The day may come when Mr. Warren will feel like thanking General Dawes for failing to reach his desk in the senate that day.—Columbus Dispatch.

INDIGESTION GASTRITIS

No matter what you call your stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, sourness or just plain misery or distress. Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy is guaranteed to cure you quickly and bring relief instantly or nothing to pay. And all good druggists can supply you. Remember the name—

Lads Fool Motorists.

HAYDENVILLE, April — Five little boys took a new automobile tire, to which they fastened a long string, and placed the tire in the state road near here. After about 50 motorists stopped to pick up the tire—only to have it jerked back into the bushes — the youngsters were haled into court and lectured.

Correct this sentence: "I'm dicting," said the wife, "but I keep on preparing fine meals for John."—Akron Beacon-Journal.

"Relief From Goitre"

SENATE FACES BIG PROBLEMS

Bill to License State Chiropractors Causes Heated Debate.

The senate's troubles with the bill to license chiropractors came nearer their end when questions of amendment were disposed of and the bill sent to its third reading. A pending amendment by Senator Hugus which would have required two years' college education for chiropractors, which was withdrawn, and another amendment, which the senate had adopted yesterday was reconsidered. This provided that a chiropractor who had eight years of ordinary school education in addition to that in chiropractic school, and who had practiced for five years, of which three had been in this state, could be licensed without examination. After the vote to reconsider, Senator Hogg, who had presented the amendment, withdrew it, and Senator Kee, sponsor of the bill, offered a similar one except that it required a high school education or its equivalent. This was adopted.

The appointment of Senator Herold, who brought before the senate charges that 1923 acts had been altered after their passage, and Senator Smith as, as members on the committee to investigate these charges, was announced by the president pro tem, Senator Marsh. Speaker Keattley in the house appointed Delegates Underwood, Andrews and Hall, of Mingo county, as the members for that body.

The "loan shark" bill which had already passed the house, providing for 3½ per cent interest per month on loans of $300 or less, was passed by the senate after a debate in which Senator Baker opposed the bill and Senators Willis, Johnson and Cannon defended it as the best means of protecting borrowers of small sums needed to meet distressing emergencies. The bill was passed by a vote of 19 to 5, those voting against it being Senators Baker, Henshaw, Herold, Highland and Kidd.

PANHANDLE MINES STILL OPERATING

Little activity has been shown by the United Mine Workers toward organizing the non-union mines in the Panhandle area of District No. 6. It is the belief in Wellsburgh that this will be among the last fields in West Virginia where steps will be taken toward effecting a miners' organization.

The West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal company, operating three mines in Brooke county, has barely kept its mines in operation during the last year. The domestic demand is supplied by a large number of small wagon mines in the Panhandle district. All mines were closed today for the celebration of Mitchell Day.

Delivers Special Sermon

Large crowd attended the services last evening in the Nazarene church when Rev. B. H. Pocock, pastor, delivered the second of a series of special sermons on the subject, "Trials of Young Converts, or How to Overcome Them." His topic next week will be :"The Lesson of Faith."

STAGE SET FOR BIG PRODUCTION

The opening performance of "Cheer Up," musical production, will be given this evening in the Chester theatre. The production is being staged by the Bock Porducing company of Chicago under the auspices of Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star.

The cast is composed of more than 100 local people including a large number of children who will appear in various roles. Advance sale of tickets points to capacity houses both evenings.

HANCOCK COUNTY BILL REPORTED

Members of the house committee on counties, districts and municipalities favorably reported yesterday at Charleston bills providing for issuance of certificates in Brooks county to build a new jail, and fixing the salaries of the county and circuit court clerks in Hancock county.

CHURCH SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING

Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church will meet at 7:30 this evening in the tabernacle. Following the business session a program will be rendered after which lunch will be served. Mrs. J. E. Allen will have charge of the devotionals.

Hostesses will be: Mrs. George Geren, Mrs. W. Hepler, Mrs. A. Haney, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. R. G. Grandstaff, Mrs. Floyd Hissam and Miss Twyla Hissam.

Preparatory Services

Rev. E. J. Travers of Lonaconing, Md.; will preach at the preparatory services tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church. Communion will be distributed at the services Sunday morning. He is a candidate for the vacant pastorate.

Shop Meeting Tomorrow

Final shop meeting of the season will be held at noon tomorrow in the Edwin M. Knowles pottery. Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathew's Episcopal church, will be the speaker. Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, will be the leader.

Eastern Star Meeting.

Members of Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Masonic temple, First street. Regular business will be transacted.

Rector To Speak.

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathew's Episcopal church, will conduct Lenten services this evening in St. Luke's church at Georgetown. He will have charge of the services here Sunday when palms will be distributed.

Lodge Meeting Held.

Good Luck circle No. 36, Protected Home Circle, met last evening in the I. O. O. F.K. of P. hall, Fifth street and Carolina avenue. Routine business was transacted.

Recovering from Operation.

Mrs. Ray Reddick, who underwent an operation last week in the Cleveland Clinic hospital, is recovering and will be brought to her home Sunday.

Many Attending Revival.

Large crowds continue to attend revival services in the First Christian church, where Rev. A. E. Sims is delivering the sermons. There will be meeting Saturday evening.

CONSTIPATION means MISERY

Rouge and powder will not cover up the effects of constipation. The bowels are the worst abused and most variously damaged of any organ of the body. When they are clogged, they cause lusterless eyes, dingy complexions, pimples and blackheads, bad breath, headache, bilious attacks, heart burn, acid stomach, belching, depression, nervous exhaustion, chronic weakness and other more serious ills. The bowels should act at least twice daily.

Dr. Caldwell's

SYRUP PEPSIN

The Family Laxative

—will produce proper bowel action and insure a healthy condition so Nature can exercise her proper function. A delightful liquid combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and pleasing aromatics originally prescribed by Dr. Caldwell for ailing patients of his extensive practice and used nationally for the last 30 years by all members of the family.

Acts As Nature Acts! No Inconveniences!

It does not act as a purge, forcing the bowels to artificial action, but gently and easily, without pain or discomfort. 10,000,000 bottles used annually prove its effectiveness. Old people, young people, children and babies can be kept in perfect health through its use.

It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

YOUR HEALTH

Biting of Nails Shows Lack of Control Over Nerves

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

EVERYBODY has some bad habit. If you have only one it is a piece of good luck. Most of us have a lot of undesirable habits.

Nervous persons give expression to their feelings in different ways. One will tap on the floor with his foot. He keeps this patter up for hours.

Another will pound the table with his finger tips or knuckles. Another will cross one leg over the other and swing the foot up and down, as if keeping time to music.

You have been driven almost to the verge of madness by your neighbor's constant clicking of the tongue or smacking of the lips. Cracking the joints and making a trumpet of the nose, blowing it on every occasion, are other disagreeable habits.

But it was not of these that I started to tell you. I want to warn against biting the nails. That is an annoyance to others and may do you serious harm.

Girls and women have this habit more than males. It is bad practice for anybody.

The teeth are not intended to be manicure instruments. Hang nails, cuticle and rough nails should not be operated upon, in this way. Scissors are made for this purpose.

Accept my solemn assurance that it does not look well to your friends to see you biting at your nails as savagely as if you were a barbarian gnawing at a bone.

But it isn't because it does not look well, that I warn against nail chewing. It is a violation of the rules of hygiene to put your fingers in your mouth. You may carry and do carry to your lips and tongue the germs of disease.

Fortunately, we can resist most germ invasions. This is particularly true if the tissues of the mouth are unbroken. If there is a sore or a break, the germs may enter and then you don't know what may happen.

Under no circumstances should the fingers be placed in the mouth. It is a filthy habit at best.

Somebody said that "if the salivary glands produced indigo this world would be a blue place indeed." Wouldn't it?

Think of the number of persons who wet their fingers to turn the pages and to count filthy paper money! Every street car transfer would be splashed with blue. All the pencils would be colored.

Take good care of your finger nails, but do not use your teeth for this purpose. Nail biting is a practice which no thoughtful person should follow.

Answers to Health Questions

S. G. B. Q.—What should a boy 18 years of age, 6 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 170 pounds.

• • •

R. T. Q.—What causes gas on the stomach?

A.—This may be due to hyperacidity. For full particulars, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

ARLEEN. Q.—How can one reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is a matter of self control as regards diet. For full particulars on this subject, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat you question.

• • •

M. J. F. Q.—How much should a girl 14 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 116 pounds.

• • •

RHEUMATISM. Q.—I am troubled with rheumatism in the first joint of the first fingers on each hand. The joints are swollen and painful. My knees are also troublesome. What would you advise? Is there a special diet for this condition?

A.—The treatment for rheumatism depends upon the cause in each case. Massage and application usually gives temporary relief until the further treatment can be advised. For full particulars, send a self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

A. V. Q.—What causes a red nose?

A.—This condition may be due to poor circulation. For full particulars send stamped self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

CONSTANT READER. Q.—What can I do to reduce?

A.—Eliminate from your diet as much as possible starches and sugar. Eat plenty of green vegetables and fresh fruit. Exercise daily in the open air.

• • •

READER. Q.—What should a girl of 14, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 114 pounds.

• • •

T. C. Q.—I am very much troubled with gout in my toes. What can I do to relieve this condition?

A.—The treatment depends on the cause. Very often this condition can be helped by proper attention to the diet. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for further particulars, restating your question.

• • •

C. C. Q.—What treatment and diet would you advise for kidney trouble and lumbago?

A.—A person suffering with kidney trouble should be under the constant care of a physician. The kidney condition is probably causing the lumbago.

• • •

F. J. Q.—What should a girl 18 years of age, 5 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 116 pounds.

• • •

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

Woman Gives Novel Reason for Leaving Husband for Another

BRIGHTON, England, Mar. — After 18 years of married life Beatrice Ellen Allman, aged 37, left her husband to accept a marriage proposal from another man, because she wanted to lighten the financial burder of the legal husband. She is being tried in the high court for bigamy.

First Child Labor Law in 1916.

In September, 1916, the first federal child labor law was passed, becoming operative one year later. It was administered by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor bnt was declared unconstitutional in 1898 by the supreme court. The second law was passed in 1919, known as the child labor tax act, but was declared unconstitutional in 1922. It was administered by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Friends Return to Damascus.

BARNESVILLE, April. —Mr. and Mrs. Cabries Livezey, of this place, have been named superintendent and matron of Olney college, a Friends' boarding school, situated near here, succeeding Mr. and Mrs. Millflin Hall, who announced a year ago that they would not continue as heads of the well-known institution after this year. They will return to Damascus, Columbiana county.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Parted Friends.

Friend after friends departs:
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts
That finds not here an end;
Were this frail wrold our only rest,
Living or dying, none were blest.

Beyond the flight of time,
Beyond this vale of death,
There surely is some blessed clime
Where life is not a breath,
Nor life's affections transient fire,
Whose sparks fly upward to expire.

There is a world above,
Where parting is unknown;
A whole eternity of love,
Formed for the good alone;
And faith beholds the dying here
Translated to that happier sphere.

Thus star by star declines,
Till all are passed away,
As morning high and higher shines,
To pure and perfect day;
Nor sink those stars in empty night;
They hide themselves in heaven's own light.

—James Montgomery.

'Shingle and Suffer' Is Doctors' Decree To British Women

LONDON, March.—"Shingle and suffer." That in brief is the ultimatum delivered to women by London medical men.

The prevalence of shingling is responsible for the large number of minor but excrusiating ailments that are now prevalent among women, they say.

Neuralgia, neuritis and many other nerve troubles are a few of the ills brought about by shingling, due to the back of the head being suddenly uncovered after it has been used to being covered for years, they declare.

Crefeld, Germany, is trying to regain its world-prestiege as a producer of silk neckties.

SENATE FACES BIG PROBLEMS

Bill to License State Chiropractors Causes Heated Debate.

The senate's troubles with the bill to license chiropractors came nearer their end when questions of amendment were disposed of and the bill sent to its third reading. A pending amendment by Senator Hugus which would have required two years' college education for chiropractors, which was withdrawn, and another amendment, which the senate had adopted yesterday was reconsidered. This provided that a chiropractor who had eight years of ordinary school education in addition to that in chiropractic school, and who had practiced for five years, of which three had been in this state, could be licensed without examination. After the vote to reconsider, Senator Hogg, who had presented the amendment, withdrew it, and Senator Kee, sponsor of the bill, offered a similar one except that it required a high school education or its equivalent. This was adopted.

The appointment of Senator Herold, who brought before the senate charges that 1923 acts had been altered after their passage, and Senator Smith as, as members on the committee to investigate these charges, was announced by the president pro tem, Senator Marsh. Speaker Keatley in the house appointed Delegates Underwood, Andrews and Hall, of Mingo county, as the members for that body.

The "loan shark" bill which had already passed the house, providing for 3½ per cent interest per month on loans of $300 or less, was passed by the senate after a debate in which Senator Baker opposed the bill and Senators Willis, Johnson and Cannon defended it as the best means of protecting borrowers of small sums needed to meet distressing emergencies. The bill was passed by a vote of 19 to 5, those voting against it being Senators Baker, Henshaw, Herold, Highland and Kidd.

PANHANDLE MINES STILL OPERATING

Little activity has been shown by the United Mine Workers toward organizing the non-union mines in the Panhandle area of District No. 6. It is the belief in Wellsburgh that this will be among the last fields in West Virginia where steps will be taken toward effecting a miners' organization.

The West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal company, operating three mines in Brooke county, has barely kept its mines in operation during the last year. The domestic demand is supplied by a large number of small wagon mines in the Panhandle district. All mines were closed today for the celebration of Mitchell Day.

Delivers Special Sermon

Large crowd attended the services last evening in the Nazarene church when Rev. B. H. Pocock, pastor, delivered the second of a series of special sermons on the subject, "Trials of Young Converts, or How to Overcome Them." His topic next week will be :"The Lesson of Faith."

STAGE SET FOR BIG PRODUCTION

The opening performance of "Cheer Up," musical production, will be given this evening in the Chester theatre. The production is being staged by the Bock Porducing company of Chicago under the auspices of Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star.

The cast is composed of more than 100 local people including a large number of children who will appear in various roles. Advance sale of tickets points to capacity houses both evenings.

HANCOCK COUNTY BILL REPORTED

Members of the house committee on counties, districts and municipalities favorably reported yesterday at Charleston bills providing for issuance of certificates in Brooks county to build a new jail, and fixing the salaries of the county and circuit court clerks in Hancock county.

CHURCH SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING

Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church will meet at 7:30 this evening in the tabernacle. Following the business session a program will be rendered after which lunch will be served. Mrs. J. E. Allen will have charge of the devotionals.

Hostesses will be: Mrs. George Geren, Mrs. W. Hepler, Mrs. A. Haney, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. R. G. Grandstaff, Mrs. Floyd Hissam and Miss Twyla Hissam.

Preparatory Services

Rev. E. J. Travers of Lonaconing, Md., will preach at the preparatory services tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church. Communion will be distributed at the services Sunday morning. He is a candidate for the vacant pastorate.

Many Attending Revival.

Large crowds continue to attend revival services in the First Christian church, where Rev. A. E. Sims is delivering the sermons. There will be meeting Saturday evening.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Parted Friends.

Friend after friends departs:
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts
That finds not here an end;
Were this frail world our only rest,
Living or dying, none were blest.

Beyond the flight of time,
Beyond this vale of death,
There surely is some blessed clime
Where life is not a breath,
Nor life's affections transient fire,
Whose sparks fly upward to expire.

There is a world above,
Where parting is unknown;
A whole eternity of love,
Formed for the good alone;
And faith beholds the dying here
Translated to that happier sphere.

Thus star by star declines,
Till all are passed away,
As morning high and higher shines,
To pure and perfect day;
Nor sink those stars in empty night;
They hide themselves in heaven's own light.

—James Montgomery.

Biting of Nails Shows Lack of Control Over Nerves

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

EVERYBODY has some bad habit. If you have only one it is a piece of good luck. Most of us have a lot of undesirable habits.

Nervous persons give expression to their feelings in different ways. One will tap on the floor with his foot. He keeps this patter up for hours.

Another will pound the table with his finger tips or knuckles. Another will cross one leg over the other and swing the foot up and down, as if keeping time to music.

You have been driven almost to the verge of madness by your neighbor's constant clicking of the tongue or smacking of the lips. Cracking the joints and making a trumpet of the nose, blowing it on every occasion, are other disagreeable habits.

But it was not of these that I started to tell you. I want to warn against biting the nails. That is an annoyance to others and may do you serious harm.

Girls and women have this habit more than males. It is bad practice for anybody.

The teeth are not intended to be manicure instruments. Hang nails, cuticle and rough nails should not be operated upon, in this way. Scissors are made for this purpose.

Accept my solemn assurance that it does not look well to your friends to see you biting at your nails as savagely as if you were a barbarian gnawing at a bone.

But it isn't because it does not look well that I warn against nail chewing. It is a violation of the rules of hygiene to put your fingers in your mouth. You may carry and do carry to your lips and tongue the germs of disease.

Fortunately, we can resist most germ invasions. This is particularly true if the tissues of the mouth are unbroken. If there is a sore or a break, the germs may enter and then you don't know what may happen.

Under no circumstances should the fingers be placed in the mouth. It is a filthy habit at best.

Somebody said that "if the salivary glands produced indigo this world would be a blue place indeed." Wouldn't it?

Think of the number of persons who wet their fingers to turn the pages and to count filthy paper money! Every street car transfer would be splashed with blue. All the pencils would be colored.

Take good care of your finger nails, but do not use your teeth for this purpose. Nail biting is a practice which no thoughtful person should follow.

Answers to Health Questions

S. G. B. Q.—What should a boy 18 years of age, 6 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 170 pounds.

• • •

R. T. Q.—What causes gas on the stomach?

A.—This may be due to hyperacidity. For full particulars, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

ARLEEN. Q.—How can one reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is a matter of self control as regards diet. For full particulars on this subject, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat you question.

• • •

M. J. F. Q.—How much should a girl 14 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 116 pounds.

• • •

RHEUMATISM. Q.—I am troubled with rheumatism in the first joint of the first fingers on each hand. The joints are swollen and painful. My knees are also troublesome. What would you advise? Is there a special diet for this condition?

A.—The treatment for rheumatism depends upon the cause in each case. Massage and application usually gives temporary relief until the further treatment can be advised. For full particulars, send a self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

A. V. Q.—What causes a red nose?

A.—This condition may be due to poor circulation. For full particulars send stamped self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

CONSTANT READER. Q.—What can I do to reduce?

• • •

READER. Q.—What should a girl of 14, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 114 pounds.

• • •

T. C. Q.—I am very much troubled with gout in my toes. What can I do to relieve this condition?

A.—The treatment depends on the cause. Very often this condition can be helped by proper attention to the diet. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for further particulars, restating your question.

• • •

C. C. Q.—What treatment and diet would you advise for kidney trouble and lumbago?

A.—A person suffering with kidney trouble should be under the constant care of a physician. The kidney condition is probably causing the lumbago.

• • •

F. J. Q.—What should a girl 18 years of age, 5 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 116 pounds.

KAISER BAKERY

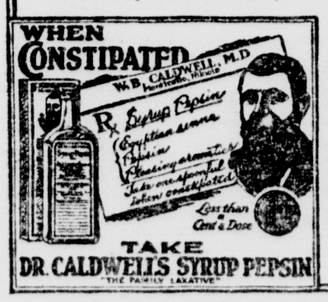

CONSTIPATION means MISERY

Rouge and powder will not cover up the effects of constipation. The bowels are the worst abused and most variously damaged of any organ of the body. When they are clogged, they cause lusterless eyes, dingy complexions, pimples and blackheads, bad breath, headache, bilious attacks, heart burn, acid stomach, belching, depression, nervous exhaustion, chronic weakness and other more serious ills. The bowels should act at least twice daily.

Dr. Caldwell's
SYRUP PEPSIN
The Family Laxative

—will produce proper bowel action and insure a healthy condition so Nature can exercise her proper function. A delightful liquid combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and pleasing aromatics originally prescribed by Dr. Caldwell for ailing patients of his extensive practice and used nationally for the last 30 years by all members of the family.

Acts As Nature Acts! No Inconveniences!

It does not act as a purge, forcing the bowels to artificial action, but gently and easily, without pain or discomfort. 10,000,000 bottles used annually prove its effectiveness. Old people, young people, children and babies can be kept in perfect health through its use.

It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

DRIVING CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

Anniversary Event is Staged in Knights of Pythias Hall.

At the 19th anniversary dinner of the Lisbon Driving club held in the ball room of the Knights of Pythias building, Lisbon, Tuesday night, the Rev. J. L. Miller, pastor of the Christian church, Salem, made an appeal to 150 men to wipe out narrow mental lines and to look out and beyond national lines.

"We must lay aside our mental prejudices and be bound as one great brotherhood, and that day is fast approaching," Mr. Miller said. "There was a time when people thought the earth flat, and that the sun went around the earth. Today we know that the earth travels around the sun and we are being broadened. Today we're beginning to see all humanity in its greatness. We turn a dial and lo! we hear London speaking. We hear the music of the foreign land. Slowly but surely humanity is being drawn closer together. It's a great sign."

The address of Attorney W. Frank Jones of East Liverpool had to do with incidents concerning the trip to England and France last year of the American Bar association.

"English juries are not as emotional or as sentimental as they are in the United States," Mr. Jones related. "There is no sentiment in England.

"Tails are just as long in England as they are in the United States, but the police go to the bottom of every case before the case goes to trial, or before an indictment is returned. They get at the facts before there is any court action. This has special reference to criminal work.

"The Horse," was the subject of a brief address by the Rev. John M. Cameron of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church. He referred to the antestory, and development of the horse, its evolution, its tragedies, the sentiment attached to a horse and its strength and heroism.

"We gain their confidence rather than subdue their spirit," Mr. Cameron said, "and that is what we should do with our children."

Attorney Jesse C. Hanley of East Liverpool was toastmaster. The "pep" singing was lead by William Williams of Leetonia, who is organist of the Lisbon Presbyterian church. Judge George Riddle introduced Mr. Hanley.

The dinner was served by the Pythian sisters. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. R. J. Bennett of the Lisbon Christian church.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

CHAPTER XX—Continued

"If they so much as put a shot across my bows, up goes their Deputy-Governor to the yardarm. Your only hope, Colonel, lies in the fact that I shall send them word of that intention. And so that you may mend as far as you can the harm you have done, it's yourself shall bear them the message, my lord."

"I'll see you damned before I do," fumed his lordship.

"Why, that's unreasonable and unreasoning. But if ye insist, why, another messenger will do as well, and another hostage aboard—as I had originally intended—will make my hand the stronger."

"Aye, in God's name, go, my lord," spluttered Bishop, "and make yourself obeyed."

Lord Julian bowed stiffly to the cowering Deputy-Governor. "You understand, sir, that I do as you desire," he said coldly.

"Aye, man, aye!" Bishop assented hastily.

"Very well." Blood escorted Lord Julian to the entrance ladder at the foot of which still swung the Arabella's own cock-boat.

"It's good-bye, my lord," said Blood. "And there's another thing." He proffered a parchment. "It's the commission. Bishop was right when he said it was a mistake."

"I am sorry," Lord Julian said sincerely. "I still do not perceive—blister me if I do!—why you should not have found someone else to carry your message to the Commandant, and kept me aboard as an added hostage for his obedience to your wishes."

"My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

Blood's vivid eyes looked into the other's that were clear and honest, and he smiled, a little wistfully. A moment he seemed to hesitate.

"Why shouldn't I tell you? It's the same reason that's been urging me to pick a quarrel with you so that I might have the satisfaction of slipping a couple of feet of steel into your vitals. When I accepted your commission, I was moved to think it might redeem me in the eyes of Miss Bishop—for whose sake, as you may have guessed, I took it. But I have discovered that such a thing is beyond accomplishment. I should have known it for a sick man's dream I have discovered also that if she's choosing you, as I believe she is, she's choosing wisely between us and that's why I'll not have your life risked by keeping you aboard whilst the message goes by another who might bungle it. And now perhaps ye'll understand."

"And you tell me this?"

"I tell you because . . . Oh, plague on it!—so that ye may tell her; so that she may be made to realize that there's something of the unfortunate gentleman left under the thief and pirate she accounts me, and that her own good is my supreme desire. Knowing that, she may . . . faith, she may remember me more kindly—if it's only in her prayers. That's all, my lord."

Lord Julian held out his hand. "I wonder whether you are right," said his lordship, "and whether you are not the better man."

"Where she is concerned see that you make sure that I am right. Good-bye to you."

The Arabella sailed within the hour, moving lazily before a sluggish breeze. The fort remained silent and there was no movement from the fleet to hinder her departure.

CHAPTER XXI

WAR

Five miles out at sea from Port Royal, whence the details of the coast of Jamaica were losing their sharpness, the Arabella hove to, and the sloop she had been towing was warped alongside.

Captain Blood escorted his compulsory guest to the head of the ladder. Colonel Bishop breathed freely at last.

"A safe voyage home to you, Colonel, darling," said he in valediction, and from his easy, smiling manner you would never have dreamt of the pain he carried in his breast.

On the mole at Port Royal, under the low, embattled wall of the fort Major Mallard and Lord Julian waited to receive him, and it was with infinite relief that they assisted him from the sloop.

"Anyway, it's not for long," growled the Colonel, finding speech at last. "No, by . . ." He emphasized the assurance by an unprintable oath. "If I spend the last shilling of my fortune and the last ship of the Jamaica fleet, I'll have that rascal in a hempen necktie before I rest." He had empurpled in his angry vehemence, and the veins of his forehead stood out like whipcord. "Come, my lord. We must take order about this, you and I."

They went off together, skirting the redoubt, and so through court yard and garden to the house where Arabella waited anxiously. The sight of her uncle brought her infinite relief, not only on his own account, but on account also of Captain Blood.

"You took a great risk, sir," she gravely told Lord Julian after the ordinary greetings had been exchanged.

But Lord Julian answered her as he had answered Major Mallard. "There was no risk, ma'am. So that Blood's ship were allowed to pass the fort, no harm could come to Colonel Bishop. Blood pledged me his word for that."

Very early next morning, before the heat of the day came to render the open intolerable to his lordship, he espied her from his window moving amid the azaleas in the garden. He hurried forth to join her. He explained himself by the announcement that he bore her a message from Captain Blood.

"He desired me," he said at last "to give you a message that should prove to you that there is still something left in him of the unfortunate gentleman that . . . that . . . for which once you knew him. It is not easy. Stab me, it is not. He was a man who deserved well. And amongst us we have marred his chances: your uncle, because he could not forget his rancour; you, because . . . because having told him that in the King's service he would find his redemption of what was past you would not afterwards admit to him that he was so redeemed. And this, although concern to rescue you was the chief motive of his embracing that same service."

She had turned her shoulder to him so that he should not see her face. His lordship's unusual nervousness was steadily increasing. "He thought, then—so he told me—that my presence here had contributed to his inability to redeem himself in your sight; and unless he were so redeemed, then was redemption nothing."

"He thought that you had contributed?" she echoed.

"Aye, and he said so in terms which told me something that I hope above all things, and yet dare not believe, for, God knows, I am no coxcomb, Arabella. He said . . . I had gone aboard his ship to demand the instant surrender of your uncle. He laughed at me. Colonel Bishop should be a hostage for his safety. By rashly venturing aboard his ship, I afforded him in my own person yet another hostage as valuable at least as Colonel Bishop. Yet he bade me depart; not from the fear of consequences, for he is above fear, nor from any personal esteem for me whom he confessed that he had come to find detestable; and this for the very reason that made him concerned for my safety."

"I do not understand," she said, as he paused. "Is not that a contradiction in itself?"

"It seems so only. The fact is, Arabella, this unfortunate man has the . . . the temerity to love you."

She cried out at that, and clutched her breast whose calm was suddenly disturbed. "Go on," she bade him.

"Well, then: he saw in me one who made it impossible that he should win you—so he said. Therefore he could with satisfaction have killed me. But because my death might cause you pain, because your happiness was the thing that above all things he desired, he surrendered that part of his guarantee of safety which my person afforded him. If his departure should be hindered, and I should lose my life in what might follow, there was the risk that . . . that you might mourn me. Because of that he bade me leave his ship, and had me put ashore." She looked at him with eyes that were aswim with tears. "Was he right, Arabella? My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

DRIVING CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

Anniversary Event is Staged in Knights of Pythias Hall.

At the 19th anniversary dinner of the Lisbon Driving club held in the ball room of the Knights of Pythias building, Lisbon, Tuesday night, the Rev. J. L. Miller, pastor of the Christian church, Salem, made an appeal to 150 men to wipe out narrow mental lines and to look out and beyond national lines.

"We must lay aside our mental prejudices and be bound as one great brotherhood, and that day is fast approaching," Mr. Miller said. "There was a time when people thought the earth flat, and that the sun went around the earth. Today we know that the earth travels around the sun. We are being broadened. Today we're beginning to see all humanity in its greatness. We turn a dial and lo! we hear London speaking. We hear the music of the foreign land. Slowly but surely humanity is being drawn closer together. It's a great sign."

The address of Attorney W. Frank Jones of East Liverpool had to do with incidents concerning the trip to England and France last year of the American Bar association.

"English juries are not as emotional or as sentimental as they are in the United States," Mr. Lones related. "There is no sentiment in England.

"Tails are just as long in England as they are in the United States, but the police go to the bottom of every case before the case goes to trial, or before an indictment is returned. They get at the facts before there is any court action. This has special reference to criminal work.

"The Horse," was the subject of a brief address by the Rev. John M. Cameron of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church. He referred to the an estory, and development of the horse, its evolution, its tragedies, the sentiment attached to a horse and its strength and heroism.

"We gain their confidence rather than subdue their spirit," Mr. Cameron said, "and that is what we should do with our children."

Attorney Jesse C. Hanley of East Liverpool was toastmaster. The "pep" singing was lead by William Williams of Leetonia, who is organist of the Lisbon Presbyterian church. Judge Paige Riddle introduced Mr. Hanley.

A dinner was served by the Pythian sisters: The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. R. J. Bennett of the Lisbon Christian church.

CHAPTER XX—Continued

"If they so much as put a shot across my bows, up goes their Deputy-Governor to the yardarm. Your only hope, Colonel, lies in the fact that I shall send them word of that intention. And so that you may mend as far as you can the harm you have done, it's yourself shall bear them the message, my lord."

"I'll see you damned before I do," fumed his lordship.

"Why, that's unreasonable and unreasoning. But if ye insist, why, another messenger will do as well, and another hostage aboard—as I had originally intended—will make my hand the stronger."

"Aye, in God's name, go, my lord," spluttered Bishop, "and make yourself obeyed."

Lord Julian bowed stiffly to the cowering Deputy-Governor. "You understand, sir, that I do as you desire," he said coldly.

"Aye, man, aye!" Bishop assented hastily.

"Very well." Blood escorted Lord Julian to the entrance ladder at the foot of which still swung the Arabella's own cock-boat.

"It's good-bye, my lord," said Blood. "And there's another thing." He proffered a parchment. "It's the commission. Bishop was right when he said it was a mistake."

"I am sorry," Lord Julian said sincerely. "I still do not perceive—blister me if I do!—why you should not have found someone else to carry your message to the Commandant, and kept me aboard as an added hostage for his obedience to your wishes."

"My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

Blood's vivid eyes looked into the other's that were clear and honest, and he smiled, a little wistfully. A moment he seemed to hesitate.

"Why shouldn't I tell you? It's the same reason that's been urging me to pick a quarrel with you so that I might have the satisfaction of slipping a couple of feet of steel into your vitals. When I accepted your commission, I was moved to think it might redeem me in the eyes of Miss Bishop—for whose sake, as you may have guessed, I took it. But I have discovered that such a thing is beyond accomplishment. I should have known it for a sick man's dream. I have discovered also that if she's choosing you, as I believe she is, she's choosing wisely between us and that's why I'll not have your life risked by keeping you aboard whilst the message goes by another who might bungle it. And now perhaps ye'll understand."

"And you tell me this?"

"I tell you because . . . Oh, plague on it!—so that ye may tell her; so that she may be made to realize that there's something of the unfortunate gentleman left under the thief and pirate she accounts me, and that her own good is my supreme desire. Knowing that, she may . . . faith, she may remember me more kindly—if it's only in her prayers. That's all, my lord."

Lord Julian held out his hand. "I wonder whether you are right," said his lordship, "and whether you are not the better man."

"Where she is concerned see that you make sure that I am right. Good-bye to you."

The Arabella sailed within the hour, moving lazily before a sluggish breeze. The fort remained silent and there was no movement from the fleet to hinder her departure.

CHAPTER XXI

WAR

Five miles out at sea from Port Royal, whence the details of the coast of Jamaica were losing their sharpness, the Arabella hove to, and the sloop she had been towing was warped alongside.

Captain Blood escorted his compulsory guest to the head of the ladder. Colonel Bishop breathed freely at last.

"A safe voyage home to you, Colonel, darling," said he in valediction, and from his easy, smiling manner you would never have dreamt of the pain he carried in his breast.

On the mole at Port Royal, under the low, embattled wall of the fort, Major Mallard and Lord Julian waited to receive him, and it was with infinite relief that they assisted him from the sloop.

"Anyway, it's not for long," growled the Colonel, finding speech at last. "No, by . . ." He emphasized the assurance by an unprintable oath. "If I spend the last shilling of my fortune and the last ship of the Jamaica fleet, I'll have that rascal in a hempen necktie before I rest." He had empurpled in his angry vehemence, and the veins of his forehead stood out like whipcord. "Come, my lord. We must take order about this, you and I."

They went off together, skirting the redoubt, and so through court yard and garden to the house where Arabella waited anxiously. The sight of her uncle brought her infinite relief, not only on his own account, but on account also of Captain Blood.

"You took a great risk, sir," she gravely told Lord Julian after the ordinary greetings had been exchanged.

But Lord Julian answered her as he had answered Major Mallard. "There was no risk, ma'am. So that Blood's ship were allowed to pass the fort, no harm could come to Colonel Bishop. Blood pledged me his word for that."

Very early next morning, before the heat of the day came to render the open intolerable to his lordship, he espied her from his window moving amid the azaleas in the garden. He hurried forth to join her. He explained himself by the announcement that he bore her a message from Captain Blood.

"He desired me," he said at last "to give you a message that should prove to you that there is still something left in him of the unfortunate gentleman that . . . that . . . for which once you knew him. It is not easy. Stab me, it is not. He was a man who deserved well. And amongst us we have marred his chances: your uncle, because he could not forget his rancour; you, because . . . because having told him that in the King's service he would find his redemption of what was past, you would not afterwards admit to him that he was so redeemed. And this, although concern to rescue you was the chief motive of his embracing that same service."

She had turned her shoulder to him so that he should not see her face. His lordship's unusual nervousness was steadily increasing. "He thought, then—so he told me—that my presence here had contributed to his inability to redeem himself in your sight; and unless he were so redeemed, then was redemption nothing."

"He thought that you had contributed?" she echoed.

"Aye, and he said so in terms which told me something that I hope above all things, and yet dare not believe, for, God knows, I am no coxcomb, Arabella. He said . . . I had gone aboard his ship to demand the instant surrender of your uncle. He laughed at me. Colonel Bishop should be a hostage for his safety. By rashly venturing aboard his ship, I afforded him in my own person yet another hostage as valuable at least as Colonel Bishop. Yet he bade me depart; not from the fear of consequences, for he is above fear, nor from any personal esteem for me whom he confessed that he had come to find detestable; and this for the very reason that made him concerned for my safety."

"I do not understand," she said, as he paused. "Is not that a contradiction in itself?"

"It seems so only. The fact is, Arabella, this unfortunate man has the . . . the temerity to love you."

She cried out at that, and clutched her breast whose calm was suddenly disturbed. "Go on," she bade him.

"Well, then: he saw in me one who made it impossible that he should win you—so he said. Therefore he could with satisfaction have killed me. But because my death might cause you pain, because your happiness was the thing that above all things he desired, he surrendered that part of his guarantee of safety which my person afforded him. If his departure should be hindered, and I should lose my life in what might follow, there was the risk that . . . that you might mourn me. Because of that he bade me leave his ship, and had me put ashore." She looked at him with eyes that were aswim with tears. "Was he right, Arabella? My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

A WORD FOR BEGINNERS.

The best way to solve a cross-word puzzle is to run quickly over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms and compare them to the spaces in the puzzle extending crosswise or downward from the number of the synonym. Some word which will just fit in the number of space available will quickly occur to you in some instances, giving you a foundation from which to solve the more difficult words. The words must interlock perfectly.

TOP OF WORLD' AT CERAMIC

Paramount Feature Photoplay Opens Three-day Stay.

The Ceramic theatre will have an exceptionally fine film attraction beginning today when Paramount's picture version of Ethel M. Dell's famous novel, "The Top of the World," makes its local debut. For those who like vigorous melodrama tinctured with love-interest, this screen play will fil the bill from soup to nuts.

The picture has all the compelling drama you have come to expect in Ethel M. Dell's writings; it has all the consummate acting for which Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis are noted; and it has all the fine finish and dash which only such an experienced director as George Melford could give it. Add to this some extraordinary camera effects of Kirkwood in a dual role; a dynamic storm scene which must be seen in all its vivid realism to be appreciated; a thrilling rescue; and several terrific fights—and you have at least a dozen reasons that account for the lavish praise that has been heaped upon this photoplay by those fortunate individuals who were privileged to get an advance peek at it.

The story centers around a girl who goes to South Africa to seek out her childhood sweetheart, Guy Ranger. Arrived there, she learns to her horror that he is a changed man. His cousin, Burke Ranger, makes her welcome at his farm and promptly falls in love with her. Sylvia finally marries Burke though she believes herself to be in love with Guy, and it is this uncertainty on her part that leads to an amazing chain of events.

But not until the last few moments of the final reel are you absolutely sure how it's all going to come out, and this maintenance of suspense is one of the picture's outstanding qualities. It is largely due to good direction and skillful adaptation and reflects great credit on George Melford, who produced the film and Jack Cunningham who scenarized it.

NEW YORK WOMAN TELLS HOW HER SEX PICK MEN FOR WHOM THEY VOTE

NEW YORK, April — Has the handsome candidate the advantage in getting the women's vote?

Emphatically not, says Mrs. Caspar Whitney, vice president of the New York State League of Women Voters.

The proof she offers is the fact that our officials are no more Adonis-like now than they were before the women got the vote. (Take that, Mr. Coolidge.)

It is a big mistake to introduce the sex idea at all into politics, Mrs. Whitney feels.

"It has no place there. Men and women must be elected to office because of their fitness and certain qualities that women can bring to the legislative bodies which they would otherwise lack, she believes. But as for asking for immunities or special dispensations, that will not do at all.

"I do not believe that half enough stress is laid on the fact that in politics as well as in matrimony men and women supplement each other. I do not know if there will ever come a time when the legislative bodies of our country will have half women and half men representatives. I am not particularly interested in that. But there must be enough women to represent their interests.

"Inherently women are more interested in the welfare of humanity than men. For generations and generations back women have been the homemakers, while the men have been in the outside business. Especially when the interests of children are under discussion the woman's crusading spirit is awakened. I think that it is very well that things are so. We need women as legislators because they will look out for these things."

"Women choose particular men because they believe them best fitted for the offices for which they are candidates," Mr. Whitney continued. "The question of appearance does not come up for consideration."

Mrs. Whitney has no use for most kinds of old theories. There is this matter of the length of time that women can talk, and talk, and talk about nothing. According to Mrs. Whitney there is nothing to this fable at all.

"Women speakers usually have their facts better in hand than men," she declares.

Raiders Become Firemen.

LAFFERTY, March—Dry enforcement officers became firemen during a raid on a house here when a woman hurled a bottle of moonshine onto a stove. The booze ignited and the flames spread to the woodwork in the room. The raiding officials, aided by neighbors, saved the home. Joe Scattlet was freed on bond, pending hearing on a charge of violating a dry law. His arrest was due to the raid.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Is One of Nature's Danger Signals. A Healthy Bladder Does Not Act at Night.

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Neblett, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Hollo-ways. adv.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed East Liverpool druggists and druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if his prescription does not banish every sign and symptom of the disease he will gladly return your money without comment.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

How to Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across

Word 1. What the boy is "shooting" with in the picture.

Word 4. What mother or the laundress does to the clean clothes.

Word 6. What sick folks take to increase their strength.

Running Down

Word 1. A fruit something like a peach.

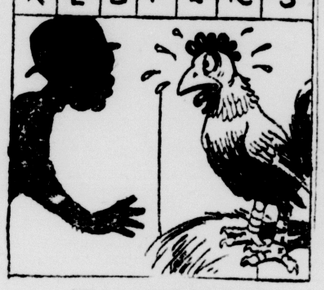

Word 2. A conjunction meaning like.

Word 3. Used to hold your stockings up.

Word 5. The opposite of out.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How long was Senator Smoot's speech that was made against a bill about shipping which President Wilson favored? O. N. L.

A. The filibustering speech made by Senator Smoot was made the 31st of January, 1915, against the ship purchase bill, a measure greatly desired of passage by President Wilson. Senator Smoot spake eleven and one-half hours.

Q. Who live the longer, industrial or office workers? C. M. T.

A. Dr. Louis I. Dublin, the distinguished statistician, recently stated that the life expectation of industrial workers is eight years less than that of office workers.

Q. Why is hard wheat used in making breakfast foods? P. J. W.

A. The Bureau of Chemistry says that hard wheat makes breakfast foods that do not become mushy like those made from soft wheat.

Q. Why did the Sioux carry a pole with a certain number of eagle feathers attached? D. G. W.

A. The Bureau of American Ethnology says that many Siouan tribes carried as a standard a pole with eagle feathers attached. Sometimes there was a crook at the top of the pole, but there was no specific number of feathers. It was used in keeping the men in order in hunting the buffalo.

Q. Do prisoners in Wilmington, Delaware, receive whipping or the lash for some crimes? J. M.

A. The New Castle county workhouse says that the Delaware laws call for a certain number of lashes at the whipping post as part of the punishment for specified crimes, and this law has been in effect for a very long time. The whipping post is used only to carry out thesentence imposed by the several county courts. Most of the whippers take place at the New Castle county workhouse, located at Greenbank, Delaware, about five miles ouside of Wilmington.

Q. Who made the original plan of the city of Buffalo? L. E. L.

A. Major Charles Pierre L'Enfant.

Q. Are more men or more women color blind? K. E. C.

A. It is said that males are far more likely to be color blind than females (16 to 1). Only one woman in 400 is color blind. The reason for this is partly at least that the development of the gray-perceiving substance is favored by practice and color education.

Q. How does the use of gasoline, kerosene and crude oil compare with the amount used in 1920? E. W. L.

A. In 1920, in the United States the consumption of kerosene was 1,890,000,000 gallons; gasoline, 4,250,000,000;; crude oil, 32,282,000,000. In 1924 the consumption had risen to 1550,000,000 gallons of kerosene; 7,780,000,000 of gasoline, and 31,750,000,000 of crude oil.

Q. Was payment for the Louisiana Purchase made in gold? I. R.

A. Payment for the Louisiana Purchase was not made in actual gold coin or bullion. The exact cost of the purchase was 64,000,000 francs in the form of United States 6 per cent bonds, representing a capital of $11,250,000. The ultimate cost would include not only the par value of the bonds, but also 10 years' interest, the cost of surveying, of government exploration and of selling the lands. In addition the American government agreed to assume and pay the obligations of France to American citizens for French attacks on American shipping. These obligations were estimated at $3,750,000, making a total payment of $15,000,000.

Q. Please give some data about peacocks? L. C. R.

A. The common peafowl is the best known variety of peafowl and has a beautiful plumage. Peafowls are kept largely for ornament. They are quite domestic in their habits and their care and management and feeding is similar to that of turkeys and turkey poults. Peafowl forage widely and only need extra feed during winter and when rearing their young, if they have a good range. From 1 to 5 peahens will pair with one peacock and usually hide their eggs in a secluded spot. Their eggs may be taken from the nest and hatched under turkey hens or common fowls or left to be reared by the peafowl. The young are rather difficult to raise under domestication unless they are given considerable care and attention. Peafowls thrive much better in southern climates than where the winters are cold. The period of incubation is 28 days the same as for turkey eggs.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

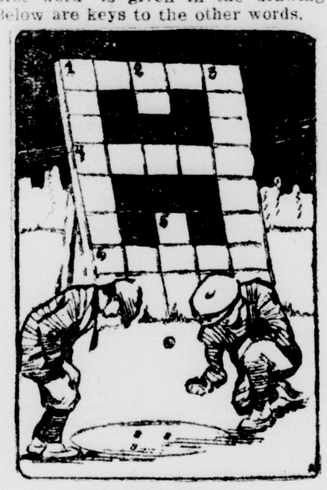

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

How to Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across

Word 4. What mother or the laundress does to the clean clothes.

Word 6. What sick folks take to increase their strength.

Running Down

Word 1. A fruit something like a peach.

Word 2. A conjunction meaning like.

Word 3. Used to hold your stockings up.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How long was Senator Smoot's speech that was made against a bill about shipping which President Wilson favored? O. N. L.

A. The filibustering speech made by Senator Smoot was made the 31st of January, 1915, against the ship purchase bill, a measure greatly desired of passage by President Wilson. Senator Smoot spake eleven and one-half hours.

Q. Who live the longer, industrial or office workers? C. M. T.

A. Dr. Louis I. Dublin, the distinguished statistician, recently stated that the life expectation of industrial workers is eight years less than that of office workers.

Q. Why is hard wheat used in making breakfast foods? P. J. W.

A. The Bureau of Chemistry says that hard wheat makes breakfast foods that do not become mushy like those made from soft wheat.

Q. Why did the Sioux carry a pole with a certain number of eagle feathers attached? D. G. W.

A. The Bureau of American Ethnology says that many Siouan tribes carried as a standard a pole with eagle feathers attached. Sometimes there was a crook at the top of the pole, but there was no specific number of feathers. It was used in keeping the men in order in hunting the buffalo.

Q. Do prisoners in Wilmington, Delaware, receive whipping or the lash for some crimes? J. M.

A. The New Castle county workhouse says that the Delaware laws call for a certain number of lashes at the whipping post as part of the punishment for specified crimes, and this law has been in effect for a very long time. The whipping post is used only to carry out thesentence imposed by the several county courts. Most of the whippers take place at the New Castle county workhouse, located at Greenbank, Delaware, about five miles ouside of Wilmington.

New City Circuit For 1925 Planned By Baseball Men Here

Promoters to Form League to Replace Y Industrial Loop

Shop Teams Will Not Re-organize, is Announcement of W. J. Scott, Because of "Existing Conditions and Lack of Prospects;" New Circuit Members Will Hold First Meeting Monday.

A new East Liverpool baseball league, designed to take the place of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial circuit, may be organized within the next two weeks.

The Industrial circuit has been on its sick bed during the long winter months; today its pulse is growing weaker. Before another month it is quite possible its demise will be a mater of history.

"Existing general conditions and lack of prospects for 1925 are not favorable for the reorganization of the Industrial league," said Will J. Scott, Y. M. C. A. Industrial secretary today.

The object of the Industrial league, which staged several very successful seasons, was the enrollment of genuine shop players in the various teams of the circuit, Scott pointed out. But, he explained, it was the tendency to bring in "outside players," who, of course, replaced genuine shop players of lesser ability.

The desire of the Industrial department, he said, was a bona fide shop league, and inasmuch as the customary enthusiasm was lacking this year, and signs did not indicate a revival of interest, it was decided to drop the league for the present season, at least. It is only a temporary arrangement, Scott explained.

Possibly an eight-club league of district teams is the aim of promoters of the new circuit, who include a number of former industrial loop stars, chief among which is McGeehen, erstwhile McLean Tires hurling ace.

Prospect of the circuit will be discussed at a meeting to be held on Monday night in the city hall council chambers, McGeehen announced today.

It was announced that probably a half a dozen industrial plants in the district have already tentatively accepted berths in the new city league, prominent among which are Knowles, Taylor and Knowles, Hall China, the Newell and East End Laughlin plants.

An attempt will be made to enroll Wellsville and Chester clubs in the organization.

LENGLEN-WILLS MAY NEVER PLAY

French Champion Refuses to Play Again in America.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The mountain wouldn't come to Mohammed, in spite of his rather urgent solicitation; so Mohammed, being an obliging gent and withal something of a politician, decided to go to the mountain.

The news that Helen Wills has abandoned any intention she may have had of playing tennis at Wimbledon, England, this year means an indefinite postponement of her inevitable meeting with Mlle. Suzanne of the temperament. Suzanne is like the mountain. She will remain as is; any one desiring closer acquaintance will have to take the initiative.

She had one experience with competitive tennis in America and has no wish for a second. Helen Wills, therefore, faces the alternative of a trip abroad or forever leaving the question of the world's greatest tennis player among women an open issue.

Lost Popularity.

It is a question that every American wants settled with definite finality, since Mlle. Lenglen is far from popular here and her succession of victories over Mrs. Molla Mallory, when the latter was American champion, has more or less rankled.

Not a few experts contend that Helen hasn't the game to beat Lenglen at her best; others feel that the former child wonder, improving with each passing year, will have better than an even chance when the big moment arrives. That she will get Lenglen only in top form is assured, for Suzanne takes no chances. She did once and lived to regret it.

Otherwise, the Wills-Lenglen duel would have taken place last summer, either at Wimbledon or during the Olympic games at Paris. On both occasions Lenglen withdrew before the events started. She wasn't feeling herself and saw no reason to endanger her reputation, even with such a desirable prize as the Olympic title hanging in the balance.

"WE WILL SOUTHPAW THEM TO DEATH THIS YEAR," SAYS OWNER OF CHAMPS

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

TAMPA, Fla., April 2.—The season of 1924, in the American league at least, has gone down in history as "the year of the southpaw revival." But take the word of Clark Griffith that, as far as the world's champion Washington club is concerned last year wasn't "nothin'" compared to what the coming season will be.

CLARK C. GRIFFITH

"Last season we had Zachary and Mogridge, the two best southpaws in the big leagues, in my opinion," said Griffith during a practice session of the champs today.

"If Dutch Ruether and Vean Gregg come through this coming season we'll southpaw the American league to death."

Pass that word along to the seven jolly managers now engaged in building up something in the nature of a baseball machine that can check the Senators in their efforts to hold the American league pennant.

"Zachary, in my opinion, is the best southpaw in the business today," said Griffith.

"He knows what he is doing every minute. He goes at his work in that manner. He has just as much control as any right hander.

"Mogridge is a veteran, but he still has his stuff. He should have just as good a season this year as he enjoyed last."

Griffith realizes that Ruether is a long gamble. He would not have consented to the signing of the former Brooklyn, Cub and Red leftie had he not felt that Manager Harris could do something with the erratic one.

Gregg Counted Upon.

Vean Gregg, 40-year-old veteran from the Pacific coast, had not arrived the day I watched the Senators. As I have said before, however, if he retains much of the wizardry of that left arm of his, including the wide, sweeping curve he boasted when with Cleveland 10 years ago, he will add a few victories to the Washington list.

Zachary and Mogridge, between them, turned in 31 victories for the Senators last season. Mogridge won 16 and Zach 15. The latter, however, lost but nine games and Mogridge was defeated 11 times.

With Seattle Gregg won 25 and lost 11 games. Ruether was of little use to the Brooklyn Dodgers, however. He managed to win eight games and lost 13. Had he turned in as good a record for the Brooklyn team as Zachary and Mogridge did for the Senators the Dodger team might have had a look-in in the National league.

Ruether seems satisfied with conditions this year—for the first time in many years. He is looking forward to a good season.

This may or may not mean anything. Dutch has been chasing the elusive baseball rainbow ever since he broke in with the Cubs, along about 1917.

But leaving Ruether out of it, the Senators seem set to carry out Griffith's warning that they will "southpaw the American league teams to death."

So start the funeral dirge early.

Buffalo Bowlers Top Foes in A. B. C. Games

BUFFALO, April 2.—Buffalo bowlers, having languished in obscurity since the start of the A. B. C. tourney, today found they had become famous over night as a result of the performance of the Blue Ribbons and the Whissel Lumber five in the five-man event last night. By sensational scoring throughout, they piled up huge totals and today found them resting in first and second places respectively.

Led by Lefty Long, the Blue Ribbons gained the leadership with a splendid total of 3,023 with the Whissel Lumber contingent right on their heels with 2,987. The two bison outfits displaced the North Center Alleys of Chicago without trouble, the former leaders having a total of 2,937. This was the only change among the leaders of the various diversions within the last 24 hours.

Cross Work Flag.

OBERLIN, April — The Oberlin college class flag will contain 252 pieces on cross-work style with the name of each member of the class inscribed on the flag. Girl members of the class will start making the flag tomorrow.

HAGEN RESUMES TITLE DEFENSE

Prepares for Final 36 Holes in North-South Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2—With his title hanging in the balance, Walter Hagen today prepared to give stern chase over the final 36 holes to MacDonald Smith and other leaders in the annual north and south open golf championship. Smith topped the field this morning with a brilliant score of 138 over the first half of the 72 hole test and is in a splendid position for the final drive to the wire.

He is four strokes beyond Leo Diegel in the runner-up position with Hagen in third place at 144 strokes and Cyril Walker, national open champion, one stroke to Walter's rear. Alex Ross, of Detroit, also may prove dangerous. His total is 146.

Johnny Farrell, with 149, Bob MacDonald, 150, Joe Kirkwood and Emmett French 151, and Fred McLeod, 152, have an outside chance to finish in the money, while Jim Barnes, Jock Hutchison, Mike Brady and other stars, have been distanced.

Says Mullins Erred In Passing Up Tom

NEW YORK, April 2.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight challenger, was quoted today as declaring that Paddy Mullins, his manager, had made a mistake in failing to sign for a bout with Tom Gibbons when offered a big guarantee by promoters of the milk fund show.

"Certainly I want to fight Gibbons," Wills said, when asked about his stand in the controversy. "I want to fight anybody they can get for me. I realize that Mullins has placed me in a bad light, but what can I do about it? He is my manager and I've got to do what he says."

HOW GLANDS CONTROL HEALTH, STRENGTH, VIGOR

Eminent Scientist Reveals Startling Facts About the Vital Glands and Their Functions — Tells Why Every Man and Woman Should Strive to Keep the Important Glands in Perfect Condition.

Through a New Scientific Discovery the Glandular System May Be Assisted in Its Work of Supplying the Energizing Glandular Secretions Which Are So Necessary to Life and Health—Thousands of Men and Women Are Now Taking Glandogen to Help Regain Health and Strength, and Overcome a Weakened, Rundown, Nervous, Exhausted Condition.

Science discovers that a man is worth only as much as his glands

Now that men and women are turning to glandular treatment for restoring former youthful power and vigor, it is well that opinions of certain eminent authorities be quoted at this time. That every organ of the human body depends upon the glands for proper functioning is stated by Dr. Serge Voronoff, who has devoted years of study and experiment to Organotherapy. It is Dr. Voronoff's opinion that the brain, the nerves, the muscles, as well as the liver, the kidneys and all other organs, would be incapable of playing any useful part without the aid of the glands. The functioning of our organs is no more than the result of the activity of our glands, and when the bodily functioning is disturbed the cause, in most cases, should be sought, not in the condition of the organ itself, but in the condition of the gland which controls it.

Glands that function perfectly are responsible for desired qualities which should exist in every normal man or woman.

This is the opinion of an eminent American surgeon, who states that the courage of the soldier and the harm of the vivacious woman are largely dependent upon the activity of the thyroid gland.

Glands which have become inactive or weakened should be nourished in order that they may supply the blood with their vital secretions.

As Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands, "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals."

These extracts are now administered as a glandular compound in accordance with the remarkable discoveries and facts revealed by research over a period of some thirty years. Glandogen is a glandular compound prepared from a scientific formula which combines the important elements of healthy glands of young animals with other efficacious ingredients. It comes in simple, convenient, compact tablet form. Men and women who are weak and run-down, thin and under nourished, physically and mentally tired, who have lost the pep and virility of former days, whose systems are undergoing a change that is sapping their strength and vigor, should heed the words of these eminent scientists and regain once more the health, strength and happiness that come from normally active glands.

Try this ten-day test: Take two Glandogen tablets three times a day for ten days, then see for yourself if you don't feel stronger and better in every way. Do not be satisfied with any so-called gland pill—insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

Mathews Cut Rate Store will supply you.

New City Circuit For 1925 Planned By Baseball Men Here

Promoters to Form League to Replace Y Industrial Loop

Shop Teams Will Not Re-organize, is Announcement of W. J. Scott, Because of "Existing Conditions and Lack of Prospects;" New Circuit Members Will Hold First Meeting Monday.

A new East Liverpool baseball league, designed to take the place of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial circuit, may be organized within the next two weeks.

The Industrial circuit has been on its sick bed during the long winter months; today its pulse is growing weaker. Before another month it is quite possible its demise will be a mater of history.

"Existing general conditions and lack of prospects for 1925 are not favorable for the reorganization of the Industrial league," said Will J. Scott, Y. M. C. A. Industrial secretary today.

The object of the Industrial league, which staged several very successful seasons, was the enrollment of genuine shop players in the various teams of the circuit, Scott pointed out. But, he explained, it was the tendency to bring in "outside players," who, of course, replaced genuine shop players of lesser ability.

The desire of the Industrial department, he said, was a bona fide shop league, and inasmuch as the customary enthusiasm was lacking this year, and signs did not indicate a revival of interest, it was decided to drop the league for the present season, at least. It is only a temporary arrangement, Scott explained.

Possibly an eight-club league of district teams is the aim of promoters of the new circuit, who include a number of former industrial loop stars, chief among which is McGeehen, erstwhile McLean Tires hurling ace.

Prospect of the circuit will be discussed at a meeting to be held on Monday night in the city hall council chambers, McGeehen announced today.

It was announced that probably a half a dozen industrial plants in the district have already tentatively accepted berths in the new city league, prominent among which are Knowles, Taylor and Knowles, Hall China, the Newell and East End Laughlin plants.

An attempt will be made to enroll Wellsville and Chester clubs in the organization.

LENGLEN-WILLS MAY NEVER PLAY

French Champion Refuses to Play Again in America.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The mountain wouldn't come to Mohammed, in spite of his rather urgent solicitation; so Mohammed, being an obliging gent and withal something of a politician, decided to go to the mountain.

The news that Helen Wills has abandoned any intention she may have had of playing tennis at Wimbledon, England, this year means an indefinite postponement of her inevitable meeting with Mlle. Suzanne of the temperament. Suzanne is like the mountain. She will remain as is; any one desiring closer acquaintance will have to take the initiative.

She had one experience with competitive tennis in America and has no wish for a second. Helen Wills, therefore, faces the alternative of a trip abroad or forever leaving the question of the world's greatest tennis player among women an open issue.

Lost Popularity.

It is a question that every American wants settled with definite finality, since Mlle. Lenglen is far from popular here and her succession of victories over Mrs. Molla Mallory, when the latter was American champion, has more or less rankled.

Not a few experts contend that Helen hasn't the game to beat Lenglen at her best; others feel that the former child wonder, improving with each passing year, will have better than an even chance when the big moment arrives. That she will get Lenglen only in top form is assured, for Suzanne takes no chances. She did once and lived to regret it.

Otherwise, the Wills-Lenglen duel would have taken place last summer, either at Wimbledon or during the Olympic games at Paris. On both occasions Lenglen withdrew before the events started. She wasn't feeling herself and saw no reason to endanger her reputation, even with such a desirable prize as the Olympic title hanging in the balance.

"WE WILL SOUTHPAW THEM TO DEATH THIS YEAR," SAYS OWNER OF CHAMPS

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

CLARK C GRIFFITH

TAMPA, Fla., April 2.—The season of 1924, in the American league at least, has gone down in history as "the year of the southpaw revival." But take the word of Clark Griffith that, as far as the world's champion Washington club is concerned last year wasn't "nothin'" compared to what the coming season will be.

"Last season we had Zachary and Mogridge, the two best southpaws in the big leagues, in my opinion," said Griffith during a practice session of the champs today.

"If Dutch Ruether and Vean Gregg come through this coming season we'll southpaw the American league to death."

Pass that word along to the seven jolly managers now engaged in building up something in the nature of a baseball machine that can check the Senators in their efforts to hold the American league pennant.

"Zachary, in my opinion, is the best southpaw in the business today," said Griffith.

"He knows what he is doing every minute. He goes at his work in that manner. He has just as much control as any right hander.

"Mogridge is a veteran, but he still has his stuff. He should have just as good a season this year as he enjoyed last."

Griffith realizes that Ruether is a long gamble. He would not have consented to the signing of the former Brooklyn, Cub and Red leftie had he not felt that Manager Harris could do something with the erratic one.

Gregg Counted Upon.

Vean Gregg, 40-year-old veteran from the Pacific coast, had not arrived the day I watched the Senators. As I have said before, however, if he retains much of the wizardry of that left arm of his, including the wide, sweeping curve he boasted when with Cleveland 10 years ago, he will add a few victories to the Washington list.

Zachary and Mogridge, between them, turned in 31 victories for the Senators last season. Mogridge won 16 and Zach 15. The latter, however, lost but nine games and Mogridge was defeated 11 times.

With Seattle Gregg won 25 and lost 11 games. Ruether was of little use to the Brooklyn Dodgers, however. He managed to win eight games and lost 13. Had he turned in as good a record for the Brooklyn team as Zachary and Mogridge did for the Senators the Dodger team might have had a look-in in the National league.

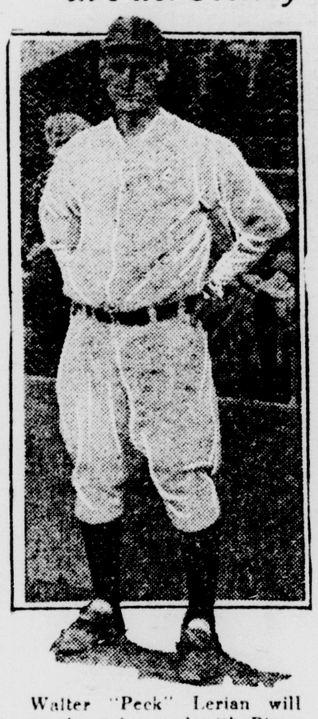

Ruether seems satisfied with conditions this year—for the first time in many years. He is looking forward to a good season.

This may or may not mean anything. Dutch has been chasing the elusive baseball rainbow ever since he broke in with the Cubs, along about 1917.

But leaving Ruether out of it, the Senators seem set to carry out Griffith's warning that they will "southpaw the American league teams to death."

So start the funeral dirge early.

Pennsy Fans Say He Will Deliver in Fast Society

Walter "Peck" Lerian will not only make good with Birmingham in the Southern league but will climb to the big show, say fans of York, Pa. Lerian was rated the best catcher in the New York-Pennsylvania league last year.

Buffalo Bowlers Top Foes in A. B. C. Games

BUFFALO, April 2.—Buffalo bowlers, having languished in obscurity since the start of the A. B. C. tourney, today found they had become famous over night as a result of the performance of the Blue Ribbons and the Whissel Lumber five in the five-man event last night. By sensational scoring throughout, they piled up huge totals and today found them resting in first and second places respectively.

Led by Lefty Long, the Blue Ribbons gained the leadership with a splendid total of 3,023 with the Whissel Lumber contingent right on their heels with 2,987. The two bison outfits displaced the North Center Alleys of Chicago without trouble, the former leaders having a total of 2,937. This was the only change among the leaders of the various diversions within the last 24 hours.

Cross Work Flag.

OBERLIN, April — The Oberlin college class flag will contain 252 pieces on cross-work style with the name of each member of the class inscribed on the flag. Girl members of the class will start making the flag tomorrow.

HAGEN RESUMES TITLE DEFENSE

Prepares for Final 36 Holes in North-South Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2—With his title hanging in the balance, Walter Hagen today prepared to give stern chase over the final 36 holes to MacDonald Smith and other leaders in the annual north and south open golf championship. Smith topped the field this morning with a brilliant score of 138 over the first half of the 72 hole test and is in a splendid position for the final drive to the wire.

He is four strokes beyond Leo Diegel in the runner-up position with Hagen in third place at 144 strokes and Cyril Walker, national open champion, one stroke to Walter's rear. Alex Ross, of Detroit, also may prove dangerous. His total is 146.

Johnny Farrell, with 149, Bob MacDonald, 150, Joe Kirkwood and Emmett French 151, and Fred McLeod, 152, have an outside chance to finish in the money, while Jim Barnes, Jock Hutchison, Mike Brady and other stars, have been distanced.

Says Mullins Erred In Passing Up Tom

NEW YORK, April 2.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight challenger, was quoted today as declaring that Paddy Mullins, his manager, had made a mistake in failing to sign for a bout with Tom Gibbons when offered a big guarantee by promoters of the milk fund show.

"Certainly I want to fight Gibbons," Wills said, when asked about his stand in the controversy. "I want to fight anybody they can get for me. I realize that Mullins has placed me in a bad light, but what can I do about it? He is my manager and I've got to do what he says."

HOW GLANDS CONTROL HEALTH, STRENGTH, VIGOR

Eminent Scientist Reveals Startling Facts About the Vital Glands and Their Functions — Tells Why Every Man and Woman Should Strive to Keep the Important Glands in Perfect Condition.

Through a New Scientific Discovery the Glandular System May Be Assisted in Its Work of Supplying the Energizing Glandular Secretions Which Are So Necessary to Life and Health—Thousands of Men and Women Are Now Taking Glandogen to Help Regain Health and Strength, and Overcome a Weakened, Rundown, Nervous, Exhausted Condition.

Science discovers that a man is worth only as much as his glands

Now that men and women are turning to glandular treatment for restoring former youthful power and vigor, it is well that opinions of certain eminent authorities be quoted at this time. That every organ of the human body depends upon the glands for proper functioning is stated by Dr. Serge Voronoff, who has devoted years of study and experiment to Organotherapy. It is Dr. Voronoff's opinion that the brain, the nerves, the muscles, as well as the liver, the kidneys and all other organs, would be incapable of playing any useful part without the aid of the glands. The functioning of our organs is no more than the result of the activity of our glands, and when the bodily functioning is disturbed the cause, in most cases, should be sought, not in the condition of the organ itself, but in the condition of the gland which controls it.

Glands that function perfectly are responsible for desired qualities which should exist in every normal man or woman.

This is the opinion of an eminent American surgeon, who states that the courage of the soldier and the harm of the vivacious woman are largely dependent upon the activity of the thyroid gland.

Glands which have become inactive or weakened should be nourished in order that they may supply the blood with their vital secretions.

As Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands, "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals."

These extracts are now administered as a glandular compound in accordance with the remarkable discoveries and facts revealed by research over a period of some thirty years. Glandogen is a glandular compound prepared from a scientific formula which combines the important elements of healthy glands of young animals with other efficacious ingredients. It comes in simple, convenient, compact tablet form. Men and women who are weak and run-down, thin and under nourished, physically and mentally tired, who have lost the pep and virility of former days, whose systems are undergoing a change that is sapping their strength and vigor, should heed the words of these eminent scientists and regain once more the health, strength and happiness that come from normally active glands.

Try this ten-day test: Take two Glandogen tablets three times a day for ten days, then see for yourself if you don't feel stronger and better in every way. Do not be satisfied with any so-called gland pill—insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

Mathews Cut Rate Store will supply you, ply you.

O.S.U. Eleven Starts Work

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.—Work of building the sub-structure for Ohio State's 1925 football team was well under way today. Formal spring practice opened Monday with the opening of the spring quarter.

The spring campaign will last three weeks, according to the plans of Dr. J. W. Wilce. The present spring practice marks the beginning of his thirteenth year at Ohio State in charge of football. He came here from the University of Wisconsin in the spring of 1913.

Upwards of 50 candidates are working in spring practice under the direction of Dr. Wilce and the assistant coaches. Of these the great majority are recruits from last fall's freshman squad and reserves from the 1924 varsity.

The 1925 spring training is being patterned somewhat after that of last fall. The players are distributed among the "A," "B," "C" squads according to their apparent ability. In addition to practice as such, one or more practice games are in prospect each week among the several squads.

Approximately a dozen letter men are available from last fall, several of whom just now have scholastic difficulties to remove. In addition, there are a dozen promising freshmen, several of whom are in the same boat with the "O" men just mentioned. For once, comparatively few of the football men are toiling with other squads' Mackey, tackle, is a catcher on the ball team, on which Matty Karow, fullback last fall, is the shortstop.

BALLERINO IS NEW CHAMPION

Wins Junior Lightweight Title From Steve Sullivan.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Mike Ballerino is junior lightweight champion today. The 24-year-old Bayone, N. J., lad took this title from Steve "Kid" Sullivan, of Brooklyn, here last night in ten fast rounds. it was one of the most spectacular encounters that Philadelphia fight fans had witnessed in many years.

Ballerino took the lead at the opening of the fight and kept it up to the end, beating his foe in almost every round. Though Sullivan was a more clever boxer, according to the referee, he could not stand the pace the New Jersey boy kept up.

The crowd caught by Ballerino's frenzied fighting and cheered the new champion through the fight.

In the sixth round, Sullivan thought he had a chance to finish Ballerino and put over two wicked rights to the jaw.

Ballerino took both of them and came back battling harder than ever.

The two judges, John Steffens and John Kofoed, and Referee "Pop" O'Brien, gave the fight to Ballerino. They agreed that Sullivan got the first and seventh rounds only.

AMERICA MAY GET OLYMPICS

Los Angeles Has Big Chance A. A. U. Officials Say.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—More than an outside chance existed today that the Olympic games of 1928 would come to America and that Los Angeles would be the honored city. That much was admitted by A. A. U. officials, who, however, amplified their remarks on the subject by declaring that Amsterdam, Holland, the original awardee, would be given every chance to prove that they can take their Olympics or leave them alone.

The Dutch, thus far, have been very austere about the proposition; in fact have been pleased to indicate that they regard the proposed Olympic appropriation of one million florins as very important money. Their idea of foot racing is that it is something you do with the treadle of a sewing machine.

A meeting of the American Olympic committee has been called two weeks hence to consider the situation in detail and perhaps offer the Dutch some free and highly inexpensive advice. In some quarters, it is felt that Amsterdam is playing the game along the lines followed by the French last year, when they threatened to let the games go by default in order to accelerate national patriotism and individual contributions.

Shanks Jack of All Jobs

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., April 2—Howard Shanks, former Washington and Red Sox player, is a welcome addition to the Yankee family. Shanks is a high-class ball player, one of the finest in the league.

Though Howard is slated to succeed Mike McNally as Yankee infield utility man, he admitted that he never played an infield position until five years ago.

"I guess I just naturally drifted into infield work," said Howard. "As a kid I always was a catcher, and I used to catch on our kid teams back home. I live in the outskirts of Pittsburgh. We had a semi-pro team out there, and they offered me a job at $3.00 a game. As they had a catcher, they put me in the outfield.

"I started in organized baseball as an outfielder with East Liverpool and Griffith got me from Youngstown in 1912. After I played five years in the outfield for Washington, Griffith asked me one day whether I could play the infield.

"I told him I never had played an infield position, but that I was willing to try. He said, 'All right, see what you can do around third base.'

"After that I never knew what position I would be asked to play. Before every game I would ask Griffith where he wanted me to play, I played third, shortstop, second, first and all three outfield positions before I left Washington."

Many a political candidate stands on his record for the purpose of keeping others from getting at it.—Martins Ferry Times.

O.S.U. Eleven Starts Work

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.—Work of building the sub-structure for Ohio State's 1925 football team was well under way today. Formal spring practice opened Monday with the opening of the spring quarter.

The spring campaign will last three weeks, according to the plans of Dr. J. W. Wilce. The present spring practice marks the beginning of his thirteenth year at Ohio State in charge of football. He came here from the University of Wisconsin in the spring of 1913.

Upwards of 50 candidates are working in spring practice under the direction of Dr. Wilce and the assistant coaches. Of these the great majority are recruits from last fall's freshman squad and reserves from the 1924 varsity.

The 1925 spring training is being patterned somewhat after that of last fall. The players are distributed among the "A," "B," "C" squads according to their apparent ability. In addition to practice as such, one or more practice games are in prospect each week among the several squads.

Approximately a dozen letter men are available from last fall, several of whom just now have scholastic difficulties to remove. In addition, there are a dozen promising freshmen, several of whom are in the same boat with the "O" men just mentioned. For once, comparatively few of the football men are toiling with other squads' Mackey, tackle, is a catcher on the ball team, on which Matty Karow, fullback last fall, is the shortstop.

BALLERINO IS NEW CHAMPION

Wins Junior Lightweight Title From Steve Sullivan.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Mike Ballerino is junior lightweight champion today. The 24-year-old Bayone, N. J., lad took this title from Steve "Kid" Sullivan, of Brooklyn, here last night in ten fast rounds. It was one of the most spectacular encounters that Philadelphia fight fans had witnessed in many years.

Ballerino took the lead at the opening of the fight and kept it up to the end, beating his foe in almost every round. Though Sullivan was a more clever boxer, according to the referee, he could not stand the pace the New Jersey boy kept up.

The crowd caught by Ballerino's frenzied fighting and cheered the new champion through the fight.

In the sixth round, Sullivan thought he had a chance to finish Ballerino and put over two wicked rights to the jaw.

Ballerino took both of them and came back battling harder than ever.

The two judges, John Steffens and John Kofoed, and Referee "Pop" O'Brien, gave the fight to Ballerino. They agreed that Sullivan got the first and seventh rounds only.

Monday—Last of big league holdouts sign when their wives present bills for Easter millinery.

Training camp news. Veterans are pained by sore arms, while rookies suffer from swelled heads.

Tuesday—Interviews with American league managers on probable outcome of pennant race. Manager Huggins says he fears Washington. Manager Harris says Senators will have to beat Detroit to win flag. Ty Cobb says St. Louis is most dangerous contender.

Wednesday—Dempsey asked to box for charity. Jack Kearns reported to have soured on milk fund bout.

A. Dubb, of Long Green, N. Y., is first golfer of season to make hole in one. Out talks his wife for first time since marriage.

Thursday—First tragedy of sporting season. Fisherman of Uptha Creek, Ohio, rips his wife's best evening gowns in getting his fishing tackle out of upstairs closet and is shot down in cold blood.

Friday—Signs of spring. Baseball fans of Brooklyn practice throwing pop bottles at target in back yard. Golf widows sue for divorce and office boys don mourning regalia for grandmothers.

Saturday—Big league teams journey northward as training season ends. Antique collectors visit ball parks in large numbers to view latest styles in ivory decorations for benches.

These two men form the hopes of Manager Bill Killefer in his efforts to fill the shoes of Rabbit Maranville, put out of the game for months with a fractured ankle. They are Bobby Barrett and Clarke Pittenger. Barrett's a slugger but only fair fielder. Pittenger fields well, bats timidly.

AMERICA MAY GET OLYMPICS

Los Angeles Has Big Chance A. A. U. Officials Say.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—More than an outside chance existed today that the Olympic games of 1928 would come to America and that Los Angeles would be the honored city. That much was admitted by A. A. U. officials, who, however, amplified their remarks on the subject by declaring that Amsterdam, Holland, the original awardee, would be given every chance to prove that they can take their Olympics or leave them alone.

The Dutch, thus far, have been very austere about the proposition; in fact have been pleased to indicate that they regard the proposed Olympic appropriation of one million florins as very important money. Their idea of foot racing is that it is something you do with the treadle of a sewing machine.

A meeting of the American Olympic committee has been called two weeks hence to consider the situation in detail and perhaps offer the Dutch some free and highly inexpensive advice. In some quarters, it is felt that Amsterdam is playing the game along the lines followed by the French last year, when they threatened to let the games go by default in order to accelerate national patriotism and individual contributions.

Shanks Jack of All Jobs

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., April 2—Howard Shanks, former Washington and Red Sox player, is a welcome addition to the Yankee family. Shanks is a high-class ball player, one of the finest in the league.

Though Howard is slated to succeed Mike McNally as Yankee infield utility man, he admitted that he never played an infield position until five years ago.

"I guess I just naturally drifted into infield work," said Howard. "As a kid I always was a catcher, and I used to catch on our kid teams back home. I live in the outskirts of Pittsburgh. We had a semi-pro team out there, and they offered me a job at $3.00 a game. As they had a catcher, they put me in the outfield.

"I started in organized baseball as an outfielder with East Liverpool and Griffith got me from Youngstown in 1912. After I played five years in the outfield for Washington, Griffith asked me one day whether I could play the infield.

"I told him I never had played in infield position, but that I was willing to try. He said, 'All right, see what you can do around third base.'

"After that I never knew what position I would be asked to play. Before every game I would ask Griffith where he wanted me to play. I played third, shortstop, second; first and all three outfield positions before I left Washington."

Many a political candidate stands on his record for the purpose of keeping others from getting at it.—Martins Ferry Times.

1,106 DISTRICT SCHOOL PUPILS

A. D. Osborne, superintendent of Grant district schools, announced today that the total enrollment of the district is 1,106, an increase of more than 100 over last year's figures.

The figures for the various buildings follow: Whites—Newell, 284 boys, 275 girls; Grandview, 72 boys, 68 girls; Franklin, 27 boys, 16 girls; Sheppards Valley, 21 boys, 16 girls; Allison, 29 boys, 32 girls; Washington, 27 boys, 21 girls; Ellwood, 21 boys, 19 girls; Brooklyn, 17 boys, 19 girls; Glendale, 36 boys, 34 girls; Congo, 22 boys, 27 girls.

Colored students—Newell, 3 boys, 1 girl; Grandview, 3 boys, 4 girls; Allison, 2 boys; Congo, 1 boy, 1 girl.

Robbery Suspect Sentenced.

Weirton police yesterday arrested a colored man, known as "Florida Kid," who was wanted in connection with robbing a clothing store there last Saturday. He is said to have entered the store with drawn revolver and after lining up the shoppers helped himself to many articles of value. He was arraigned in police court later in the day and was fined $500 and sentenced to one year in the county jail at New Cumberland.

Arthur Wells To Lecture.

NOONDAY MEETS IN THREE SHOPS

Final shop meetings of the season were held at noon today in three local potteries by East Liverpool pastors.

Rev. J. F. Dimit, of the First Methodist Protestant church, spoke in the Edwin M. Knowles plant, where Rev. J. A. Schrader, of the Newell Methodist Episcopal church, was the leader.

Rev. O. L. Benedum, pastor of the Nazarene church, made the address in Laughlin No. 4 plant, while Dr. D. W. MacLeod, of the First Presbyterian church, spoke in Laughlin No. 6. W. H. Nagel acted as leader.

Baseball Candidates Practice.

Newell high baseball candidates are holding daily practice sessions for the opening game with Chester high which probably will be staged Saturday on the latter's diamond. Coach George Kidder has a promising squad.

Games will be booked with scholastic teams of Hancock and Columbiana counties.

Will Attend Eastern Star Show.

Local Masons and their families plan to attend the production of "Cheer Up," which is to be presented tonight in Chester under the auspices of the Eastern Star lodge of which many local women are members.

Likely To Recover.

BLAINE, April — John Bogus, found starving in the basement of a local garage, is expected to recover. For a time, he was believed to be dying. Lacking funds, Bogus hid for a week in the garage, and, so far as is known, had nothing to eat during that period.

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the Hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt."—Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say, "Yes" and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

Robbery Suspect Sentenced.

Weirton police yesterday arrested a colored man, known as "Florida Kid," who was wanted in connection with robbing a clothing store there last Saturday. He is said to have entered the store with drawn revolver and after lining up the shoppers helped himself to many articles of value. He was arraigned in police court later in the day and was fined $500 and sentenced to one year in the county jail at New Cumberland.

NOONDAY MEETS IN THREE SHOPS

Final shop meetings of the season were held at noon today in three local potteries by East Liverpool pastors.

Rev. J. F. Dimit, of the First Methodist Protestant church, spoke in the Edwin M. Knowles plant, where Rev. J. A. Schrader, of the Newell Methodist Episcopal church, was the leader.

Rev. O. L. Benedum, pastor of the Nazarene church, made the address in Laughlin No. 4 plant, while Dr. D. W. MacLeod, of the First Presbyterian church, spoke in Laughlin No. 6. W. H. Nagel acted as leader.

Baseball Candidates Practice.

Newell high baseball candidates are holding daily practice sessions for the opening game with Chester high which probably will be staged Saturday on the latter's diamond. Coach George Kidder has a promising squad.

Games will be booked with scholastic teams of Hancock and Columbiana counties.

Will Attend Eastern Star Show.

Local Masons and their families plan to attend the production of "Cheer Up," which is to be presented tonight in Chester under the auspices of the Eastern Star lodge of which many local women are members.

Likely To Recover.

BLAINE, April — John Bogus, found starving in the basement of a local garage, is expected to recover. For a time, he was believed to be dying. Lacking funds, Bogus hid for a week in the garage, and, so far as is known, had nothing to eat during that period.

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the Hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt."—Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say, "Yes" and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

Calvin "Bear Ribs."
The Diamond Trust.
Wall Street Doesn't Know.
Ford's Flax Mill.

ARTHUR BRISBANE.

The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The Indian [illegible] announced in a cable [illegible] take President Coolidge a member of their tribe and confer upon him the name of "Bear Ribs." Jovith Badger and Pius Shoots first wrote the president a nice letter, telling him that his name "Bear Ribs" was that of a very wise Indian, killed by his tribe because he advised them to make peace with the Americans long ago. If old "Bear Ribs" had kept out of peace conferences, and advisings, he'd have died a natural death, Mr. President.

One of the tightest trusts in the world is the big diamond trust, managed by owners of South African diamond mines. Just now that trust is bothered by over-production of diamonds. Last year the African trust sold about $37,000,000 worth of diamonds, against $27,000,000 in 1923. The market fears disorganization.

A few years ago Thomas F. Ryan, of New York, who isn't the easiest man to deal with in a financial fight, bought African diamond mines. He sends his diamonds out by flying machine. It may be that he is worrying the diamond trust, as he once bothered the tobacco trust here in the United States until it took him to its bosom.

Herbert Hoover tells his fellow citizens not to pay attention to the Wall street slump, and not to believe that it means anything serious as regards business prosperity generally.

It only means, says Mr. Hoover, that Wall Street is a poor barometer. That may comfort you, although it won't comfort some of the geese that gambled in the highly speculative stocks and have now gone back to work to earn some more money.

Cotton states will be interested in the news that Russia is increasing cotton acreage this year by 300,000 acres.

More interesting to cotton growers are experiments that Henry Ford is making with flax. He believes that flax can be produced at a price lower than the price of cotton. He's planted more than 1,000 acres, and he showed this writer in his flax factory the other day samples of carded flax with a wonderfully long staple.

Mr. Ford plans to use flax instead of cotton in the material used for covering seats of Ford cars. He believes that machinery, working at low cost, will replace nearly all hand labor that has made linen so expensive. Any good soil will grow flax, he says, and the boll weevil doesn't attack it.

However, cotton growers will wait a while before abandoning their favorite crop.

Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, urges President Coolidge to raise the American flag over more territory near the North Pole. We ought to get all the land we can up there, if only for landing airplanes, says he.

There is wealth up there under the ground, if it ever seems worth while to go after it. The Rockefeller family, patiently plodding toward financial prosperity, has sent oil prospectors up there, struck oil, and plenty of it, inside the Arctic circle. But they don't mean to get it out yet. It would cost fifty millions to run in a pipe line.

In a few thousand years, as the pole swings slowly around, pointing to the different stars, which in turn become our "North Star," the climate up there will change and the land might be very valuable.

Before then, however, nations may cease to quarrel about land, and what we call the United States may be called by a different name.

A young Swedish lady with a fine figure, who has come here to dance for a living, says she drinks only champagne. Champagne and nothing else "preserves a beautiful slender figure," so that young woman says.

It may do that, but plenty of men and women with figures far from slender may be seen drinking plenty of champagne.

Whatever champagne may do for the figure, it is death on the kidneys and other parts of the man's internal machinery.

Any wine that bubbles is a wine that hasn't finished fermenting; and any person that allows the process of fermentation to be carried on inside himself is a foolish person.

Champagne is not a true wine at all. The French, that make it, sell it to English, Russians and Americans. They drink their own national, sound still wines.

The postmaster general punished six employes, reducing them to a lower rank, because of their activity in getting more money for postoffice workers.

What about members of congress that actually voted for their own increase. The public doesn't object to their having it, any more than it objects to the pay of the postoffice employes being raised. But you can't help noticing a certain difference.

$175,000 FIRE RAZES STORE IN DOWNTOWN STEUBENVILLE

Six Men O[illegible] in Fighting R[illegible] tablishment Bl[illegible]

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

Three Seamstresses, Rescued, Say They Heard Explosion.

STEUBENVILLE, April 2.—Marking the third time in his business experience in which he has suffered a total loss, fire last night destroyed the Market street department store, owned by Samuel Reiner, one of the city's largest business establishments, causing a loss estimated at $175,000.

The blaze, the origin of which is unknown, broke out at 6:30 o'clock, and for a time threatened to sweep adjoining business houses, but it was controlled after a stubborn fight by 22 firemen, aided by scores of volunteers. Every available foot of hose was laid in fighting the blaze.

Aside from the Reiner store, only the E. A. Klein establishment, a men's store, was damaged. This firm's stock was slightly damaged by smoke.

Fire Chief Investigates.

Reiner, who lost $10,000 last week, when the Stanton hotel was damaged by fire, today estimated the loss of his stock in the store at $150,000, while the damage to the building, also his property, was placed at $25,000. Although the entire stock of dry goods, etc., in the establishment was destroyed, only the first floor of the two-story building was badly damaged.

Three seamstresses, who were working in the building, were rescued by Patrolman Howard Underwood. They said they heard an explosion a few minutes before the smoke drove them to the door.

Fire Chief Edward Green today was investigating the blaze. Firemen believe the firse originated in the basement near a furnace.

One Man Taken to Hospital.

Six firemen were overcome by smoke. Captain Kessell and Noselmen Dean Aldridge and Matt Fiest, were dragged out of the cellar by citizens. After having facial burns treated they returned to their work.

Three other firemen, including Chief Edward Green, were later overcome and carried from the burning building. Physicians were kept busy reviving the men. Thomas Trainer, a volunteer, was placed in an ambulance and rushed to the Ohio Valley hospital. Firemen John Dawson and the chief later went back into the danger zone.

CITY MAY GET AIR LINE PLACE

Capt. Eugene Reinartz Speaker at Kiwanis Luncheon.

By providing a landing field and marking the name of the city upon the roof of one of the city's highest buildings, East Liverpool may be placed upon the air route from Washington to the Pacific coast, Captain Eugene Reinartz, U. S. Army, told members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon in the Larkins annex, Market street, at noon today.

Captain Reinartz, who recently returned from the Philippine Islands, and who is now visiting at the home of his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Reinartz, Jackson street, was a guest at the meeting. He declared that if a landing field could be arranged, at least a part of the planes operating from coast to coast would stop here on emergency occasions. He also lauded Governor General Leonard Wood for his work in the Philippines.

Attorney W. B. Hill, chairman of the state efficiency contest committee, discussed the proposed contest, and asserted that East Liverpool was in

Siren Horns Warn To Clear Streets For Fire Trucks

The fire department has installed a siren horn at the corner of St. Clair avenue and Sixth street, in front of the Little building.

The horn, which may be heard for several blocks, will be used when the department answers calls west of St. Clair avenue. Often the fire trucks, it is claimed, have been held up because of traffic congestion in the Diamond. The siren which is operated from the Central fire station, will start blowing when the call is received as a warning to clear the streets.

75,000 FRENCH STUDENTS JOIN IN BIG STRIKE

Protest is Made Against Suspension of Dean Berthelemy.

Spain Also Catches Fever as Medical Classmen Quit.

PARIS, April 2.—University students in all parts of France went on strike today against the suspension of Dean Berthelemy of the law school, an incident which already has provoked a demonstration requiring the police repression in the Latin quarter and a tumultous session of the chamber of deputies.

"Seventy-five thousand university students in all parts of France started on strike today, Jean Gattiano, president of the students' association, said.

"There are 25,000 in Paris alone, including 400 Americans, who absented themselves from lectures at the university this morning. Protesting against politicians' interference with administration of the law faculty," he continued.

"We have received assurances of similar sympathy strikes at the universities at Caen, Clermont-Ferrand, Bordeaux, Dijon and Strassburg.

Monster Mass Meeting.

"This afternoon we are holding a monster mass meeting in the Place du Pantheon to pay homage to Dean Berthelemy. We will honor him in front of his home in the Rue Jean Bart."

Dean Berthelemy opposed the nomination of Georges Scelle to a lectureship on international law and the minister of education suspended the dean and all the law school faculty.

PARIS, April 2.—Spain has caught the student demonstration fever, according to dispatches today from Barcelona. Medical students there, the dispatches said, demonstrated against the appointment of Martinez Vargas

Film Producer Held For Perjury; Gish Case is Dismissed

NEW YORK, April 2.—Questioning the sanity of Charles H. Duell, film producer, and holding him in $10,000 bail for perjury in testimony and affidavits, Federal Judge Mack today dismissed Duell's action against Lillian Gish, film star, to restrain her from acting under any management but his own.

In addition Judge Mack said he would institute proceedings to have Duell disbarred from all state and federal courts.

Prosecutor Brookes and Attorney George T. Farrell Make Closing Arguments in Wellsville Shooting Case.

PRISONER TAKES WITNESS STAND

Judge Wood's Charge to Jury is Expected to be Delivered at 3 p. m., Following Which Jury Will Retire.

James Gagliardi, 45, of Wellsville, charged with first degree murder as a result of the death of Rocco Benvento, in Wellsville last Feb. 22, may know his fate before nightfall.

Indications at 1 p. m., when court reconvened following the noon recess, were that the case would go to the jury shortly after 3 o'clock, following the closing argument by Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes and the charge by Judge Calvin H. Wood, of Mt. Gilead.

Self-defense, Says Hanley.

Attorney Jesse C. Hanley, for the defense, resuming his argument to the jury, explained a plat of the territory in the Third-Commerce street district of Wellsville, when court opened this morning. Hanley opened the argument during the afternoon session yesterday.

"There is no evidence in this case that Jim Gagliardi made any threats toward Rocco Benvanto," Hanley said. "There is evidence, however, that Benvento was the aggressor. I think the evidence shows clearly self-defense.

Attorney George T. Farrell followed Hanley with the closing argument for the defendant. He reviewed the testimony of practically every witness on the stand. Farrell, at first addressed his remarks to the court and cited the cases of Jordan against Harris, of Jefferson county, an opinion being rendered by Judge Laubie of the circuit court, wherein self-defense was denied by the court.

Farrell then began his statement to the jury by reviewing the character of the prisoner.

Prosecutor's Argument.

"Jim was never arrested for fighting," Farrell said. "That's important. Jim was the peacemaker when Rocco began to fight in the home of Mike Desmonia. A matter of self-defense has been proven in this case by the preponderance of evidence."

When Farrell finished, the court ordered a brief recess and then Prosecuting Attorney R. M. Brookes began the closing arguments for the state.

REV. J. F. SANT IS ORDAINED

Services are Held in Episcopal Church at Delaware.

Richard Sant, of this city, today returned from Delaware, where he witnessed the ordination of his brother, Rev. John Frances Sant, which took place in St. Peter's Episcopal church Tuesday morning.

The service was in charge of the Right Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, D. D., Springfield, bishop coadjutor of southern Ohio. About 20 members of the clergy from other parts of the diocese and other Delaware pastors attended the service.

Rev. Mr. Sant, who graduated from college last spring, has been pastor of the Delaware church since June. He is a son of the late Thomas C. Sant of this city. In addition to his brother Richard, he also has a step brother, Thomas H. Sant, of Thompson avenue.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES ARE ARRANGED FOR CHURCHES HERE

Holy Week Programs are Announced by Pastors.

NO UNION MEET

Meditation on Death of Christ During Afternoon.

Good Friday services will be held in most churches here, it was announced today.

Holy Week programs have been arranged in some churches, while in others only afternoon or evening services will be held on Good Friday.

The Good Friday service in the First Methodist Episcopal church will begin at 3 o'clock, with the Woman's Home Missionary society in charge. Dr. F. G. Fowler, pastor of the church, will speak. Beginning at 4 o'clock, there will be a communion service, which will continue until 7:30 o'clock, after which a cantata, "From Calvary To Olivet," will be sung by the choir, under the direction of Prof. H. F. Laughlin.

A service for meditation and prayer will be held in the First Church of Christ between 3 and 4 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Bert R. Johnson, pastor.

Holy Week services, in preparation for communion, will be conducted in the First United Presbyterian church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock and on Friday and Saturday afternoons at 2 o'clock.

Evangelistic Services.

Services will be held every evening next week except Saturday, in the First Methodist Protestant church. The services will be evangelistic in nature and will be in charge of Rev. John F. Dimit, pastor.

Preparatory services to communion, which will be distributed Easter Sunday, will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 7:45 o'clock Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

In the St. John's Lutheran church, services will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:45 o'clock and also Friday afternoon from 12:30 to 3 o'clock.

Services will be conducted on Good Friday in the St. Stephen's Episcopal church in charge of Rev. J. D. Whitacomb, of Cleveland.

A good Friday service will be conducted in the St. Aloysius Catholic church, begining at 2 p. m.

But one East End church has arranged a Good Friday service, that being the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, where services will be held beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Stokes, pastor, will be in charge.

GAS TAX BILL AUTHOR TURNS GUNS ON FOES

Vigorous Barrage is Laid Down by Representative Brown.

HITS OIL MEN

Charges Motorists Will Pay Despite Action on Measure.

COLUMBUS, April 2. — Opponents of the proposed gasoline tax were made the target today for a vigorous barrage laid down by Representative John T. Brown, Champaign county, sponsor of the gas tax bill.

Brown charged that oil companies, which are among the most bitter opponents of the proposed tax, will continue to collect several million dollars per year as a result of similar taxes in neighboring states and "keep this sum in their treasuries," instead of the state using the money for road repairs, if the gas tax bill is lost.

"The motorists of Ohio will continue to pay the gas tax as we are doing today, whether we pass this law or not, since every state on our border has such a law," Brown charged. "It is easy to see why the oil companies are opposing the gasoline tax bill."

Charges that the gas tax bill, as passed, is riddled with errors were declared false, and Brown asserted he was confident the courts would find the bill constitutional, "even though the bitter opposition insists on putting it to the public in a false light to create prejudice."

"Every motorist in Ohio should welcome the passage of this law which spells better roads and saving in tires, gasoline and repairs. Far in ex-

SMITH FUNERAL HERE SATURDAY

Funeral services for Harry Smith, 19 years old, who was suffocated to death by gasoline fumes, while pinned beneath a farm tractor on his father's farm, near Cannons Mill, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street, with Rev. P. W. Macauley, pastor of the Lisbon Presbyterian church in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body tomorrow afternoon from 3 until 5 and in the evening from 7:30 until 9 o'clock.

MASTER BANDIT DENIES HE WAS EVER AT SCENE OF MAN-KILLING

Gerald Chapman, Notorious Desperado, Testifies at Trial.

Prisoner, Fully at Ease, Seems Willing to Explain.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 2.—A pin could be heard drop in the courtroom here today when Gerald Chapman, notorious desperado, walked calmly to the witness stand to defend himself against the charge of shooting to death Policeman James Skelly in a department store hold-up in New Britain, Conn., last Oct. 12.

It was exactly 10:50 o'clock when Attorney Frederick J. Groehl of the defense counsel, turned to the bandit and said: "Gerald Chapman."

Prisoner Appeared at Ease.

The words had an electrical effect upon the crowd in the court room. There was a creaking of seats, then an ominous silence and a craning of necks.

Chapman rose quickly and walked quietly to the witness stand, accompanied by a guard.

The bandit wore a dark blue suit without a vest, a white shirt and knitted blue tie. His hair was parted immaculately in the middle.

The star witness for the defense appeared fully at ease, sitting with one leg crossing the other. He listened intently to the questions submitted by his counsel, answering in a firm, even tone.

Never in New Britain.

"Can you tell us how you met Walter S[illegible]an?" Groehl asked.

"It was suggested by Dr. Johnson," Chapman answered, brushing his hair with his hand.

"Dr. Johnson is George Anderson?"

"Yes."

"Where you ever in New Britain?"

Youthful Matricide Faces Ordeal in Fight Over Sanity.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Another chapter of the tragedy of a 17-year-old girl being driven to madness, if she has not already passed the border line of insanity, was to be enacted here today when Dorothy Ellingson, youthful matricide, faced for the eighth day the ordeal of "trial by torture."

Admission came today from state alienists that the court proceedings which have been halted time after time by the girl's collapse, would drive her insane. Defense alienists claim the girl is already insane and her counsel contend she was insane Jan. 13 when she killed her mother.

Court was to open today with Earl Ellingson, 24-year-old brother of the broken "jazz baby," on the stand. Twice during his testimony late yesterday in which he charged his sister with theft and told of having whipped her for this cause, Dorothy fainted.

Following him on the stand, Joseph Ellingson, father of the girl, was to tell of an occasion three months before she was born when he awoke in his home in Minneapolis to find the hands of his wife, mother of Dorothy, gripped about his throat in an effort to choke him to death. Mrs. Ellingson fell into a swoon, he was to testify, when he forced her to release her hold on his throat and for some time thereafter was nervously and mentally ill.

NO MERGERS OR CONSOLIDATIONS CONTEMPLATED IN SALE OF DODGE BROTHERS' AUTOMOBILE PLANT

DETROIT, April 2.—Purchase contracts under which full control of Dodge Brothers, second largest automobile plant in the world, passes to the Wall Street banking house of Dillon, Read and Company for a cash price estimated at between $110,000,000 and $125,000,000, are being drawn in Detroit today.

This announcement, made early today by A. C. Schwartz, representing Dillon, Read and Company, was confirmed by John Ballantyne, treasurer of Dodge Brothers. The statement declares that no mergers or consolidations are contemplated and that Dodge Brothers will operate as in the past—an independent concern.

This disavowal of intention to consolidate was designed to set at rest rumors that the purchase of Dodge Brothers was the first step in a gigantic move to form a combination including Packard Motor company, Hudson Motor Car company and the Driggs Body Corporation, a consolidation that would rival the General Motors Corporation.

Not Rival of Morgan.

In financial circles in Detroit doubt was also expressed regarding the reports that J. P. Morgan & Co. were rivaling Dillon, Read & Co. in bidding for the property. There were intimations here that the two financial groups should be classed as anything but rivals.

The statement of Mr. Schwartz, representing Dillon, Read & Co., follows:

"An agreement has been reached for the sale of Dodge Brothers, Inc., to Dillon, Read & Co. of New York and contracts of purchase are now being drawn. The price to be paid can not be made known at this time.

"Consolidation of the Dodge company with any other company or companies is not in contemplation by the purchasers and any and all rumors of consolidations and mergers resulting from this move are entirely without foundation.

"It is the intention that Dodge Brothers shall continue to be operated as an independent concern without any change from its present policies or in the present personnel of its management."

Mr. Schwartz and his two associates from New York, E. G. Wilmer, who is chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, which is now under the financial direction of Dillon, Read and company, and S. W. Howland, gave out their statement in the presence of Wesson Seyburn, a son-in-law of Mrs. John F. Dodge and other representatives of the John F and Horace E. Dodge estates.

None of the party would add to the statement the least comment, and all refused to make any statement on the amount that changed hands in what ranks as one of the biggest automobile company sales in the country's financial history.

The negotiations were handled for the two Mrs. Dodges and their children by John F. Ballantyne and Charles P. Spicer. The former is treasurer of Dodge Brothers and trustee of Horace Dodge's estate. Beside the widow there are Horace E. Dodge, a shipbuilder, and Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell, wife of James H. R. Cromwell of Philadelphia, affiliated with the noted eastern banking house of E. T. Stotesbury and Company.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR AUTO TAGS

Demands for automobile license plates were heavy at the distributing agency of the George H. Owen and company on yesterday and today, due to the 25 per cent reduction in fees, which became effective on April 1.

About 240 sets of plates for pleasure cars and trucks were issued Wednesday and up to the noon hour today. The present rates will be effective until July 1, when another 25 per cent cut will be made for the balance of the year.

Rates on pleasure cars are reduced from $8, $12 and $20 to $6, $9 and $15, respectively. A similar reduction is made on the fees for trucks, trailers, motorcycles, side cars and pleasure-commercial machines.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 2. — Industrial stocks which led the sharp rally at the close of yesterday's market retreated under heavy profit taking in the early trading today. Traders who had purchased stocks Monday and Tuesday crowded into the market to sell at the comparatively higher prices prevailing at today's opening, and prices sagged from two to six points in the high priced stocks before the end of the first hour.

Neither the passing of control of the Pan-American Petroleum company nor the publication of the official plan for the reorganization of Wilson & Co. were of any stimulus to the stocks of these companies. Pan-American oils were offered at concessions of about four points from yesterday's high prices. Another cut of 15 cents a barrel in Corning crude oil hastened the liquidation of the other oil stocks, and losses of a point or more were sustained by Independent Oil and Gas, Marland and other of the active stocks in this group.

Wilson & Co. preferred stock dropped seven points to 24¼, a loss of ten points from yesterday's high, while the common stock was down nearly two points; selling of the stock was due to dissatisfaction with the reorganization plan, which leaves the first mortgage bonds undisturbed. The Wilson company bonds were strong, the convertible sixes advancing about two points in the listed bond market.

Liberal offerings of Baldwin, United States Steel, General Electric and Cast Iron Pipe resulted in declines of two and three points. Mack Trucks reached 113¾, down about six points from yesterday's high; Cast Iron Pipe was down 4. American Woolen displayed conspicuous weakness and dropped two points to 35c, the lowest price since 1916.

Lighter demand for call money from the brokerage houses resulted in a further decline in call money rates to 4¼ per cent, for renewals. The grain markets were again reactionary, wheat declining two to three and a half cents a bushel in Chicago and six cents in Winnipeg. Cotton market were steady. Foreign exchange firm.

Students surrounded Vargas' automobile, shouting "Resign!"

Dean Bonafonte, of the medical college, attempted to intervene without success. The students paraded to the rectory, entered the new executive's quarters, and demolished furniture. Police were called and cleared the students out of the university.

Civil guards also were called and charged the student body several times in University square. Two students were seriously injured and many arrests were made.

"There is nothing I can say about the sale or the amount of the price. Both the Mrs. Dodges, Mr. Spicer and myself were able to reach an agreement with the buyers and that is all there is to it," declared Mr. Ballantyne, confirming the Schwartz statement.

Henry Ford today denied that he had any interest in the sale, although, he said, as early as two years ago the chance to buy the Dodge plant was offered him. Officials of several other motor plants, including the Packard Motor company, were busy today denying rumors that the Dodge sale was to be the signal for a merger in which they were all involved.

Master Bandit

Britain. I was never there."

"Were you ever convicted of a crime?"

"Four times. The last time in Atlanta."

"Did you ever meet any of Shean's friends?"

"Many of them."

Groehl held up the alleged murder revolver.

"Did you own this revolver?"

"No."

"How long did you know Anderson?"

"Three or four years," Chapman answered.

Chapman kept dropping his voice and the court admonished him to raise his voice. The bandit talked in a refined manner.

"Your witness," Groehl said.

Prosecutor Cross-Examines.

Prosecutor Alcorn began to cross-examine Chapman.

Alcorn asked the accused as to his past record.

Chapman referred to his mail truck robbery, in New York, January 15, 1921.

"I don't care to get into a controversy as to that incident," Chapman said. "I infer you know all about that affair."

"Did you pull a gun and fire a shot in Muncie, Ind., when you were arrested?"

"A man stuck a revolver against my heart without warning. He didn't tell me he was an officer."

"Did you pull the gun on the officer and afterwards say he was a damn fool?"

"I wouldn't be so foolish," Chapman replied.

"Did you ship any goods from the west to Shean?"

"A few bags."

Alcorn asked Chapman if one of exhibited weapons was "his."

"No. A great many guns look alike."

"Is it yours? It was found in your property," Alcorn said.

"You must remember there were others with me in Springfield," Chapman answered.

Asks Prosecuter Question.

"What states were you in during the months of August and September?" Alcorn asked.

"In August I was in Muncie, Ind.; West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts," Chapman related softly.

Alcorn suddenly produced two bags and pulled forth two expensive fur coats.

Groehl, Chapman counsel, objected to an attempt to prove another crime."

Chapman seemed eager to explain saying:

"If you don't mind I'd like to explain the situation."

During a legal exchange between state and defense counsel, Chapman leaned forward quietly from the witness box and said to Groehl:

"Let me ask him a question?"

The spectators tittered.

Denies He Stole Auto.

During the cross-examination Chapman said:

"Do you want the truth? If you're looking for the justice of it and the real truth, I'll explain that car to you, if you're really interested in justice."

He drove home his words by running his fingers along the witness railing.

"Waldo W. Miller was in possession of the Lincoln car," Chapman said. "If Anderson had the car he'd be Miller. If Shean had it, he'd be Miller."

Chapman denied he had stolen the Lincoln car.

"You heard yourself identified as having stolen the car?"

"Of course. And I really think the girl was mistaken. Really, I did."

Anderson bought the car which was stolen by some one else.

But you registered as the owner of the car, Alcorn protested.

"Oh," said Chapman, waving his hand deprecatingly. "You don't think I'd be any more honest about little things like that than in other things for my own protection?"

A recess was then taken.

The court room was surprised and disappointed when Prosecutor Alcorn failed to continue cross-examination of Chapman after court had reconvened. Chapman, himself, appeared disconsolate.

Groehl took over his witness again.

"Were many of your associates friends of Walter Shean?"

Chapman recited a number of picturesque names.

"Have you been charge with crimes that were never proved against you?" Groehl asked.

Chapman tolled off the fingers of one hand.

"Five," he said, "aside from this crime."

"Who shipped this property to Shean?"

Chapman named some men, including a "Big Ben."

"Is there anything else you care to say?"

"I think for the benefit of the jury, I should explain my connection with this property," Chapman suggested casually.

"You are on trial for your life. Tell them," Groehl commanded.

"I will," said Chapman, leaning forward and pointing two fingers at the jury box.

Never Charged With Murder

Chapman told of men bringing stuff to Shean's store house where Shean was in the custom of receiving it."

"Big Bennie" and the others wanted to know of a "fence" out West, Chapman related. Anderson wanted to ship the stuff out to "The Hub," Muncie, Ind., Chapman said.

Anderson told these men that the "stuff" was too high grade to handle, and the stuff was shipped back to Shean, he said.

"You've never been charged with murder?" Groehl asked.

"I've been credited with it. I think its the pastime of the newspapers to have me shoot men every so often."

Chapman said Shean had driven the Lincoln car.

Chapman got off the stand and returned a minute later he turned confidently to the jury and said:

"I asked my counsel if I had better not explain some other things, for your enlightenment, gentlemen."

"Particularly concerning the game," Chapman added.

Uses Exquisite English.

Chapman said it was customary for bootleggers to protect themselves from "Hijackers."

Like a professor lecturing, Chapman, in exquisite English revealed the protective habits of rum runners.

"In Florida and all the way up the coast, these protective measures are in order," Chapman said, "to prevent attacks by outlaws.

"You see there is no protection against this from the law," Chapman smiled.

Prosecutor Alcorn did not cross-examine and the defense rested its case.

The state produced Samuel Miesel, hotel owner of Troy, N. Y., as the first rebuttal witness for the state.

Meisel testified George Stuyvesant was working for him from October 4 to October 24 at the Crooked Lake Hotel, Troy. The witness identified a picture of Stuyvesant. A defense witness had identified Stuyvesant as one of the New Britain store robbers.

"Under cross-examination Miesel admitted he had been convicted for violating the Volstead Act.

Captain Fred W. Puckett, of Muncie, Ind., took the stand. Questions asked him concerning the arrest of Chapman in Indiana were excluded on motion of counsel.

Gas Tax Bill

cess of the slight cost," Brown declared.

Means Better Roads.

Brown insisted that "comment and criticism by the opponents" of the bill, "presents to the public a gross misrepresentation of fact which should not go unchallenged." He disposed of charges that the bill was loosely thrown together.

"The fact is," said Brown, "this bill was introduced Jan. 13, and after four weeks of the most critical scrutiny by bitter opponents during the several public committee meetings, it was passed by the house with slight amendment. The bill then withstood four more weeks of the burning fire of criticism in the senate before it was passed by that body. On March 18, after running the gauntlet for nine weeks, the bill, as finally agreed, passed both houses.

"To fortify against possible error, the author was favored with the best counsel from the time the bill was begun until it was finally passed and, in addition, it was carefully considered and approved by the reference committee, consisting of the most able and critical attorneys in the assembly. The fact is that no bill before the Ohio legislature in recent years has received more careful consideration.

Predict Donahey Veto.

"All motor vehicle fuel imported into the state is specifically subject to tax, even though the public has been told it is not. Ohio refiners are not, therefore, discriminated against, as they would have you believe.

"All petroleum products, except kerosene, are subject to tax, including gasoline and other volatile fuel derived from petroleum.

"The statement that cars purchased since the first of the year are not compelled to pay license fees is utterly false, the language of the bill will show to anyone who has opportunity to read it.

"I have no fear that the courts will disapprove any feature of this bill, even though the bitter oppostion insists on presenting it to the public in a false light intended to create prejudice. The language of the bill is clear and easily understood."

Governor Donahey is expected to veto the tax, according to information available at the executive offices.

Sir Michael Seymour, Second Sea Lord Of Britain, Dies

LONDON, April 2. — Vice Admiral Sir Michael Culme Seymour died here today. He had been second sea lord and chief of naval personnel since last year.

He was promoted from captain to rear admiral in 1916 and to vice admiral in 1920. He served in the battle of Jutland in 1916, and one big sea engagement of the war, and was mentioned in dispatches.

James Gagliardi

"This is one of the clearest cases of first degree murder I have ever known," Brookes said. "We have proven this to be a murder premeditated and with malice. What did Jim mean when on the witness stand he said: 'You kick a dog, he bite you.' Malice and hatred has been shown. Jim wouldn't answer my question time and time again. There is no evidence of Rocco making a movement toward pulling a revolver from his pocket. The defendant sitting there, now facing the electric chair, was the aggressor."

Discharge Thirteenth Juror.

At 11:37 Judge Wood ordered a recess until 1 o'clock.

Prosecutor Brookes will complete his argument probably before 2 o'clock and the charge of the court is not expected to last more than an hour. Should this follow the jury will get the case about 3 o'clock.

Under section 11431-1 of the general code of Ohio, which provides 13 jurors, the thirteenth juror, who is L. H. Copeland, of Millport, will be discharged when the case goes to the jury. Copeland will not enter the jury room.

Gagliardi on Witness Stand.

Gagliardi, taking the stand in his own behalf yesterday afternoon, testified that he is married and that his wife, now living in southern Italy, is aware that he is on trial for his life. The prisoner, who has been a resident of the United States for 18 years, told his story of the shooting of Benvento through an interpreter, Thomas Campsey, of Lisbon

Mrs. Benvento, widow of the slain man, with her baby in her arms, walked to and fro in the aisle of the court room while Gagliardi told the jury that he shot her husband in self defense.

At one point in Gagliardi's testimony, Mrs. Benvento cried out that the witness was not telling the facts. Prosecutor Brookes walked to her side and cautioned her against interrupting Gagliardi.

Gagliardi's Testimony.

Without the slightest trace of nervousness, Gagliardi testified before a crowded court room.

He said he had taken out first citizenship papers, but did not apply for his second papers because he did not understand the questions he was to be asked. He also said he was sending money at regular intervals to his wife, and that she was buying property in Italy.

Gagliardi declared that Desmonia had wine at his house and that on Sunday, February 22, they had a "couple of quarts" and he with others drank the wine.

"After I drank some of that stuff I went like a crazy man," the witness testified. "I told Rocco not to start any trouble, and he cursed my mother and said he was going to split my head. He also said to me 'before dark you'll be killed.'

Claims Women Feared Rocco.

"Then Mike Desmonia took Rocco outside to cool off. Rocco had a gun in his pool room the night before the shooting. The women were afraid they would have trouble when Rocco came back. Mrs. Desmonia feared shooting in her home."

"Who was with you when Rocco was shot?" asked Hanley.

"Mike Desmonia and several others."

"Why did you go toward Rocco on Third street?"

"He called me to come over, and I went over to see what he wanted."

"What did Rocco do before you got over to him?"

"He was six or seven feet from me and he put his hand on his hip pocket to pull a gun."

"What did you do?"

"I pulled my gun and shot him."

The witness was then standing in the witness box, and he dramatically made a motion as if he was pulling a revolver from the waist of his trousers.

Warned He Would Be Shot.

"You believed you were going to be shot?"

"They told me I'd be killed before dark."

"How many times did you shoot Rocco?"

"Three or four times—I don't know."

"Where did you go then?"

"I went up on the 'mountain' by the spring."

Under cross-examination by Brookes, Gagliardi repeated that "he told me he was going to kill me before the day was over."

"You shot him because you hated him?" Brookes queried.

"He shoot me and I shot him. I hold Rocco after he slapped Louie, and he told me he'd break my head, too," said Gagliardi.

Clashes Between Counsel.

Several tilts between the state and defense counsel resulted while the defendant was on the stand.

Gagliardi admitted that he shot Benvento, but he testified he did so in self-defense. He said that when he was walking along Third street, Wellsville, that fatal Sunday afternoon in February, Benvento put his right hand on his hip and he (Gagliardi) then pulled his own gun and shot Benvento. The shooting, he testified, occurred about two hours after Benvento and a boarder in the Desmonia home had quarreled.

Attorney Hanley announced at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon that the defense rested, and the court declared a recess. At 3:10 o'clock, the opening arguments to the jury was made by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John E. Bauknecht.

Bauknecht's Argument.

"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, you have been called upon to perform a grave and serious duty," said Mr. Bauknecht. "I, with you, appreciate the gravity of the situation. You have sworn to be fair and truly weigh the evidence. When you swore to be fair, you swore to be fair to the state of Ohio as well as fair to the defendant James Gagliardi. In this, I know that you will do your full duty as you see it."

Mr. Bauknecht then reviewed the testimony of every witness. He stressed the evidence that the defendant had been arrested for the possession of concealed weapons, and that he had been arrested for intoxication. He reviewed the trouble in the home of Michael Desmonia, and the defendant leaving there, walking north on Third street toward the hill and of whipping a revolver from his clothing and shooting Benvento.

Before he began his opening argument to the jury, Attorney Hanley, for the defense, requested the court to charge the following propositions of law, separately and not as a series:

"The defendant can justify the taking of the life of Rocco Benvento in self-defense if it is established by the preponderance of the evidence that the defendant, in the proper exercise of his faculties, believed in good faith that he was in imminent danger of death or grievous bodily harm."

"It is not the imminence of the danger that is the test, but the appearance of it. Rocco Benvento may not have, in fact, endeavored or intended to kill the defendant—he may not have had a weapon on him that would kill if used; yet if he made a movement that would indicate such intent to a reasonable man, in such careful use of his faculties as the situation would permit, and the defendant honestly believed that Benvento intended to kill or grievously wound him he would be justified in slaying Benvento.

Question of Self-Defense.

"In all cases where the defendant relies upon the right of self-defense the question before the jury is one of apparent and not real facts."

"How did it appear to the defendant."

"Looked at from this standpoint how would it appear to a reasonable man."

"In this case was the conduct of Benvento under all the circumstances sufficient to induce a reasonable man to honestly believe that such assailant intended to draw a weapon and kill or grievously injure him?"

"If you, and the defendant did honestly so believe, he would be justified in acting on that belief and in shooting to kill. He would not be bound to run the risk of waiting to see if Benvento in fact would draw a weapon—that might be too late for safety."

Hanley's Argument.

"If under the law and the evidence the defendant had the right of self-defense, he would not be bound to retreat, although in his power to do so without increasing the danger; but he would have the right to kill Benvento if he honestly believed, and had reasonable cause to believe, that it was necessary so to do in order to save his own life or prevent grievous bodily harm."

Hanley, in his 45-minute argument, stressed the point that Gagliardi shot Benvento in self-defense. He repeated the testimony of the defendant who declared that Benvento put the Italian curse upon him by saying he would be dead before sundown."

"The only reason Jim wasn't killed is because Jim was quicker on the draw than Rocco," Hanley declared.

"Where is Patsy Frontone? Why didn't the state call him?" Hanley queried.

"Why didn't you?" came sharply from Brookes.

"This is your case," replied Hanley.

"Why didn't the state call the mother-in-law of Rocco Benvento?" Hanley asked. "She is the one who tried to get Rocco to go home, and he shoved her from the sidewalk to the street.

With this statement, Hanley closed his argument.

Miss Sarah Ross Becomes Bride of Mining Engineer.

The marriage of Miss Sarah Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Ross of this city, to Harry Lincoln Porter, mining engineer, which was solemnized Wednesday in Luxembourg, Belgium, was announced in a cablegram received today by Mr. Ross, manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant here.

The cablegram was brief. It said: "Married here April 1. Address Porter, care Forminere, Brussels."

Mrs. B. J. Ross, the bride's mother, although expecting news of the wedding, will not learn of the event until some time tonight probably, when she arrives in St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Ross, who has been visiting with her husband here, left for the Florida city Tuesday.

Miss Ross and Mr. Porter became engaged while they were students at Ohio State University, Columbus. Miss Ross subsequently graduated from the school of journalism and Mr. Porter as a mining engineer.

After working in various sections of the United States for some time he went into northern Canada, where he was in charge of a gold mine crew. After that he went to Belgium Congo, in central Africa, where he took charge of a diamond mine. Here he was occupied for two and one-half years. The territory in which the mine was located was under Belgium rule and both Belgium and American capitalists were interested. In addition, the king of Belgium owned extensive financial interests in the mine.

Miss Ross sailed for Europe on March 21 on the steamer France, landing in Havre, France. From there she went to Antwerp and later, after joining Mr. Porter, proceeded to Luxembourg, where they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter expect to make a tour of the continent before returning to the United States.

PARK REPORTS TO BE MADE TONIGHT

Final and definite reports on the results of the Hammond park tag day sale are expected to be submitted to the park commission at the organization's meeting tonight.

Although a total of well over $570 had been reported last Monday following Saturday's drive, members of the commission were confident that this sum will be boosted, inasmuch as several teams had not reported.

The commission tonight will also discuss the expenditure of the funds received in beautifying the park site. Benches, a shelter house, fire places and other picnic conveniences have been suggested.

PLAN BANQUET FOR PLAY CAST

Invitations have been issued for the banquet and entertainment which will be given on Tuesday evening, April 7, by Corporal Dan D. Duty post, No. 180, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The banquet, which will be held in the post rooms in upper Main street, will be given for members of the Vets' recent play, "Somewhere in France," and others who aid in staging the performance.

WILL OBSERVE MUSIC WEEK HERE

The Wellsville Music club, one of the chief organizations of its kind in the city, and the Elks' male chorus, a recently formed group of singers, will take part in the annual observance of national music week here.

The music week observance is scheduled for the first week in May. The Music club and the Elks' chorus are the only organizations that have announced plans for participating in the seven-day program contemplated.

It is planned to offer a miscellaneous program this year.

Cleared by Court on Charges, But Cannot be Freed.

PARDON SOUGHT

Convicted of Forgeries Which Were Never Committed.

EDINBURGH—A young man is serving seven years imprisonment for forgeries which the court of session—the supreme court of Scotland—has declared are not forgeries.

David Chalmers Anderson is the victim of this miscarriage of justice. From 1920 to 1922 he was private secretary to the late John Wilson, a wealthy Edinburgh merchant, who died leaving a fortune of more than two million dollars.

Six months after Wilson's death Anderson was arrested and charged with fraud and with uttering forged stocks and bonds, the property of his late employer.

Anderson pleaded not guilty and said that all he had done had been with the approval of his employer. But this plea did not avail him, and he would have had to serve the remaining five years of his sentence had not further litigation with regard to Wilson's estate ensued.

Lived Expensively.

It was a bank case. The executors of Wilson sought to recover from the Bank of England bonds and stocks to the amount of $250,000, which, they said, had been sold by Anderson with the aid of a forged authority in Wilson's name.

At Anderson's trial it had been urged that his conduct was such as to show he was misappropriating money. He had been living at a very expensive rate. He had lost large sums in betting on horses; he owned three expensive cars and was buying another for $7,000. He had also entered into a contract to buy a dancing hall at Edinburgh for $165,000 and had paid $110,000 of the price. It was these facts that led the court to disbelieve his story at the trial.

But now Lord Ashmore, highest judicial authority in Scotland, in giving judgment for the bank, held that there was no forgery by Anderson, and that the secretary signed the transfer documents of the stocks on the authority of Wilson and in his behalf. This judgment meant that Anderson was innocent.

Stranger Sequel.

Then followed an even stranger sequel. It seemed that Wilson, the most respected man in Edinburgh, who died, honored by all, at the age of 93, had for years been carrying out a series of extensive frauds.

For many years he had been defrauding the inland revenue department in regard to his income tax and super-tax. Lord Ashmore said that before Wilson employed Anderson he had been very much upset by the determined inquiries of the officials of the inland revenue department. For this reason he seems to have employed an innocent young man to cloak his actions.

But although Anderson has been pronounced innocent, there is no legal machinery in Scotland for his release. There is no court of criminal appeal in the matter; and the secretary for Scotland has stated that he has no power to deal with the case.

Accordingly, a petition has been drawn up, and is being extensively signed throughout Scotland, appealing to King George to exercise his power and grant Anderson what is known as a "free pardon." This will authorize the authorities to release the prisoner, but it will not legally establish his innocense.

Attend Rigby Funeral Services.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCarty and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeBee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver and son, all of Buckeye avenue, have returned from Minerva, where they attended funeral services for the late Lawrence Rigby.

Visit Friends Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aiken, of Alliance, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McKenzie, of Buckeye avenue.

Fireman Hays Resigns.

C. E. Rally Here Tonight.

Delegations from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Yellow Creek, Chester and Newell will attend the Christian Endeavor rally which will be held this evening in the First Evangelical church here under the auspices of the Columbiana County union. Readings, music and special selections will make up the program for the meeting.

TWELVE ALLEGED UNSOUND FIRMS LISTED BY VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

Twelve concerns conducting stock selling, work-at-home and similar schemes, which, it is declared, are unsound, are listed in recent bulletins issued by the National Vigilance committee and received by the Chamber of Commerce.

These concerns include:

The Concrete Products Inc., of Hadden, Connecticut, conducting a stock promotion campaign.

United Sales Service, Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., selling of a metal cleaning device known as "E-Z Way Magic Silver Cleaner."

Industrial Manufacturing company, New York City, selling of outfits for the manufacture of garters.

Standard Embroideries, Defiance, Ohio, conducting a work-at-home scheme in the manufacture of embroideries.

Cleveland Auto Raffle company, Cleveland, selling chances for an automobile that was never awarded.

Kenneth Hackley, Earl Park, Ind., manufacturing of canton flannel gloves for home work.

Dillion Leasing and Royalty company, Fort Worth, Texas, promoting sale of oil stocks returning "2,400 per cent profits in seven months.

American Oil company, Fort Worth, Texas, selling oil stocks.

J. G. Allen, Canton, Ohio, soliciting advertisements for Railroad Men's Time Record.

National Retailers' advertising Association, Chicago, alleged dealers in electric signs.

Star Advertising company of Salt Lake City, Utah, selling advertising space on restaurant menu cards.

Growers' Association, of Chicago, Ill., Selling fruit of questionable value.

Priest Famous as Soldier.

The Right Reverend Monsignor Richard Barry-Doyle is famous not only as a priest but as a soldier also. He served as a soldier on every battle field during the world war and was decorated by all the allied nations. He is a half brother of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the novelist and creator of Sherlock Holmes, and is a descendant of Commodore John Barry, of Revolutionary fame.

By Larry Flint

Sunday Mornin'

There is scrubbin' necks t' do
An' a nose t' wipe er two
In th' house where we are livin'
When the early church bell rings
Sunday mornin'; there's a rare
Note of bustle in the air
As we scramble fer our collars
An' our socks an' other things.

Home ain't no place much fer rest
Sunday morn; th' place is jest
Like a battleground with warriors
Racin' here an' chasin' there
Huntin' pennies fer th' plate;
Mother yellin', "Don't be late,"
Sister Emmy combinin' mice nests
From her tangled braid o' hair.

Mother's face is flushed an' drawn
When th' kids an' Dad are gone;
An' a sort o' lull comes settlin'
Over things an' life is meek
Once again; th' hum an' din
Sort o' quiet down again
An', of all folks, Mother's gladdest
Sunday comes but once a week.

Rub Away Baby's Colds

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Governor's Veto No Surprise

Gov. Donahey's veto of Representative R. W. Emmons' bill providing for a municipal court at East Liverpool was no surprise for supporters of the measure. His action was expected in view of his rejection of a similar proposal for Ashtabula. The executive's disapproval of the plan was made on the ground that the legislature should enact a uniform municipal court act with a view of preventing cluttering up the state's general code with local municipal court measures.

However, East Liverpool is not downhearted. Reports from Columbus inlicate that the Emmons measure will be included among the bills to be passed over the governor's head when the assembly reconvenes on April 16.

The municipal court bill has been generally approved. The proposal, twice rejected by Mr. Donahey, has been endorsed by Trades and Labor Council, Chamber of Commerce, the Southern Columbiana County Bar association and civic organiaztions. And it was prompted by the belief that it not only would prove a revenue producer, but would be an advantage over the system now prevailing in minor courts. And, too, it would mean curtailment of much expense now necessitated by trips to Lisbon for the trial of civil claims under $1,000.

The municipal court is a success. East Liverpool should be given the privilege of creating the tribunal.

Jefferson's Decalogue

The anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birth, today, recalls a work of that statesman and philosopher which is too little known. It is what he called "A Decalogue of Canons for Observation in Practical Life," some of which have been attributed to Franklin, anl all of which are worth remembering. They are as follows:

1. Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today.
2. Never trouble another for what you can do yourself.
3. Never spend your money before you have it.
4. Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you.
5. Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold.
6. We never repent of having eaten too little.
7. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.
8. How much pain have cost us the evils which have never happened.
9. Take things always by their smooth handle.
10. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, a hundred.

Facts On the Shoals

Fortunately, as many think, the last congress adjourned without doing anything about Muscle Shoals. The country is anxious to dispose of the shoals problem, but it became evident toward the close of the session that both public and congress were far from having all the essential facts.

There was no agreement among engineers as to how much power could be produced there, how much of it would be available for nitrates, how well the plants already finished were adapted to nitrate manufacture, whether enough fertilizer could be made there to play a really important part in agriculture, and whether fertilizer or power was the more essential to southern prosperity. These questions should be settled before any final disposition is made of that valuable and unique property.

The president has appointed a commission, as requested in a congressional resolution, to inquire and report on the matter at the opening of the next session. It it does its work competently, it will be time to go ahead with that big power plant, under public or private control, as may seem best. But whatever disposition may be made of the property, there will be strong objection to the government surrendering title to the shoals, or leasing them to private interests for as long as was contemplated in the Ford lease—a full century.

Another "Perfect Crime"

It will be remembered that Messrs. Loeb and Leopold originated the "perfect crime," when they killed a young acquaintance for the thrill of it. Also that their crime proved, in the end, to have fallen short of the perfection intended.

Now they have had imitators in a different sphere of crime. Two men the other night planned a "perfect robbery" on the New York Central railroad. They expected to get $100,000 in bank shipments of currency and newly minted coins. Their information was straight and their plans were correct. But all they got was $700 cash. They merely made the technical mistake of robbing the wrong train.

So it is usually with criminals. When they commit an apparently clever crime and make a successful "getaway," it is usually due to unforeseeable luck or to the stupidity of others. The "perfect crime" nearly always reveals imperfection. This is natural, because crime itself is essentially stupid, in a world based on moral law.

It may be, as a critic remarks, that "the prestige of a congressman was never so low as it is now." But the congressmen themselves are remedying that. Knowing that money gives prestige, they have raised their own salaries.

Having made the world more or less safe for democracy, it remains, as the Vancouver Sun observes, to "make it unsafe for hypocrisy."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

SOMEWHERE IN HOLLAND, April 2.—Holland has always appealed to my imagination. The Dutch are a sturdy race. From the train window I see a tiny herd of the small black and white cows grazing tended by two blue smocked peasants. It is a scene that might have been painted by Anton Mauve.

The little villages look so peaceful. The exterior of the cottages are in bright colors, red, yellow, blue and green and the small windows are discreetly veiled in snowy curtains quaintly pleated. Outside many doors are wooden shoes arrayed in line, from father's huge ones to the tiny pair for baby.

Housewives of Holland are thrifty. They do not permit dust or dirt to be brought in from the street. Some of the homes have only two rooms, the bedroom and combination kitchen parlor. Everything is polished and shiny. The kitchen range glitters with copper and brass utensils.

In the little cobble-stone streets are women with their tightly laced bodices and starched lace caps. The men in their baggy trousers laced up the back and high caps. The blonde children in their suits of blue—shy and smiling. They wave at you, then run to hide.

In one home, they were having breakfast. Dry bread and cheese. The floor, a dado of old blue and white tiles, fairly shone. The dresser nearby was laden with crockery and glass. The windmills lazily turning are comforting and restful. There is a monotony of flat land.

Everyone in Holland seems happy and well contented. Everywhere are flocks of geese waddling along with their eternal quack-quack. The old men sit squatting in groups, puffing at their long cigars. The youths here are big and strapping and exude health.

Just as I am in the midst of a Holland rhapsody, a man came through the train calling "Telegram! Telegram for Mr. Issac Cohen!" I had to shake myself. Surely I must be dreaming. For this sounded for all the world like a lobby of a New York hotel.

Mr. Cohen, by the way, happened to be in my compartment. He is on his way to Amsterdam after being in America for 21 years. H's brother is there. He has prospered in the mercantile business in a middle-sized city in Nebraska. I spoke to him of the indifference to human fretting in Holland. At the moment I rather thought I would like to spend my approaching old age there. Mr. Cohen had a bland, generous smile and shrugged. "The most monotonous country in the world," he said. "They become as clabby as their cheese."

---

I suppose Mr. Cohen is right. People who remain in America very long are not easily transplanted to other soil. It is my belief that most of the Americans living over here who try to give you the impression of contentment are merely "kidding" themselves.

---

We in America are often accused of confounding bustle with creation and noise with achievement. What I have seen of Holland is beautiful. There is no bustle nor noise. Yet you have the feeling of a lack of creation and a lack of achievement. So perhaps there is more to our rush and roar than Europeans think.

---

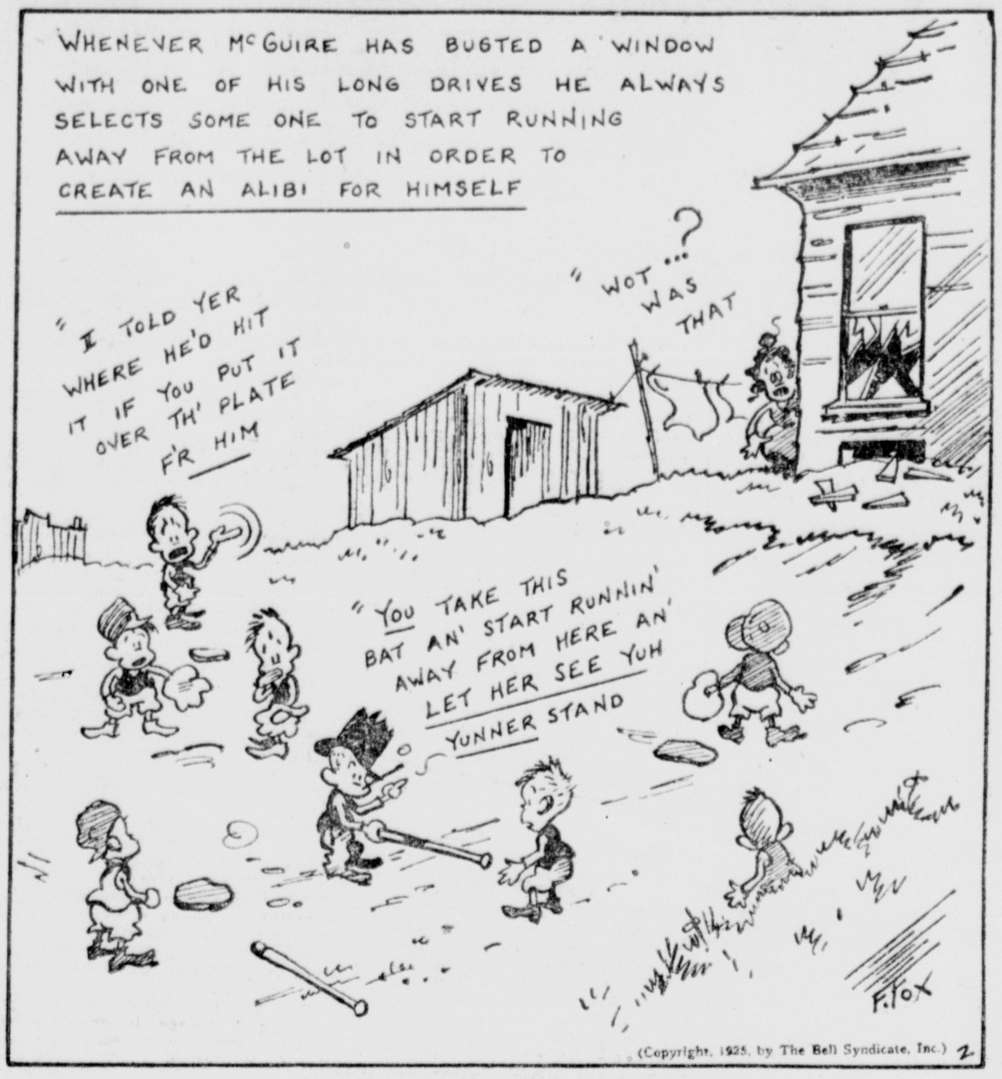

My impressions of Amestrdam is just a blurr. Upon my arrival was a cable from Paris which made it imperative to leave by first train. I had only three hours and a little over and the most important piece of baggage I carry was lost. I felt much like one of those dumb-looking immigrants at Battery Park trying to find his way uptown. I went from one place to another, trying to make myself understood and was always met by a shake of the head, indicating they didn't know what I was talking about. I remembered Mr. Cohen's hotel and sent for him. He gave generously of his time and I was able to find my baggage, catch the train, utterly exhausted.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Trade Commission Procedure.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The federal trade commission has recently announced a change in its rules of procedure. This change is in accordance with the expressed views of Chairman Van Fleet, and, although no official announcement has been made to this effect, it is believed by many to be in compliance with the request of President Coolidge included in his first report to congress.

The prime object of this change is to remove the cause of the many complaints that the method of procedure of the commission is too harsh, but still accomplish the purposes of the law which created the commission. It is also hoped that by this change the commission will be able to catch up on its work and reduce the large docket of pending cases and handle more expeditiously current cases—in a word, get more work done for less money.

The first part of this announcement is not new, but is a reiteration of the policy of the commission in agreeing to handle cases of alleged unfair practices. In part, it says, "In all such cases there must be three parties involved, the respondent, the competitor injured and the public." In cases where the matter is merely a private controversy between competitors, and the interest of the public does not enter into it, the commission will not entertain proceedings. Such matters are redressable in the courts, and it is not felt that it is within the province of the commission to undertake such cases.

The new departure in method of procedure is that the respondent is now to be given an opportunity to show reason why a complaint should not be issued. Under the old order notice and hearing were not given until after complaint had been issued. Many business houses complained bitterly that the issuance of these complaints with the attendant publicity often damaged their business. And they claimed this was particularly unfair in cases where the hearings developed that the respondent was not guilty of the practices charged. A majority of the commission conceded that their arguments were reasonable, and, hence, the change of procedure.

Question of Unfair Practice.

In order better to facilitate a prompt and effective remedy against unfair practices, the following was adopted: "The rule shall be that all cases shall be settled by stipulation except when the public interest demands otherwise . . . and that the chief examiner in accordance therewith, or the board of review, shall bring forward to the commission for such settlement all cases which in their opinion shall fall within this rule with their written recommendation."

Under this rule the commission may say to a respondent, "Look here, we find that you have been doing certain things which in our belief come under the head of 'unfair practices.' Now if you will agree to discontinue these, the case will be dropped with no publicity. However, if it is found later that you are again doing these things the evidence which we hold in this case will be used in a complaint which we will bring."

It is believed that this method not ony protects the public interest but also the respondent an opportunity to mend his ways without his business being damaged in any way.

Complaints are generally filed with the commission by competitors charging some unfair practice. The commission goes over these complaints carefully and those that are found to contain no element of public interest are dismissed. Sometimes it is found that they come under the jurisdiction of another department, such as the interstate commerce commission or the federal reserve board.

If it is found that the complaint is one for the commission it is given to the chief examiner who delegates an investigator to go to the respondent. He tells him that a complaint has been filed with the commission, but in no instance is the name of the person complaining made known. The investigator asks the respondent for his side of the story and testimony is taken. He may then go to the complainant for further information.

After all the evidence has been collected in the case it is turned over to the board of review. This board is composed of three lawyers who are supposed to be impartial in their viewpoint, and to judge each case in an unbiased manner. If it finds that the evidence is insufficient to prove the respondent guilty as charged, it recommends to the commissioners that the case be dismissed. If, however, it feels that a complaint should be filed against the respondent, it immediately notifies him to this effect and sets a date for an informal hearing.

Complaint May Be Filed.

If, as stated before, the respondent proves his point that he is not guilty with which he is charged, the case is dismissed. If he does not accept the offer of this informal hearing, or if he admits that he is doing the things of which his competitor has complained, but for one reason or another will not agree to stipulate, the board goes ahead with its report to the commissioners recommending that a complaint be filed against him.

After the board has recommended a complaint the case is submitted to an individual commissioner. If the commission finds that the evidence leads it to believe that there has been a violation of the law, a formal complaint is issued against the respondent. The respondent is notified and given a specified length of time in which to reply.

The case then goes to the chief counsel, who in turn gives it to a trial attorney, who presents the commission's case at the hearings. These hearings are held at a point which is most convenient to the respondent. Since it would be a physical impossibility for the commissioners to hear personally every case which comes before the commission, a trial examiner is appointed to represent them. He, as in the case of the attorneys constituting the board of review, is supposed to view each case impartially.

After the trial examiner has heard all the testimony on both sides, he submits his report together with the written testimony to the commissioners. If the commissioners find that the complaint is confirmed by the evidence, an order to cease and desist is issued to the respondent.

The federal trade commission, however, has no authority to enforce any order it may issue. Therefore, if the respondent does not see fit to comply with such an order, he may take it into court and ask that it be set aside. If, however, the court sustains the order of the commission, the respondent must obey it. Otherwise he may be charged with contempt of court.

While under the new order of procedure respondents are protected from publicity up to the time a complaint is filed, in the events they do not agree to stipulate and the commission files a formal complaint charging them with certain unfair practices, a public statement of these charges is given to the press. This has been the cause of considerable dissatisfaction among manufacturers who have been so charged. They claim that no publicity should be given the charges until they have been proved, because such publicity injures their standing. It is understood that the commission at the present time is trying to develop some plan which will overcome this difficulty.

Mrs. Adeline Martin Hostess at Pretty Birthday Party

Mrs. Adeline S. Martin was hostess Tuesday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jason H. Brookes, of Pennsylvania avenue, when she celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday anniversary.

The day was spent informally. An elaborate 6 o'clock dinner was served by Mrs. Brookes, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. G. Albert Patterson, at which covers were arranged for 17 members of the family.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Martin's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce, and daughter, Miss Sara, of Steubenville; Robert Pierce of Washington, Pa., and Howard Pierce of Pittsburgh.

April Fool Party

"All-Fools" day was observed yesterday by the ladies of the East Liverpool Country club with a 1 o'clock luncheon, at which many of the courses were surprises. Everything about the party was backwards. Following the dinner, progressive bridge was the diversion of the social hours, the foot table being where the head table usually is. The trophy was awarded to the person having the lowest score instead of the highest. It was one of the most enoyable affairs of the season.

Mrs. F. L. Heal Hostess.

Mrs. F. L. Heal delightfully entertained the members of the B. H. T. O. club last evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Wolfe, of Chester. The social hours were spent with cards and music, after which a two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wolfe. Covers were arranged for 12 guests.

The next meeting will be held April 15 in the home of Mrs. Hugo Miller, of Indiana avenue, Chester.

Marriage is Announced.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Mabel Michaels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Michaels of Harvey avenue, East End, to Oscar E. Talbot of Chester, W. Va. The ceremony took place Tuesday afternoon in Wellsburg, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot left for a honeymoon trip to Cleveland and Chicago. Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents.

Previous to her marriage the bride was employed by the American Porcelain company. The bridegroom is a miner.

Wedding Anniversary Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hunter celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary, in their homes in Moore street, Tuesday evening. Informal social hours were enjoyed following a 6 o'clock dinner, which was served by members of the family. Sweetpeas centered the table, while a color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the appointments. Covers were arranged for Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Edgell and son, Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulmer and son, Jack, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edgell, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Miller and children, Norma and Willard; Mrs. Rose Edgell and son, Francis; Mr. and Mrs. R. Boley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunter and daughter, Margaret.

Pythian Sisters' Inspection.

Beatrice temple No. 21, Pythian Sisters, held its annual inspection last evening. Mrs. Albright, of Lisbon, district deputy, and 50 members and visitors were present. Following the business session, a class of five candidates was initiated. Luncheon was served and informal social hours followed. The social committee chairman was Mrs. Blanche Barrett.

Visitors were present from Lisbon, Chester and Wellsville.

W. R. C. Session.

The Woman's Relief Corps will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the G. A. R. hall, East Fourth and Washington streets, when preparations will be made for the bean bake to be held next Thursday.

Friendly Girls Entertained

Members of the Friendly Girls club was delightfully entertained last evening in the home of Miss Pauline Wilson of May street. A short business session was held, after which music, games and dancing were enjoyed. Miss Margaret Wilson presided at the piano. Miss Margaret Wilson received a trophy in a guessing contest. A luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Mildred Payton. A color scheme of purple and white predominated in the luncheon appointments. Places were arranged for eight guests.

Special guests of the club included Misses Louella Bevington, Margaret Wilson and Wilma Smith.

Denies Wedding Report.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Pauline Hoffman, of Washington street, Newell, to David Bean, of Wellsville, which was made yesterday, is erroneous, Miss Hoffman said today.

Church Class Session.

Class No. 13, of the Second Presbyterian church, will hold a meeting in the social rooms of the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. A coverdish party will follow the business session.

Jolly Fellows' Club Dance.

Seniors Will Stage Play.

Plans are now in progress for the annual senior class play, "Charming," to be presented in the high school auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Darsler, who produced "Kathleen" and "Fi-Fi" last year, will direct the comedy. Mrs. Darsler arrived here yesterday, and a meeting of the senior class was held last evening in the high school to read the play and select roles.

Services in Leibschner Home.

Ladies of the Maccabees and ladies of the G. A. R. will hold services for the late Mrs. William Leibschner tonight at 7:15 o'clock in the home of her son, Carl Leibschner, of Montgomery avenue.

Christian Endeavor Society Meeting.

The Christian Endeavor society meeting, which will be held in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church Friday evening, will be in charge of William Scott, captain of a campaign team. A program of musical and literary numbers will be given. Refreshments will be served.

Philathea Class Food Sale.

The Philathea class of the First United Presbyterian church will hold a food sale in the D. M. Ogilvie annex, Washington street, Saturday afternoon between 1 and 5 o'clock.

Country Club Bridge Party.

The bridge party to be held by the members of the East Liverpool Country club, Friday evening, will be in charge of a committee including Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Harker. Playing will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Trophies will be given and refreshments served.

Veteran Mail Man Dies on Eve of His Reinstatement

HORNELL, N. Y., April — Fifteen minutes after John Hunt, veteran mail carrier, died at St. James Mercy hospital, orders directing his reinstatement in the postal service were received from the white house.

Forced to retire, after 30 years of service, because of ill health, Hunt had been trying since 1920, two years after his forced retirement, to obtain reinstatement. President Coolidge finally signed the order too late.

No man ever succeeded in business by worrying about it.

And There Are Other Alluring Features

Tiny clusters of multi-colored flowers—large drooping flowers — garlands of dainty flowers — Easter millinery delights in employing flowers as trimmings. But on many hats it is not so partial, using ribbons, self materials, pom pons, pins and other jaunty effects to achieve smartness. Though we are featuring these hats at various prices .... we have seen to it that you have a generous selection of shapes and colorings at each price. There are ever so many hats and almost as many delightful style features.

An Almost Limitless Choice

Surprising as it may seem, $5.00 in our Millinery Shop will buy for you a hat that will be flattering to your preference and very easy on your purse. Designed to be crowning glories, wondrously colored and trimmed — yet the price will fit in with the needs and desires of all thrifty women. You may see for yourself a display a-glitter with new lovely hats — hundreds of them just unboxed.

FAT WOMAN LOSES 63 LBS. WITH SAN-GRI-NA

FRENCH PRESCRIPTION A SENSATION AMONG FAT PEOPLE

A RELIABLE AND WELL-KNOWN French Physician prescribes a formula which works wonders for reducing. He used it for years in Europe in private practice, and of late was persuaded to give it up to the general public. Physicians, druggists, nurses now recommend it for the most obstinate cases of obesity. It is a combination of harmless anti-fat ingredients which are put up in a small tablet called SAN-GRI-NA. SAN-GRI-NA, while being absorbed by the system, destroys all fat-forming elements, and safely does away with rolls of fat, EVEN OF LONG STANDING, the reducing is gradual—does not leave one flabby or wrinkled, and is absolutely guaranteed not to have any ill effects; such reliable physicians as Dr. Rudolph, former Health Commissioner, exclusively uses SAN-GRI-NA in his private practice. Although SAN-GRI-NA is recommended by Doctors and Specialists for reducing, it has also been found a great help for high blood pressure, dizziness, puffing, tired feeling, and tones up the entire system.

"SAN-GRI-NA" is a great help to me. I have reduced 20 pounds since I first started to use it." — Mrs. Wm. Parker.

"I have used two boxes of SAN-GRI-NA and I have lost 20 lbs." —Mrs. Dull, Oklahoma.

"I lost 8 pounds with one box of SAN-GRI-NA."—Mrs. Whiting, Springfield, Mass.

"I am very pleased with results. I have lost 14 pounds in ten days."—Mrs. Hay, Vancouver.

"When I first sent for SAN-GRI-NA I had been under the Doctor's care for heart trouble and high blood pressure. After I used SAN-GRI-NA for two weeks, I was so much relieved." —Mrs. Fonquerney.

Mrs. Koster of Brooklyn, writes: "With SAN-GRI-NA, in six weeks I lost 39 pounds of ugly fat, and after years of suffering I was relieved from heart trouble. I can now climb the stairs without puffing, and I have found a wonderful relief. You can use my letter, as well as my name, as I am grateful and wish to help as many of my sisters as I can."

NOTE.—Since SAN-GRI-NA has been introduced in America, it has met with such success that imitations cannot be avoided. Save yourself from disappointment. Ask for, and be sure to get, SAN-GRI-NA. Do not accept a substitute claimed "just as good." On sale at Anderson's, Hodson's, Bulger's or Mathews Medicine Store

Musicians to Meet.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—With the view to helping make "America the Music Center of the World," music teachers and delegates of all federated music clubs in Ohio will come to Columbus to participate in the joint convention of the Ohio Music Teachers' and the Ohio Federation of Music clubs, to be held April 20-24. Musicians of national and international prominence will appear on the program, either as performers or as lecturers. Among these are: Mme. Marguerite Melville Liszinewska, Polish pianiste and faculty member of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music; Clarence Dickinson, New York; Herbert Witherspoon, New York; Maurice Kessler, Oberlin college, and Cecil Fanning, Columbus.

Wild Ducks Appear.

LOGAN—Wild ducks are beginning to appear in large number in the ponds and streams of the upper Hocking valley. Game protectors have issued warnings to hunters to avoid spring shooting, and they are patroling a number of places where the ducks are especially numerous.

facts about Child-birth

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth is entirely unnecessary.

An eminent physician, Dr. J. H. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, during the constant readjustment, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used it. "Pains disappeared in two days after using 'Mother's Friend,'" writes a user. "I owe my life to 'Mother's Friend,'" declared another. Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you.

A Godsend to the Bilious!

At Fifteen She Saw a Life of Suffering Before Her—At Twenty-five She Has Enjoyed Ten Years of Good Health

"I take great pleasure in telling you and all others what a Godsend it was to me when I began taking Beecham's Pills. I am a woman twenty-five years of age and I had been a constant sufferer from bilious attacks followed by severe headaches. About ten years ago, I read an item in the paper concerning Beecham's Pills.

"I gave them a trial and they certainly proved to be wonderful. I have never been without them since.

"I hope all persons who suffer in this manner will not hesitate to try them. I shall continue their use always." Mrs. EDNA DEAN

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY MRS. MORTON

MENU HINT.

Breakfast.
Stewed Prunes or Apricots.
Gems. Bacon and Eggs.
Coffee.
Luncheon.
Fish Flakes. Baked Potatoes.
Spinach. Luncheon Cake.
Tea.
Dinner.
Roast Beef. Brown Potatoes.
Cabbage Slaw. Celery.
Bread. Butter.
Jam and Preserves.
Prune Pie and Coffee.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Fish Flakes and Baked Potatoes—Bake as many potatoes as desired. Cut the baked potatoes in half and scoop out the inside, leaving the shell intact. To the potato add two teaspoons butter, two teaspoons fish flakes, two teaspoons of milk and season to taste with salt, paprika and pepper. Mix thoroughly and return to potato shells. Sprinkle the potato with paprika and cheese. Return to hot oven long enough to melt cheese. Serve hot.

Prune Pie—Take two-thirds pound prunes, one-third cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons lemon juice. Wash prunes and soak in cold water two hours or more. Then cook slowly in same water until soft, remove pits and cut up. Mix the sugar and lemon together. Line the plate with rich pastry, dredge bottom a little with flour and pour the juice and prunes. Dot with batter. Put on upper crust, and make in moderate oven.

Caring For the Invalid.

Miss Gunn, of the home economics department of Columbia University, says that in caring for a sick person in your home you should "never ask the patient what he wants. Let it be a surprise. Then use your ingenuity to make the tray look as pretty and inviting as possible. Have the linen spotless and if you haven't a cloth to fit the tray use a large napkin folded. Choose your prettiest, gayest china and glass. Have cups and pitchers with handles that are easy to hold.

"Do not put too much food on the tray. Do not let foods stand before serving—have hot ones hot and cold ones cold. Cook all cereals long and thoroughly. Season everything very delicately. Give no condiments. Serve little and often, rather than more at longer intervals. Be regular with the meals.

"If you have no bedside table you can buy or perhaps make at home a bed tray with folding legs which fit over the patient's knees. A pillow placed across the lap is a good substitute for both."

Suggestions.

The next time you dye white silk hose, dye some mending silk at the same time and when a hole appears you will have the exact shade of thread for mending it. Wind some white mending silk around your hand to form a hank, and tie so it does not come apart. Hang up to dry, then wind on a spool.

It is most annoying to find unexpectedly that the rubber knobs on one's hose supporters have suddenly become loose, or have been pulled off. Narrow strips of adhesive tape will soon remedy the former difficulty. The later is remedied by the following: First, cut one or two round pieces of tape and place them on top of the metal protuberance; then wind enough narrow strips of tape around the pole to hold the top firmly in place.

Never serve roasts without first removing any skewers or strings that may be attached.

After freezing ice cream draw off all the salt, using four parts of ice to one part of salt. A wet, loose packing will mean soft cream.

To keep bread or cake moist, place a piece of apple in the box with it.

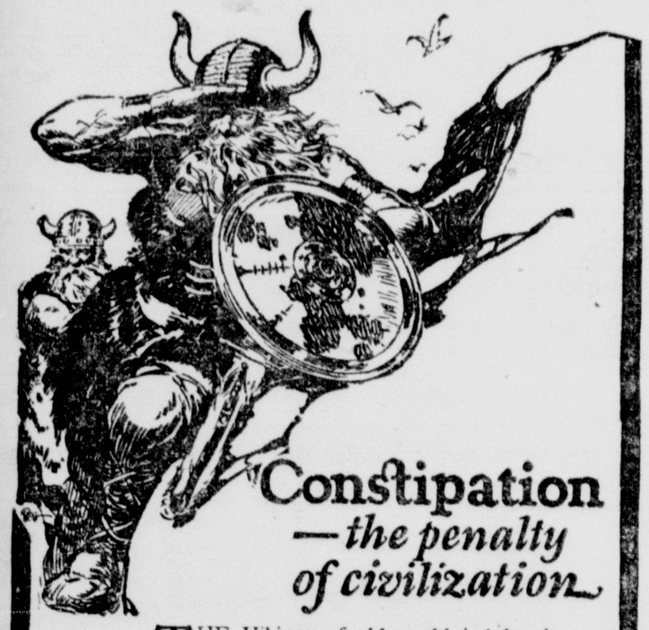

"DIAMOND DYES"
COLOR THINGS NEW

Beautiful home dyeing and tinting is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes. Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades or boil to dye rich, permanent colors. Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings, everything new.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.

Constipation —the penalty of civilization

THE Vikings of old could indulge in huge feasts of heavy foods without dread of constipation. Strenuous physical activity was their safeguard.

Conditions are changed today. Intestines clog, and half-measures such as overnight cathartics, when they work at all, often interrupt sleep or embarrass a person in the daytime.

How different with Pluto Water! It acts in 30 minutes to two hours. It flushes away all the disease-breeding accumulations quickly, harmlessly, without griping—leaves you feeling a new person.

Remember, time counts when you need a physic—appendicitis or pneumonia may develop from delay. Put your trust in quick-acting Pluto. Prescribed by physicians, sold by druggists and bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana.

To-day's Offer to All Who Have Stomach Distress

Try One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin for Indigestion or Any Stomach Trouble and if Not Delighted With the Good Results East Liverpool Druggists Will Gladly Return the Purchase Price.

Why not get a bottle of this grand stomach medicine today with the distinct understanding, that your money will be promptly returned if it does not stop the most acute stomach distress quicker than anything you ever used.

Your stomach may be so distended with gas that you think every minute your heart will stop beating, yet with one desertspoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that dreadful feeling of suffocation will vanish in a few minutes.

With the same speed it stops gas, acidity, belching and heartburn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with Menthol and other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey last year over 6,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis or dyspepsia or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and healthy that you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin, Jesse D. Holloway sells dozens of it.

"Relief From Goitre"

"Almost Beyond Belief," Says Mrs. Ritchie, Shortness of Breath, Choking, Nervousness, Palpitation Soon Vanished.

Mrs. Mary H. Richie, New Paris, Ohio, writes:

"My friends soon remarked how much better I look. The first few applications of Sorbol-Quadruple gave me relief, and now I am completely cured. It's so easy to use. Come and see me or write and I will tell you my experience."

Sold at all drug stores or write Sorbol Company, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Hodson's Drug Store. adv.

Ask Frigate Preservation.

President Coolidge has been asked to aid in the preservation of the Frigate Constitution which was the heavy hitter during the war of 1912. Its threatened condemnation in 1830 inspired Oliver Wendall Holmes to pen his famous protest: "Aye, tear her tattered ensign down, long has it waved on high."

Lads Fool Motorists.

HAYDENVILLE, April — Five little boys took a new automobile tire, to which they fastened a long string, and placed the tire in the state road near here. After about 50 motorists stopped to pick up the tire—only to have it jerked back into the bushes — the youngsters were haled into court and lectured.

Correct this sentence: "I'm dicting," said the wife, "but I keep on preparing fine meals for John."—Akron Beacon-Journal.

"Laddie Boy" Will Soon be Mascot Of Chicago Youths

BOSTON, March — "Laddie Boy," the famous Airedale pet of the late President Harding, is to have a new home. He is going to Chicago to give as a mascot of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic. The boys have contributed to pay the dog's fare to Chicago.

The famous Airedale has gone from high to low degree since he roamed the White House lawns as the first dog of the land. His latest humiliation came recently in West Newton when he was arrested for vagrancy.

You can't tell. The day may come when Mr. Warren will feel like thanking General Dawes for failing to reach his desk in the senate that day.—Columbus Dispatch.

INDIGESTION GASTRITIS

No matter what you call your stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, sourness or just plain misery or distress. Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy is guaranteed to cure you quickly and bring relief instantly or nothing to pay. And all good druggists can supply you. Remember the name—

SENATE FACES BIG PROBLEMS

Bill to License State Chiropractors Causes Heated Debate.

The senate's troubles with the bill to license chiropractors came nearer their end when questions of amendment were disposed of and the bill sent to its third reading. A pending amendment by Senator Hugus which would have required two years' college education for chiropractors, which was withdrawn, and another amendment, which the senate had adopted yesterday was reconsidered. This provided that a chiropractor who had eight years of ordinary school education in addition to that in chiropractic school, and who had practiced for five years, of which three had been in this state, could be licensed without examination. After the vote to reconsider, Senator Hogg, who had presented the amendment, withdrew it, and Senator Kee, sponsor of the bill, offered a similar one except that it required a high school education or its equivalent. This was adopted.

The appointment of Senator Herold, who brought before the senate charges that 1923 acts had been altered after their passage, and Senator Smith as, as members on the committee to investigate these charges, was announced by the president pro tem, Senator Marsh. Speaker Keattley in the house appointed Delegates Underwood, Andrews and Hall, of Mingo county, as the members for that body.

The "loan shark" bill which had already passed the house, providing for 3½ per cent interest per month on loans of $300 or less, was passed by the senate after a debate in which Senator Baker opposed the bill and Senators Willis, Johnson and Cannon defended it as the best means of protecting borrowers of small sums needed to meet distressing emergencies. The bill was passed by a vote of 19 to 5, those voting against it being Senators Baker, Henshaw, Herold, Highland and Kidd.

PANHANDLE MINES STILL OPERATING

Little activity has been shown by the United Mine Workers toward organizing the non-union mines in the Panhandle area of District No. 6. It is the belief in Wellsburgh that this will be among the last fields in West Virginia where steps will be taken toward effecting a miners' organization.

The West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal company, operating three mines in Brooke county, has barely kept its mines in operation during the last year. The domestic demand is supplied by a large number of small wagon mines in the Panhandle district. All mines were closed today for the celebration of Mitchell Day.

Delivers Special Sermon

Large crowd attended the services last evening in the Nazarene church when Rev. B. H. Pocock, pastor, delivered the second of a series of special sermons on the subject, "Trials of Young Converts, or How to Overcome Them." His topic next week will be :"The Lesson of Faith."

STAGE SET FOR BIG PRODUCTION

The opening performance of "Cheer Up," musical production, will be given this evening in the Chester theatre. The production is being staged by the Bock Porducing company of Chicago under the auspices of Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star.

The cast is composed of more than 100 local people including a large number of children who will appear in various roles. Advance sale of tickets points to capacity houses both evenings.

HANCOCK COUNTY BILL REPORTED

Members of the house committee on counties, districts and municipalities favorably reported yesterday at Charleston bills providing for issuance of certificates in Brooks county to build a new jail, and fixing the salaries of the county and circuit court clerks in Hancock county.

CHURCH SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING

Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church will meet at 7:30 this evening in the tabernacle. Following the business session a program will be rendered after which lunch will be served. Mrs. J. E. Allen will have charge of the devotionals.

Hostesses will be: Mrs. George Geren, Mrs. W. Hepler, Mrs. A. Haney, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. R. G. Grandstaff, Mrs. Floyd Hissam and Miss Twyla Hissam.

Preparatory Services

Rev. E. J. Travers of Lonaconing, Md.; will preach at the preparatory services tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church. Communion will be distributed at the services Sunday morning. He is a candidate for the vacant pastorate.

Shop Meeting Tomorrow

Final shop meeting of the season will be held at noon tomorrow in the Edwin M. Knowles pottery. Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathew's Episcopal church, will be the speaker. Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, will be the leader.

Eastern Star Meeting.

Members of Crescent chapter No. 49, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Masonic temple, First street. Regular business will be transacted.

Rector To Speak.

Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathew's Episcopal church, will conduct Lenten services this evening in St. Luke's church at Georgetown. He will have charge of the services here Sunday when palms will be distributed.

Lodge Meeting Held.

Good Luck circle No. 36, Protected Home Circle, met last evening in the I. O. O. F.-K. of P. hall, Fifth street and Carolina avenue. Routine business was transacted.

Recovering from Operation.

Mrs. Ray Reddick, who underwent an operation last week in the Cleveland Clinic hospital, is recovering and will be brought to her home Sunday.

Many Attending Revival.

Large crowds continue to attend revival services in the First Christian church, where Rev. A. E. Sims is delivering the sermons. There will be meeting Saturday evening.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Parted Friends.

Friend after friends departs:
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts
That finds not here an end;
Were this frail wrold our only rest,
Living or dying, none were blest.

Beyond the flight of time,
Beyond this vale of death,
There surely is some blessed clime
Where life is not a breath,
Nor life's affections transient fire,
Whose sparks fly upward to expire.

There is a world above,
Where parting is unknown;
A whole eternity of love,
Formed for the good alone;
And faith beholds the dying here
Translated to that happier sphere.

Thus star by star declines,
Till all are passed away,
As morning high and higher shines,
To pure and perfect day;
Nor sink those stars in empty night;
They hide themselves in heaven's own light.

—James Montgomery.

Biting of Nails Shows Lack of Control Over Nerves

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

EVERYBODY has some bad habit. If you have only one it is a piece of good luck. Most of us have a lot of undesirable habits.

Nervous persons give expression to their feelings in different ways. One will tap on the floor with his foot. He keeps this patter up for hours.

Another will pound the table with his finger tips or knuckles. Another will cross one leg over the other and swing the foot up and down, as if keeping time to music.

You have been driven almost to the verge of madness by your neighbor's constant clicking of the tongue or smacking of the lips. Cracking the joints and making a trumpet of the nose, blowing it on every occasion, are other disagreeable habits.

But it was not of these that I started to tell you. I want to warn against biting the nails. That is an annoyance to others and may do you serious harm.

Girls and women have this habit more than males. It is bad practice for anybody.

The teeth are not intended to be manicure instruments. Hang nails, cuticle and rough nails should not be operated upon, in this way. Scissors are made for this purpose.

Accept my solemn assurance that it does not look well to your friends to see you biting at your nails as savagely as if you were a barbarian gnawing at a bone.

But it isn't because it does not look well, that I warn against nail chewing. It is a violation of the rules of hygiene to put your fingers in your mouth. You may carry and do carry to your lips and tongue the germs of disease.

Fortunately, we can resist most germ invasions. This is particularly true if the tissues of the mouth are unbroken. If there is a sore or a break, the germs may enter and then you don't know what may happen.

Under no circumstances should the fingers be placed in the mouth. It is a filthy habit at best.

Somebody said that "if the salivary glands produced indigo this world would be a blue place indeed." Wouldn't it?

Think of the number of persons who wet their fingers to turn the pages and to count filthy paper money! Every street car transfer would be splashed with blue. All the pencils would be colored.

Take good care of your finger nails, but do not use your teeth for this purpose. Nail biting is a practice which no thoughtful person should follow.

Answers to Health Questions

S. G. B. Q.—What should a boy 18 years of age, 6 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 170 pounds.

• • •

R. T. Q.—What causes gas on the stomach?

A.—This may be due to hyperacidity. For full particulars, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

ARLEEN. Q.—How can one reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is a matter of self control as regards diet. For full particulars on this subject, send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat you question.

• • •

M. J. F. Q.—How much should a girl 14 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 116 pounds.

• • •

RHEUMATISM. Q.—I am troubled with rheumatism in the first joint of the first fingers on each hand. The joints are swollen and painful. My knees are also troublesome. What would you advise? Is there a special diet for this condition?

A.—The treatment for rheumatism depends upon the cause in each case. Massage and application usually gives temporary relief until the further treatment can be advised. For full particulars, send a self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

A. V. Q.—What causes a red nose?

A.—This condition may be due to poor circulation. For full particulars send stamped self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

CONSTANT READER. Q.—What can I do to reduce?

A.—Eliminate from your diet as much as possible starches and sugar. Eat plenty of green vegetables and fresh fruit. Exercise daily in the open air.

• • •

READER. Q.—What should a girl of 14, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 114 pounds.

• • •

T. C. Q.—I am very much troubled with gout in my toes. What can I do to relieve this condition?

A.—The treatment depends on the cause. Very often this condition can be helped by proper attention to the diet. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for further particulars, restating your question.

• • •

C. C. Q.—What treatment and diet would you advise for kidney trouble and lumbago?

A.—A person suffering with kidney trouble should be under the constant care of a physician. The kidney condition is probably causing the lumbago.

• • •

F. J. Q.—What should a girl 18 years of age, 5 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 116 pounds.

• • •

*Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. BARNESVILLE, April. —Mr. and Mrs. Cabries Livezey, of this place, have been named superintendent and matron of Olney college, a Friends' boarding school, situated near here, succeeding Mr. and Mrs. Milliflin Hall, who announced a year ago that they would not continue as heads of the well-known institution after this year. They will return to Damascus, Columbiana county.

'Shingle and Suffer' Is Doctors' Decree To British Women

LONDON, March.—"Shingle and suffer." That in brief is the ultimatum delivered to women by London medical men.

The prevalence of shingling is responsible for the large number of minor but excrusiating ailments that are now prevalent among women, they say.

Neuralgia, neuritis and many other nerve troubles are a few of the ills brought about by shingling, due to the back of the head being suddenly uncovered after it has been used to being covered for years, they declare.

"Bread is the gift of Mother Earth"

It's just as rational for little folks to love Bread as for chickens to cluster round the mother hen.

Bread contains every element needed for growth and development.

It's nature's own perfect food—eat all you want of it. Bread-and-butter or Bread-and-milk make a satisfying meal anytime.

KAISER BAKERY

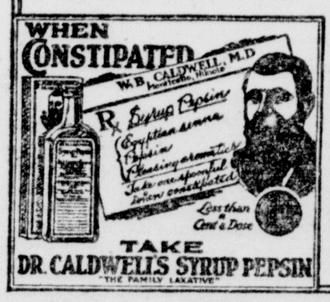

CONSTIPATION means MISERY

Rouge and powder will not cover up the effects of constipation. The bowels are the worst abused and most variously damaged of any organ of the body. When they are clogged, they cause lusterless eyes, dingy complexions, pimples and blackheads, bad breath, headache, bilious attacks, heart burn, acid stomach, belching, depression, nervous exhaustion, chronic weakness and other more serious ills. The bowels should act at least twice daily.

Dr. Caldwell's
SYRUP PEPSIN
The Family Laxative

—will produce proper bowel action and insure a healthy condition so Nature can exercise her proper function. A delightful liquid combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and pleasing aromatics originally prescribed by Dr. Caldwell for ailing patients of his extensive practice and used nationally for the last 30 years by all members of the family.

Acts As Nature Acts! No Inconveniences!

It does not act as a purge, forcing the bowels to artificial action, but gently and easily, without pain or discomfort. 10,000,000 bottles used annually prove its effectiveness. Old people, young people, children and babies can be kept in perfect health through its use.

It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

CHAPTER XX—Continued

"If they so much as put a shot across my bows, up goes their Deputy-Governor to the yardarm. Your only hope, Colonel, lies in the fact that I shall send them word of that intention. And so that you may mend as far as you can the harm you have done, it's yourself shall bear them the message, my lord."

"I'll see you damned before I do," fumed his lordship.

"Why, that's unreasonable and unreasoning. But if ye insist, why, another messenger will do as well, and another hostage aboard—as I had originally intended—will make my hand the stronger."

"Aye, in God's name, go, my lord," spluttered Bishop, "and make yourself obeyed."

Lord Julian bowed stiffly to the cowering Deputy-Governor. "You understand, sir, that I do as you desire," he said coldly.

"Aye, man, aye!" Bishop assented hastily.

"Very well." Blood escorted Lord Julian to the entrance ladder at the foot of which still swung the Arabella's own cock-boat.

"It's good-bye, my lord," said Blood. "And there's another thing." He proffered a parchment. "It's the commission. Bishop was right when he said it was a mistake."

"I am sorry," Lord Julian said sincerely. "I still do not perceive—blister me if I do!—why you should not have found someone else to carry your message to the Commandant, and kept me aboard as an added hostage for his obedience to your wishes."

"My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

Blood's vivid eyes looked into the other's that were clear and honest, and he smiled, a little wistfully. A moment he seemed to hesitate.

"Why shouldn't I tell you? It's the same reason that's been urging me to pick a quarrel with you so that I might have the satisfaction of slipping a couple of feet of steel into your vitals. When I accepted your commission, I was moved to think it might redeem me in the eyes of Miss Bishop—for whose sake, as you may have guessed, I took it. But I have discovered that such a thing is beyond accomplishment. I should have known it for a sick man's dream. I have discovered also that if she's choosing you, as I believe she is, she's choosing wisely between us, and that's why I'll not have your life risked by keeping you aboard whilst the message goes by another who might bungle it. And now perhaps ye'll understand."

"And you tell me this?"

"I tell you because . . . Oh, plague on it!—so that ye may tell her; so that she may be made to realize that there's something of the unfortunate gentleman left under the thief and pirate she accounts me, and that her own good is my supreme desire. Knowing that, she may . . . faith, she may remember me more kindly—if it's only in her prayers. That's all, my lord."

Lord Julian held out his hand. "I wonder whether you are right," said his lordship, "and whether you are not the better man."

"Where she is concerned see that you make sure that I am right. Good-bye to you."

The Arabella sailed within the hour, moving lazily before a sluggish breeze. The fort remained silent and there was no movement from the fleet to hinder her departure.

CHAPTER XXI

WAR

Five miles out at sea from Port Royal, whence the details of the coast of Jamaica were losing their sharpness, the Arabella hove to, and the sloop she had been towing was warped alongside.

Captain Blood escorted his compulsory guest to the head of the ladder. Colonel Bishop breathed freely at last.

"A safe voyage home to you, Colonel, darling," said he in valediction, and from his easy, smiling manner you would never have dreamt of the pain he carried in his breast.

On the mole at Port Royal, under the low, embattled wall of the fort Major Mallard and Lord Julian waited to receive him, and it was with infinite relief that they assisted him from the sloop.

"Anyway, it's not for long," growled the Colonel, finding speech at last. "No, by . . ." He emphasized the assurance by an unprintable oath. "If I spend the last shilling of my fortune and the last ship of the Jamaica fleet, I'll have that rascal in a hempen necktie before I rest." He had purpled in his angry vehemence, and the veins of his forehead stood out like whipcord. "Come, my lord. We must take order about this, you and I."

They went off together, skirting the redoubt, and so through court-yard and garden to the house where Arabella waited anxiously. The sight of her uncle brought her infinite relief, not only on his own account, but on account also of Captain Blood.

"You took a great risk, sir," she gravely told Lord Julian after the ordinary greetings had been exchanged.

But Lord Julian answered her as he had answered Major Mallard. "There was no risk, ma'am. So that Blood's ship were allowed to pass the fort, no harm could come to Colonel Bishop. Blood pledged me his word for that."

Very early next morning, before the heat of the day came to render the open intolerable to his lordship, he espied her from his window moving amid the azaleas in the garden. He hurried forth to join her. He explained himself by the announcement that he bore her a message from Captain Blood.

"He desired me," he said at last "to give you a message that should prove to you that there is still something left in him of the unfortunate gentleman that . . . that . . . for which once you knew him. It is not easy. Stab me, it is not. He was a man who deserved well. And amongst us we have marred his chances: your uncle, because he could not forget his rancour; you, because . . . because having told him that in the King's service he would find his redemption of what was past, you would not afterwards admit to him that he was so redeemed. And this, although concern to rescue you was the chief motive of his embracing that same service."

She had turned her shoulder to him so that he should not see her face. His lordship's unusual nervousness was steadily increasing. "He thought, then—so he told me—that my presence here had contributed to his inability to redeem himself in your sight; and unless he were so redeemed, then was redemption nothing."

"He thought that you had contributed?" she echoed.

"Aye, and he said so in terms which told me something that I hope above all things, and yet dare not believe, for, God knows, I am no coxcomb, Arabella. He said . . . I had gone aboard his ship to demand the instant surrender of your uncle. He laughed at me. Colonel Bishop should be a hostage for his safety. By rashly venturing aboard his ship, I afforded him in my own person yet another hostage as valuable at least as Colonel Bishop. Yet he bade me depart; not from the fear of consequences, for he is above fear, nor from any personal esteem for me whom he confessed that he had come to find detestable; and this for the very reason that made him concerned for my safety."

"I do not understand," she said, as he paused. "Is not that a contradiction in itself?"

"It seems so only. The fact is, Arabella, this unfortunate man has the . . . the temerity to love you."

She cried out at that, and clutched her breast whose calm was suddenly disturbed. "Go on," she bade him.

"Well, then: he saw in me one who made it impossible that he should win you—so he said. Therefore he could with satisfaction have killed me. But because my death might cause you pain, because your happiness was the thing that above all things he desired, he surrendered that part of his guarantee of safety which my person afforded him. If his departure should be hindered, and I should lose my life in what might follow, there was the risk that . . . that you might mourn me. Because of that he bade me leave his ship, and had me put ashore." She looked at him with eyes that were aswim with tears. "Was he right, Arabella? My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

A WORD FOR BEGINNERS.

The best way to solve a cross-word puzzle is to run quickly over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms and compare them to the spaces in the puzzle extending crosswise or downward from the number of the synonym. Some word which will just fit in the number of space available will quickly occur to you in some instances, giving you a foundation from which to solve the more difficult words. The words must interlock perfectly.

TOP OF WORLD' AT CERAMIC

Paramount Feature Photoplay Opens Three-day Stay.

The Ceramic theatre will have an exceptionally fine film attraction beginning today when Paramount's picture version of Ethel M. Dell's famous novel, "The Top of the World," makes its local debut. For those who like vigorous melodrama tinctured with love-interest, this screen play will fill the bill from soup to nuts.

The picture has all the compelling drama you have come to expect in Ethel M. Dell's writings; it has all the consummate acting for which Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis are noted; and it has all the fine finish and dash which only such an experienced director as George Melford could give it. Add to this some extraordinary camera effects of Kirkwood in a dual role; a dynamic storm scene which must be seen in all its vivid realism to be appreciated; a thrilling rescue; and several terrific fights—and you have at least a dozen reasons that account for the lavish praise that has been heaped upon this photoplay by those fortunate individuals who were privileged to get an advance peek at it.

The story centers around a girl who goes to South Africa to seek out her childhood sweetheart, Guy Ranger. Arrived there, she learns to her horror that he is a changed man. His cousin, Burke Ranger, makes her welcome at his farm and promptly falls in love with her. Sylvia finally marries Burke though she believes herself to be in love with Guy, and it is this uncertainty on her part that leads to an amazing chain of events.

But not until the last few moments of the final reel are you absolutely sure how it's all going to come out, and this maintenance of suspense is one of the picture's outstanding qualities. It is largely due to good direction and skillful adaptation and reflects great credit on George Melford, who produced the film and Jack Cunningham who scenarized it.

ROAD WORK WILL BEGIN SHORTLY

Work on a number of road improvements will shortly begin in various parts of Beaver county. During the winter several townships voted to issue bonds for better roadways. The county commissioners plan to spend the money derived from the sale of bonds authorized at the last general election on highways and bridges during the coming summer.

The state highway department has announced that contracts would be awarded for many jobs during the next few weeks, including several in the western part of the state.

BASEBALL TEAMS PLAN FOR SEASON

With the approach of the baseball season a number of teams are in process of formation in this section of the city. Local potteries will be represented in the Y. M. C. A. industrial league as in former years, while the Unique Bible class of the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ will again be in the field with a strong aggregation of players.

Aid Society Meet.

Ladies' Aid society of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church met last evening with Mrs. J. L. Culp in Michigan avenue. Mrs. William Mountz was associate hostess. The regular program was carried out.

Final Shop Meeting.

Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, was the speaker at the final shop meeting today in the Smith-Phillips pottery. Rev. J. L. Culp, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, acted as leader.

Church Society Meets.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ held a meeting today in the parlors of the church. The usual program was followed.

Lodge Meet Scheduled.

Regular meeting of Pennova lodge No. 880, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will be held tomorrow evening in their hall in Mulberry street. Routine business will be transacted.

Boy Scouts Hike.

Rev. W. C. Stokes, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, was in charge of a party of Boy Scouts which took the first hike of the season today back in the country.

Test Well Pumped.

GREAT-GRANDADDY OF ALL CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

NEW YORK WOMAN TELLS HOW HER SEX PICK MEN FOR WHOM THEY VOTE

NEW YORK, April — Has the handsome candidate the advantage in getting the women's vote?

Emphatically not, says Mrs. Caspar Whitney, vice president of the New York State League of Women Voters.

The proof she offers is the fact that our officials are no more Adonis-like now than they were before the women got the vote. (Take that, Mr. Coolidge.)

It is a big mistake to introduce the sex idea at all into politics, Mrs. Whitney feels.

"It has no place there. Men and women must be elected to office because of their fitness and certain qualities that women can bring to the legislative bodies which they would otherwise lack, she believes. But as for asking for immunities or special dispensations, that will not do at all.

"I do not believe that half enough stress is laid on the fact that in politics as well as in matrimony men and women supplement each other. I do not know if there will ever come a time when the legislative bodies of our country will have half women and half men representatives. I am not particularly interested in that. But there must be enough women to represent their interests.

"Inherently women are more interested in the welfare of humanity than men. For generations and generations back women have been the homemakers, while the men have been in the outside business. Especially when the interests of children are under discussion the woman's crusading spirit is awakened. I think that it is very well that things are so. We need women as legislators because they will look out for these things."

"Women choose particular men because they believe them best fitted for the offices for which they are candidates," Mr. Whitney continued. "The question of appearance does not come up for consideration."

Mrs. Whitney has no use for most kinds of old theories. There is this matter of the length of time that women can talk, and talk, and talk about nothing. According to Mrs. Whitney there is nothing to this fable at all.

"Women speakers usually have their facts better in hand than men," she declares.

Raiders Become Firemen.

LAFFERTY, March—Dry enforcement officers became firemen during a raid on a house here when a woman hurled a bottle of moonshine onto a stove. The booze ignited and the flames spread to the woodwork in the room. The raiding officials, aided by neighbors, saved the home. Joe Scattlet was freed on bond, pending hearing on a charge of violating a dry law. His arrest was due to the raid.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Is One of Nature's Danger Signals. A Healthy Bladder Does Not Act at Night.

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Neblett, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloways. adv.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed East Liverpool druggists and druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if his prescription does not banish every sign and symptom of the disease he will gladly return your money without comment.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

How to Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across

Word 4. What mother or the laundress does to the clean clothes.

Word 6. What sick folks take to increase their strength.

Running Down

Word 1. A fruit something like a peach.

Word 2. A conjunction meaning like.

Word 3. Used to hold your stockings up.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How long was Senator Smoot's speech that was made against a bill about shipping which President Wilson favored? O. N. L.

A. The filibustering speech made by Senator Smoot was made the 31st of January, 1915, against the ship purchase bill, a measure greatly desired of passage by President Wilson. Senator Smoot spake eleven and one-half hours.

Q. Who live the longer, industrial or office workers? C. M. T.

A. Dr. Louis I. Dublin, the distinguished statistician, recently stated that the life expectation of industrial workers is eight years less than that of office workers.

Q. Why is hard wheat used in making breakfast foods? P. J. W.

A. The Bureau of Chemistry says that hard wheat makes breakfast foods that do not become mushy like those made from soft wheat.

Q. Why did the Sioux carry a pole with a certain number of eagle feathers attached? D. G. W.

A. The Bureau of American Ethnology says that many Siouan tribes carried as a standard a pole with eagle feathers attached. Sometimes there was a crook at the top of the pole, but there was no specific number of feathers. It was used in keeping the men in order in hunting the buffalo.

Q. Do prisoners in Wilmington, Delaware, receive whipping or the lash for some crimes? J. M.

A. The New Castle county workhouse says that the Delaware laws call for a certain number of lashes at the whipping post as part of the punishment for specified crimes, and this law has been in effect for a very long time. The whipping post is used only to carry out thesentence imposed by the several county courts. Most of the whippers take place at the New Castle county workhouse, located at Greenbank, Delaware, about five miles ouside of Wilmington.

Q. Who made the original plan of the city of Buffalo? L. E. L.

A. Major Charles Pierre L'Enfant.

Q. Are more men or more women color blind? K. E. C.

A. It is said that males are far more likely to be color blind than females (16 to 1). Only one woman in 400 is color blind. The reason for this is partly at least that the development of the gray-perceiving substance is favored by practice and color education.

Q. How does the use of gasoline, kerosene and crude oil compare with the amount used in 1920? E. W. L.

A. In 1920, in the United States the consumption of kerosene was 1,890,000,000 gallons; gasoline, 4,250,000,000;; crude oil, 32,282,000,000. In 1924 the consumption had risen to 1550,000,000 gallons of kerosene; 7,780,000,000 of gasoline, and 31,750,000,000 of crude oil.

Q. Was payment for the Louisiana Purchase made in gold? I. R.

A. Payment for the Louisiana Purchase was not made in actual gold coin or bullion. The exact cost of the purchase was 64,000,000 francs in the form of United States 6 per cent bonds, representing a capital of $11,250,000. The ultimate cost would include not only the par value of the bonds, but also 10 years' interest, the cost of surveying, of government exploration and of selling the lands. In addition the American government agreed to assume and pay the obligations of France to American citizens for French attacks on American shipping. These obligations were estimated at $3,750,000, making a total payment of $15,000,000.

Q. Please give some data about peacocks? L. C. R.

A. The common peafowl is the best known variety of peafowl and has a beautiful plumage. Peafowls are kept largely for ornament. They are quite domestic in their habits and their care and management and feeding is similar to that of turkeys and turkey poults. Peafowl forage widely and only need extra feed during winter and when rearing their young, if they have a good range. From 1 to 5 peahens will pair with one peacock and usually hide their eggs in a secluded spot. Their eggs may be taken from the nest and hatched under turkey hens or common fowls or left to be reared by the peafowl. The young are rather difficult to raise under domestication unless they are given considerable care and attention. Peafowls thrive much better in southern climates than where the winters are cold. The period of incubation is 28 days the same as for turkey eggs.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

New City Circuit For 1925 Planned By Baseball Men Here

Promoters to Form League to Replace Y Industrial Loop

Shop Teams Will Not Re-organize, is Announcement of W. J. Scott, Because of "Existing Conditions and Lack of Prospects;" New Circuit Members Will Hold First Meeting Monday.

A new East Liverpool baseball league, designed to take the place of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial circuit, may be organized within the next two weeks.

The Industrial circuit has been on its sick bed during the long winter months; today its pulse is growing weaker. Before another month it is quite possible its demise will be a mater of history.

"Existing general conditions and lack of prospects for 1925 are not favorable for the reorganization of the Industrial league," said Will J. Scott, Y. M. C. A. Industrial secretary today.

The object of the Industrial league, which staged several very successful seasons, was the enrollment of genuine shop players in the various teams of the circuit, Scott pointed out. But, he explained, it was the tendency to bring in "outside players," who, of course, replaced genuine shop players of lesser ability.

The desire of the Industrial department, he said, was a bona fide shop league, and inasmuch as the customary enthusiasm was lacking this year, and signs did not indicate a revival of interest, it was decided to drop the league for the present season, at least. It is only a temporary arrangement, Scott explained.

Possibly an eight-club league of district teams is the aim of promoters of the new circuit, who include a number of former industrial loop stars, chief among which is McGeehen, erstwhile McLean Tires hurling ace.

Prospect of the circuit will be discussed at a meeting to be held on Monday night in the city hall council chambers, McGeehen announced today.

It was announced that probably a half a dozen industrial plants in the district have already tentatively accepted berths in the new city league, prominent among which are Knowles, Taylor and Knowles, Hall China, the Newell and East End Laughlin plants.

An attempt will be made to enroll Wellsville and Chester clubs in the organization.

LENGLEN-WILLS MAY NEVER PLAY

French Champion Refuses to Play Again in America.

NEW YORK, April 2. — The mountain wouldn't come to Mohammed, in spite of his rather urgent solicitation; so Mohammed, being an obliging gent and withal something of a politician, decided to go to the mountain.

The news that Helen Wills has abandoned any intention she may have had of playing tennis at Wimbledon, England, this year means an indefinite postponement of her inevitable meeting with Mlle. Suzanne of the temperament. Suzanne is like the mountain. She will remain as is; any one desiring closer acquaintance will have to take the initiative.

She had one experience with competitive tennis in America and has no wish for a second. Helen Wills, therefore, faces the alternative of a trip abroad or forever leaving the question of the world's greatest tennis player among women an open issue.

Lost Popularity.

It is a question that every American wants settled with definite finality, since Mlle. Lenglen is far from popular here and her succession of victories over Mrs. Molla Mallory, when the latter was American champion, has more or less rankled.

Not a few experts contend that Helen hasn't the game to beat Lenglen at her best; others feel that the former child wonder, improving with each passing year, will have better than an even chance when the big moment arrives. That she will get Lenglen only in top form is assured., for Suzanne takes no chances. She did once and lived to regret it.

Otherwise, the Wills-Lenglen duel would have taken place last summer, either at Wimbledon or during the Olympic games at Paris. On both occasions Lenglen withdrew before the events started. She wasn't feeling herself and saw no reason to endanger her reputation, even with such a desirable prize as the Olympic title hanging in the balance.

"WE WILL SOUTHPAW THEM TO DEATH THIS YEAR," SAYS OWNER OF CHAMPS

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

TAMPA, Fla., April 2.—The season of 1924, in the American league at least, has gone down in history as "the year of the southpaw revival." But take the word of Clark Griffith that, as far as the world's champion Washington club is concerned last year wasn't "nothin'" compared to what the coming season will be.

CLARK C GRIFFITH

"Last season we had Zachary and Mogridge, the two best southpaws in the big leagues, in my opinion," said Griffith during a practice session of the champs today.

"If Dutch Ruether and Vean Gregg come through this coming season we'll southpaw the American league to death."

Pass that word along to the seven jolly managers now engaged in building up something in the nature of a baseball machine that can check the Senators in their efforts to hold the American league pennant.

"Zachary, in my opinion, is the best southpaw in the business today," said Griffith.

"He knows what he is doing every minute. He goes at his work in that manner. He has just as much control as any right hander.

"Mogridge is a veteran, but he still has his stuff. He should have just as good a season this year as he enjoyed last."

Griffith realizes that Ruether is a long gamble. He would not have consented to the signing of the former Brooklyn, Cub and Red leftie had he not felt that Manager Harris could do something with the erratic one.

Gregg Counted Upon.

Vean Gregg, 40-year-old veteran from the Pacific coast, had not arrived the day I watched the Senators. As I have said before, however, if he retains much of the wizardry of that left arm of his, including the wide, sweeping curve he boasted when with Cleveland 10 years ago, he will add a few victories to the Washington list.

Zachary and Mogridge, between them, turned in 31 victories for the Senators last season. Mogridge won 16 and Zach 15. The latter, however, lost but nine games and Mogridge was defeated 11 times.

With Seattle Gregg won 25 and lost 11 games. Ruether was of little use to the Brooklyn Dodgers, however. He managed to win eight games and lost 13. Had he turned in as good a record for the Brooklyn team as Zachary and Mogridge did for the Senators the Dodger team might have had a look-in in the National league.

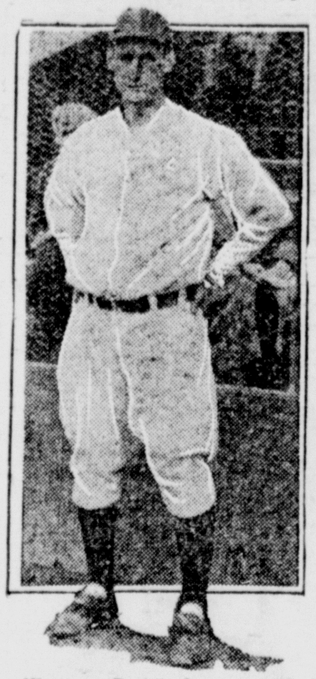

Ruether seems satisfied with conditions this year—for the first time in many years. He is looking forward to a good season.

This may or may not mean anything. Dutch has been chasing the elusive baseball rainbow ever since he broke in with the Cubs, along about 1917.

But leaving Ruether out of it, the Senators seem set to carry out Griffith's warning that they will "southpaw the American league teams to death."

So start the funeral dirge early.

Pennsy Fans Say He Will Deliver in Fast Society

Walter "Peck" Lerian will not only make good with Birmingham in the Southern league but will climb to the big show, say fans of York, Pa. Lerian was rated the best catcher in the New York-Pennsylvania league last year.

Buffalo Bowlers Top Foes in A. B. C. Games

BUFFALO, April 2.—Buffalo bowlers, having languished in obscurity since the start of the A. B. C. tourney, today found they had become famous over night as a result of the performance of the Blue Ribbons and the Whissel Lumber five in the five-man event last night. By sensational scoring throughout, they piled up huge totals and today found them resting in first and second places respectively.

Led by Lefty Long, the Blue Ribbons gained the leadership with a splendid total of 3,023 with the Whissel Lumber contingent right on their heels with 2,987. The two bison outfits displaced the North Center Alleys of Chicago without trouble, the former leaders having a total of 2,937. This was the only change among the leaders of the various diversions within the last 24 hours.

Cross Work Flag.

OBERLIN, April — The Oberlin college class flag will contain 252 pieces on cross-work style with the name of each member of the class inscribed on the flag. Girl members of the class will start making the flag tomorrow.

HAGEN RESUMES TITLE DEFENSE

Prepares for Final 36 Holes in North-South Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—With his title hanging in the balance, Walter Hagen today prepared to give stern chase over the final 36 holes to MacDonald Smith and other leaders in the annual north and south open golf championship. Smith topped the field this morning with a brilliant score of 138 over the first half of the 72 hole test and is in a splendid position for the final drive to the wire.

He is four strokes beyond Leo Diegel in the runner-up position with Hagen in third place at 144 strokes and Cyril Walker, national open champion, one stroke to Walter's rear. Alex Ross, of Detroit, also may prove dangerous. His total is 146.

Johnny Farrell, with 149, Bob MacDonald, 150, Joe Kirkwood and Emmett French 151, and Fred McLeod, 152, have an outside chance to finish in the money, while Jim Barnes, Jock Hutchison, Mike Brady and other stars, have been distanced.

Says Mullins Erred In Passing Up Tom

NEW YORK, April 2.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight challenger, was quoted today as declaring that Paddy Mullins, his manager, had made a mistake in failing to sign for a bout with Tom Gibbons when offered a big guarantee by promoters of the milk fund show.

"Certainly I want to fight Gibbons," Wills said, when asked about his stand in the controversy. "I want to fight anybody they can get for me. I realize that Mullins has placed me in a bad light, but what can I do about it? He is my manager and I've got to do what he says."

Last Night's Fights

New York.—Abe Goldstein, New York, knocked out Al. Felder, New York, ninth round. K. O. Phil Kaplin, New York, got decision over Frankie Vinchell, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., ten rounds.

At Philadelphia.—Mike Ballerino, Bayonne, N. J., won judges' decision over Steve "Kid" Sullivan, Brooklyn, and won the junior lightweight championship title, ten rounds.

Al. Markle, Phila., won technical knockout from Harry Gordon, New York, eighth round. Archie Walker, New York, stopped Jack Darcy, Philadelphia, second round. Joe Nelson, Philadelphia, won on technical knockout ocver Elino Flores, of the Philippines, 8 rounds.

Edinburgh, Scotland, is clearing away its slums and is building homes for the dispossessed tenants of the 600 rookies.

HOW GLANDS CONTROL HEALTH, STRENGTH, VIGOR

Eminent Scientist Reveals Startling Facts About the Vital Glands and Their Functions — Tells Why Every Man and Woman Should Strive to Keep the Important Glands in Perfect Condition.

Through a New Scientific Discovery the Glandular System May Be Assisted in Its Work of Supplying the Energizing Glandular Secretions Which Are So Necessary to Life and Health—Thousands of Men and Women Are Now Taking Glandogen to Help Regain Health and Strength, and Overcome a Weakened, Rundown, Nervous, Exhausted Condition.

Science discovers that a man is worth only as much as his glands

Now that men and women are turning to glandular treatment for restoring former youthful power and vigor, it is well that opinions of certain eminent authorities be quoted at this time. That every organ of the human body depends upon the glands for proper functioning is stated by Dr. Serge Voronoff, who has devoted years of study and experiment to Organotherapy. It is Dr. Voronoff's opinion that the brain, the nerves, the muscles, as well as the liver, the kidneys and all other organs, would be incapable of playing any useful part without the aid of the glands. The functioning of our organs is no more than the result of the activity of our glands, and when the bodily functioning is disturbed, the cause, in most cases, should be sought, not in the condition of the organ itself, but in the condition of the gland which controls it.

Glands that function perfectly are responsible for desired qualities which should exist in every normal man or woman.

This is the opinion of an eminent American surgeon, who states that the courage of the soldier and the harm of the vivacious woman are largely dependent upon the activity of the thyroid gland.

Glands which have become inactive or weakened should be nourished in order that they may supply the blood with their vital secretions.

As Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands, "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals."

These extracts are now administered as a glandular compound in accordance with the remarkable discoveries and facts revealed by research over a period of some thirty years. Glandogen is a glandular compound prepared from a scientific formula which combines the important elements of healthy glands of young animals with other efficacious ingredients. It comes in simple, convenient, compact tablet form. Men and women who are weak and run-down, thin and under nourished, physically and mentally tired, who have lost the pep and virility of former days, whose systems are undergoing a change that is sapping their strength and vigor, should heed the words of these eminent scientists and regain once more the health, strength and happiness that come from normally active glands.

Try this ten-day test: Take two Glandogen tablets three times a day for ten days, then see for yourself if you don't feel stronger and better in every way. Do not be satisfied with any so-called gland pill—insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

O.S.U. Eleven Starts Work

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.—Work of building the sub-structure for Ohio State's 1925 football team was well under way today. Formal spring practice opened Monday with the opening of the spring quarter.

The spring campaign will last three weeks, according to the plans of Dr. J. W. Wilce. The present spring practice marks the beginning of his thirteenth year at Ohio State in charge of football. He came here from the University of Wisconsin in the spring of 1913.

Upwards of 50 candidates are working in spring practice under the direction of Dr. Wilce and the assistant coaches. Of these the great majority are recruits from last fall's freshman squad and reserves from the 1924 varsity.

The 1925 spring training is being patterned somewhat after that of last fall. The players are distributed among the "A," "B," "C" squads according to their apparent ability. In addition to practice as such, one or more practice games are in prospect each week among the several squads.

Approximately a dozen letter men are available from last fall, several of whom just now have scholastic difficulties to remove. In addition, there are a dozen promising freshmen, several of whom are in the same boat with the "O" men just mentioned. For once, comparatively few of the football men are toiling with other squads' Mackey, tackle, is a catcher on the ball team, on which Matty Karow, fullback last fall, is the shortstop.

BALLERINO IS NEW CHAMPION

Wins Junior Lightweight Title From Steve Sullivan.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Mike Ballerino is junior lightweight champion today. The 24-year-old Bayone, N. J., lad took this title from Steve "Kid" Sullivan, of Brooklyn, here last night in ten fast rounds. It was one of the most spectacular encounters that Philadelphia fight fans had witnessed in many years.

Ballerino took the lead at the opening of the fight and kept it up to the end, beating his foe in almost every round. Though Sullivan was a more clever boxer, according to the referee, he could not stand the pace the New Jersey boy kept up.

The crowd caught by Ballerino's frenzied fighting and cheered the new champion through the fight.

In the sixth round, Sullivan thought he had a chance to finish Ballerino and put over two wicked rights to the jaw.

Ballerino took both of them and came back battling harder than ever.

The two judges, John Steffens and John Kofoed, and Referee "Pop" O'Brien, gave the fight to Ballerino. They agreed that Sullivan got the first and seventh rounds only.

AMERICA MAY GET OLYMPICS

Los Angeles Has Big Chance A. A. U. Officials Say.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—More than an outside chance existed today that the Olympic games of 1928 would come to America and that Los Angeles would be the honored city. That much was admitted by A. A. U. officials, who, however, amplified their remarks on the subject by declaring that Amsterdam, Holland, the original awardee, would be given every chance to prove that they can take their Olymuics or leave them alone.

The Dutch, thus far, have been very austere about the proposition; in fact have been pleased to indicate that they regard the proposed Olympic appropriation of one million florins as very important money. Their idea of foot racing is that it is something you do with the treadle of a sewing machine.

A meeting of the American Olympic committee has been called two weeks hence to consider the situation in detail and perhaps offer the Dutch some free and highly inexpensive advice. In some quarters, it is felt that Amsterdam is playing the game along the lines followed by the French last year, when they threatened to let the games go by default in order to accelerate national patriotism and individual contributions.

Shanks Jack of All Jobs

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., April 2—Howard Shanks, former Washington and Red Sox player, is a welcome addition to the Yankee family. Shanks is a high-class ball player, one of the finest in the league.

Though Howard is slated to succeed Mike McNally as Yankee infield utility man, he admitted that he never played an infield position until five years ago.

"I guess I just naturally drifted into infield work," said Howard. "As a kid I always was a catcher, and I used to catch on our kid teams back home. I live in the outskirts of Pittsburgh. We had a semi-pro team out there, and they offered me a job at $3.00 a game. As they had a catcher, they put me in the outfield.

"I started in organized baseball as an outfielder with East Liverpool and Griffith got me from Youngstown in 1912. After I played five years in the outfield for Washington, Griffith asked me one day whether I could play the infield.

"I told him I never had played an infield position, but that I was willing to try. He said, 'All right, see what you can do around third base.'

"After that I never knew what position I would be asked to play. Before every game I would ask Griffith where he wanted me to play. I played third, shortstop, second, first and all three outfield positions before I left Washington."

Many a political candidate stands on his record for the purpose of keeping others from getting at it.—Martins Ferry Times.

MOTOR-KLEEN
TRADE MARK

IS YOUR CAR HARD TO START AT THIS TIME OF YEAR?

If so, it is because the cylinders and pistons are covered with CARBON—caused from choking the motor with raw gasoline. The OLD WAY to remove this carbon was to take off the head and laboriously scrape it out

BUT THE NEW AND MODERN WAY TO REMOVE CARBON IS WITH MOTOR-KLEEN

A pint can—enough to clean 16 cylinders—costs but ONE DOLLAR and your money will be cheerfully refunded if it does not work to your entire satisfaction.

1,106 DISTRICT SCHOOL PUPILS

A. D. Osborne, superintendent of Grant district schools, announced today that the total enrollment of the district is 1,106, an increase of more than 100 over last year's figures.

The figures for the various buildings follow: Whites—Newell, 284 boys, 275 girls; Grandview, 72 boys, 68 girls; Franklin, 27 boys, 16 girls; Sheppards Valley, 21 boys, 16 girls; Allison, 29 boys, 32 girls; Washington, 27 boys, 21 girls; Ellwood, 21 boys, 19 girls; Brooklyn, 17 boys, 19 girls; Glendale, 36 boys, 34 girls; Congo, 22 boys, 27 girls.

Colored students—Newell, 3 boys, 1 girl; Grandview, 3 boys, 4 girls; Allison, 2 boys; Congo, 1 boy, 1 girl.

Robbery Suspect Sentenced.

Weirton police yesterday arrested a colored man, known as "Florida Kid," who was wanted in connection with robbing a clothing store there last Saturday. He is said to have entered the store with drawn revolver and after lining up the shoppers helped himself to many articles of value. He was arraigned in police court later in the day and was fined $500 and sentenced to one year in the county jail at New Cumberland.

Arthur Wells To Lecture.

NOONDAY MEETS IN THREE SHOPS

Final shop meetings of the season were held at noon today in three local potteries by East Liverpool pastors.

Rev. J. F. Dimit, of the First Methodist Protestant church, spoke in the Edwin M. Knowles plant, where Rev. J. A. Schrader, of the Newell Methodist Episcopal church, was the leader.

Rev. O. L. Benedum, pastor of the Nazarene church, made the address in Laughlin No. 4 plant, while Dr. D. W. MacLeod, of the First Presbyterian church, spoke in Laughlin No. 6. W. H. Nagel acted as leader.

Baseball Candidates Practice.

Newell high baseball candidates are holding daily practice sessions for the opening game with Chester high which probably will be staged Saturday on the latter's diamond. Coach George Kidder has a promising squad.

Games will be booked with scholastic teams of Hancock and Columbiana counties.

Will Attend Eastern Star Show.

Local Masons and their families plan to attend the production of "Cheer Up," which is to be presented tonight in Chester under the auspices of the Eastern Star lodge of which many local women are members.

Likely To Recover.

BLAINE, April — John Bogus, found starving in the basement of a local garage, is expected to recover. For a time, he was believed to be dying. Lacking funds, Bogus hid for a week in the garage, and, so far as is known, had nothing to eat during that period.

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the Hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt."—Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say, "Yes" and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.
